Outlines Plans for a Balanced Budget.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—In his farewell annual message on the state of the Union, transmitted to congress today, President Hoover recommended a sales tax, reduction of the pay of the federal bureaucracy and other economies as the means of balancing the still unbalanced budget.

He informed congress that his budget for the fiscal year 1934, to be submitted tomorrow, will propose expenditures aggregating $30 millions of dollars less than the 4 billion 800 millions so far appropriated for the present fiscal year.

He promised a beginning within a few days on the reorganization of the administrative branch of the government, provided for in the economy act of the last session.

Three Courses Recommended.

For the most part the message dealt with the economic problems produced by the depression. The President advanced three courses of action all of which in his opinion are essential to economic recovery. They are:

1. Reduction of the cost of federal, state and local government and balancing of the federal budget.

2. Reorganization of the banking system, the weakness of which aggravated "the shocks to our economic life."

3. Coöperation with other nations to remove trade restrictions and strengthen commodity prices.

The message stirred mixed emotions on Capitol hill. Most of the Republicans and some of the Democrats gave it varying degrees of praise while most of the Democrats were critical of its contents.

Prohibition Reform Not Mentioned.

Some legislators, noting the President's complete silence on prohibition reform and on farm relief and his brief dismissal of other matter of great public interest, viewed the message as the swan song of a lame duck.

"The message deals with questions that require a solution at this session," Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the senate, commented.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the senate, thought the banking reform recommendations too indefinite and the economy proposals belated.

Speaker and Vice President Elect John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.] agreed with the President on many recommendations, "particularly in the matter of expenditures and economy." Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house, indorsed everything in the message.

Britten Hails Economy Plans.

Representative Fred A. Britten, Illinois Republican, believed the congress should "accept with open arms" the President's promise to cut the budget by $30 millions and his recommendations for a general sales tax.

The Illinois congressman had a less laudatory comment, however, concerning Mr. Hoover's disarmament plans. "The President's hoped-for ultimate success of the world disarmament conference reminds me of rainbow chasing," he said.

More Revenue Needed.

The special manufacturers' excise and the nuisance taxes imposed by the revenue act of the last session Mr. Hoover pronounces a disappointment as to yield. As a result there is already a deficit of 750 millions of dollars with less than half of the current fiscal year elapsed.

In addition to reducing expenditures it will be necessary to raise more revenue and for this purpose the President recommends a general sales tax on "practically all manufactures at a uniform rate, except necessary food and possibly some grades of clothing."

The construction of public works has about reached the saturation point and in the future, the President thinks, should be confined to self-liquidating projects as an aid to employment. His budget will reduce the outlay for public work from 717 millions this year to 443 millions next year and he thinks 200 millions annually thereafter would be ample.

In addition to the payless furlough system which reduced the pay of government employés 8 1-3 per cent and which he would continue, Mr. Hoover recommended an 11 per cent reduction for one year of pay in excess of $1,000. To those subject to the reduction this would be an aggregate average pay cut of 14.3 per cent.

Despite the fact that in a campaign

MYSTERY MAN KILLS SKIPPER OF STRANGE SHIP

Crew Includes Noble Briton, 8 Women.

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The yacht Carma, with its strange "crew" of eight men and eight women—one of the able seamen was a British lord—did not start on its announced cruise to the South Sea islands today. Her skipper, the picturesque Capt. Walter Wanderwell, world girdling traveler and one time international spy, never will sail again.

Late last night a middle aged stranger in gray tweeds went aboard the Carma in the harbor and asked to see the captain. His request was granted and the two men went into the cabin together. Then a shot cracked.

The crew, male and female, assembled in the cabin. Capt. Wanderwell, with a single bullet hole through his head, lay dead. The stranger in gray was gone. There was no trace of him. His method of departure was as mysterious as his coming. The straining ears of the watch could hear no rowlocks grating in the mist. The only feasible theory is that the killer leaped overboard; but if he did no one heard the plunge.

Quiz Briton, Actress, Writer, Etc.

All through the day the police have been trying to find some motive for the crime, as well as seeking the identity of "the man in gray." They have questioned the noble Britisher, Edward Eugene Fernando Montagu, who says he is the son of the duke of Manchester; they have quizzed Mary L. Smith, Georgia author; Eugenia Nobel, actress; Mrs. Elsa Wills, New York housewife, and the other members of the romantic crew who had planned to set out in the leaky old Carma for the sunny atolls of the mid-Pacific.

From these and from the handsome Aloha Wanderwell, widow of the adventurous captain, they learned important facts. The star witnesses were Montagu and Wanderwell's widow.

Mrs. Wanderwell alone could give a clew to the killer. She had not been on board, as were all the others, when the killing occurred. Yet she would be able, she was sure, to identify the gray clad man.

Names Mysterious "Guy."

"It might have been Guy," she declared. "In fact, I am sure it was he. That's the only name I ever knew for him. He went with us once before on a cruise to Africa and was put ashore when he attempted mutiny.

"Two weeks ago Guy came to our apartment in Hollywood. He demanded to see the captain. They quarreled, about what I don't know. Then they fought. Guy tried to strangle my husband, but was beaten off and left, threatening to get even for being marooned and for being beaten."

Montagu then told his story.

"Just call me an adventurer, a remittance man from England. For four years I have been in the states and in Canada. I signed up as a seaman on the Carma and was in the crew's quarters when the shot was fired."

His statements were most interesting when the police asked him if he owned any firearms. Dr. F. A. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, had decided the pistol with which Wanderwell was killed was a .38 caliber weapon of American make.

Talks of Pistol Loan.

"Yes," volunteered the Englishman, "I own a pistol of that make and caliber, but I lent it to an American friend a few days ago and he lent it to another friend of his. Perhaps you should look into who has it now."

The police are investigating that angle, theorizing that if the pistol of Montagu could by any chance be traced to the hands of the vanished Guy a long step forward would be taken in the investigation.

The police were supplied by the widow with a picture of "Guy." They showed it to Harry Greenwood, an employé of a gambling barge. He identified it as that of a man he saw near the Carma's dock after the shooting.

From the testimony it was apparent that the coming of the gray clad man was as strange as his disappearance. That part was explained by Cuthbert Wills, also an Englishman, hired by Wanderwell as engineer.

Tells of Seeing Stranger.

"We heard him first at a screened porthole. He was asking for Capt. Wanderwell. He was a quiet looking bloke in a cap. I said: 'Are you the electrician?' He answered back: 'I know plenty about electricity.' So I led him up to the captain, who was standing on the deck.

"They went away. That's all I

An exchange of correspondence in which Federal District Judge James H. Wilkerson asked President Hoover not to resubmit to the senate his nomination to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals was made public in Washington yesterday.

The President expressed deep regret that Judge Wilkerson wished his name withheld and praised his "contribution to the standing of the judiciary."

Judge Wilkerson's letter indicated that his decision was prompted by statements of Democratic leaders, immediately after the election, that they would block confirmation of pending Hoover appointments.

Judge Wilkerson's Letter.

"Senator Glenn tells me," his letter to the President said, "that you have indicated your willingness to resubmit my nomination. Despite two favorable reports by the subcommittee it was not acted upon at the last session. In the light of recent statements by those who unquestionably have the power to make them effective there seems to be no reason to expect a different result at the coming session. I wish, therefore, that my nomination be not resubmitted."

"I deeply regret that you have come to this conclusion," wrote President Hoover in reply. "I should have been proud to submit your name because I am confident that the people at large feel as I do the important and devoted service you have given and the high contribution you have made to the standing of the judiciary of the United States."

May Affect Judge Johnson.

If Judge Wilkerson's analysis of the political situation is correct, Judge George E. Q. Johnson's chances of confirmation by the senate are not good, observers said. Judge Johnson, former United States attorney, was nominated to the federal District bench during the summer recess. United States Attorney Dwight H. Green also received a recess appointment.

President Hoover appointed Judge Wilkerson to the Appellate bench early this year, largely, it was believed, as a reward for his conduct of the income tax trial of Al Capone.

The nomination was reported out favorably by a vote of 3 to 2 by the senate judiciary subcommittee, after stormy hearings in which the judge was defended by leaders in the American Bar association and assailed by representatives of labor.

Labor Hits Injunction.

The opposition of labor was based on Judge Wilkerson's injunction against railway shopmen in the national strike of 1922.

The nomination was returned to the senate subcommittee for further hearings and again approved by a vote of 3 to 2, but the senate adjourned while the matter was before the full judiciary committee, of which Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.] is chairman.

POLICE THROW COLD WATER ON A LADY'S FEARS

In response to an emergency call, Policemen William Kelly and Patrick Fitzgerald of the Chicago avenue station hurried last night to the apartment of Mrs. George Sevey at 210 East Pearson street.

"A bomb," she said.

She pointed to a small paper wrapped package resting on the floor at a respectful distance. The package, addressed to her, had been mailed by Mrs. M. C. Lloyd of Kirkwood, Mo. The policemen examined the package—optically—remembering the recent Solomon Smith infernal machine, while Mrs. Sevey explained that she did not know Mrs. Lloyd of Kirkwood, Mo.

Finally, Kelly and Fitzgerald, following the elementary instructions in the policeman's manual on bombs, doused the package in a pail of water and removed it after five minutes of submersion.

Then they opened the package. It was not a bomb, but a bottle of French perfume sent by Mrs. Lloyd for Mrs. Sevey's daughter.

Gang Kills 2 on N. W. Side In Beer War

Two men, believed to have been engaged in the beer and alcohol racket in Melrose Park, were shot to death late last night at Cumberland road and Irving Park boulevard, just inside the northwest city limits.

They were Nicholas Maggio, 26 years old, a cousin of Police Lieutenant Paul Maggio of Melrose Park, and Anthony Persico, 29 years old, formerly of 138 North 24th avenue, Melrose Park. The identifications were made by county highway policemen who had known the victims as racketeers.

Youths Come Upon Killers.

Apparently the shooting was deliberately planned. Two youths, Elmer and Leonard Guge of Roselle, driving west in Irving Park boulevard shortly before 11 p. m., came upon three new automobiles drawn up at the roadside.

By the cars stood a half dozen men. The Guges stopped to offer help. One of these men, displaying a pistol, told them to drive on and fired several shots at their car as they did so. Then the Guges heard the other shots; they estimated the number at a dozen.

Touhy Gang Territory.

Those, in the opinion of Coroner's Investigator Charles Reynolds and Chief of Police Leo Grosch of Schiller Park, were the shots that killed Maggio and Persico.

The victims are believed to have been slain for trying to muscle in on lucrative beer territories northwest of Chicago. This territory has been regarded in the past as the property of the so-called Roger Touhy gang.

Acting on information given by Maggio's wife, Irving Park police went to the home of John H. Rooney at 1220 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, this morning and took him into custody for questioning. He is a business agent for the Bill Posters' union and a brother of William J. Rooney, leader of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, who was murdered in March, 1931. Mrs. Maggio told police that her husband had intended visiting Rooney's home.

RAZOR SERVES AS SCALPEL FOR THIS OPERATION

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—An old straight edge razor was the scalpel, corn whisky the antiseptic, and a hastily sterlized sugar sack the bandage as two Pittsburgh surgeons, lost on a hunting trip, performed an emergency operation in the hills behind Dubois.

Dr. Paul B. Steele and Dr. Lloyd W. Johnson, staff surgeons at Allegheny General hospital, on the way to a hunting camp, were caught in a blinding rainstorm and sought refuge in a lonely hut. There they found an oil driller in a bunk, one knee and leg seriously infected.

The operation, done under the light of a flickering oil lamp, was successful.

Hearing Will Speed Collier Bill to Vote

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Legalization of beer and wine at this session of congress became the goal today of the drive against prohibition.

The modification campaign will start full speed ahead tomorrow morning with the opening of hearings on the bill introduced in the house today by Chairman James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.] of the ways and means committee.

The measure calls for modification of the Volstead act to permit beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content by weight, or slightly less than 3.5 per cent by volume, and "nonintoxicating" wines.

Democratic leaders bent on fulfilling their campaign pledge, together with Republican wets, regarded yesterday's defeat of the Garner repeal resolution in the house as a severe setback but also as a signal to redouble their efforts for a beer bill. Their aim, Mr. Collier said, is a beer vote in the house before Christmas.

Several Other Bills.

Though the most important of the beer bills by virtue of the fact that it will be the basis of the legislation finally considered, the Collier bill was by no means the only proposal.

Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, militant Democratic wet, gave notice to his colleagues that he intended to introduce a modification bill fixing no alcoholic percentage but legalizing all malted liquors and wines low enough in alcoholic contest to be "nonintoxicating."

Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, leading wet on the Republican side of the senate, also served notice that he would offer a bill, in his case one exempting from the provisions of the Volstead act all beers, ales, porters, and fruit juices containing 3.2 per cent or less of alcohol by weight, or 4 per cent by volume.

Representative Harry C. Canfield [Dem., Ind.] introduced a 2.75 beer bill containing restrictions against the saloon. One by Representative Harry A. Estep [Rep., Pa.] called for outright repeal of the Volstead act.

Prepare for the Hearings.

Forty-two witnesses speaking for the anti-prohibition side, and representing the medical profession, brewers, foreign and domestic wine interests, boxmakers, glass manufacturers, cooperage industries, labor unions, hotel associations and other groups, have already been placed on the schedule of witnesses to appear before the house ways and means committee.

Six dry organizations have listed representatives and others are expected to send spokesmen.

Provisions of Collier Bill.

As drawn the Collier bill would tax beer $5 a barrel and wine 20 cents a gallon, or approximately 2 cents a pint bottle of beer and 5 cents a quart of wine. Brewers would be required to obtain permits, no permit to be issued for manufacture where the state laws prohibited it.

Chairman Collier expects the revenue to total 300 millions a year.

The bill of Senator Tydings proposes a tax of 16 cents a gallon and contains a provision requiring the revenues after the third year to be turned into a federal fund for jobless relief.

In addition to the beer bills, various repeal resolutions also were introduced. Representative F. H. La Guardia, New York radical, reintroduced the Garner resolution.

Postal inspectors seeking trace of five bandits who held up a mail carrier and an armed guard yesterday morning and obtained registered mail valued at $500,000 which was being carried to the First National bank, turned last night to an examination of lists of applicants for extra postoffice work during Christmas holidays, and an investigation of gangsters in general.

Only one of the robbers can be identified, the victims informed authorities. The handkerchief that shielded the features of one slipped as they were getting away, and his face was seen by the mail man and guard.

Two of Bandits Described.

Descriptions of two of the bandits were given as follows:

No. 1—The apparent leader, 25 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weight 160 pounds, stout, ruddy complexion, round full face. Wore a light colored cap, a red sweater, and no coat or overcoat.

No. 2—About 25 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weight 150 pounds. Wore a black overcoat and a light gray hat.

The robbery was a daring daylight venture, its success aided by a fog and the chance withdrawal of twenty policemen from the loop an hour before. The bandits, masked with handkerchiefs, jumped from an automobile in Clark street near Adams street and overpowered the mail carrier and the guard a minute or so after the two had left the federal building by the Adams street door. In a few moments they were speeding north in Clark street with the mail bag containing $500,000 worth of securities. Their automobile, a small new car with no license plates, eluded pursuit by the victims, who gave chase in a taxicab.

No Clews to Robbery.

There were no clews and no suspicions of an "inside job," postal authorities said. It was a customary trip for the mail carrier and the guard every morning at the time of the robbery, which occurred at 6:55 a. m. Any passerby could have noted the daily trip and planned the robbery.

However, the postal authorities hoped that they might find some clew in the large list of applicants for postoffice jobs recently. Postmaster Arthur Lueder said as many as 4,000 might be put to work during the holidays, and, therefore, the postoffice called on each of the 50 Republican ward committeemen to submit the names of approximately 80 applicants for jobs. Extra clerks get 65 cents an hour and laborers 55 cents. They might get from six to ten days' work, Mr. Lueder said, if incoming mail justifies this much extra help.

Tests were given to make certain that the men hired would be fitted to do the work. Fingerprints of all applicants were taken, and these were sent to the police bureau of identification to see if any applicants have criminal records. Postal inspectors saw possibilities that some gangsters might have applied for the work in order to appraise the chances for a big robbery.

Covered by Insurance.

Postal officials said that all valuable securities taken in the robbery were insured, but that the government did not provide all the insurance. The government accepts liability for only $1,000 a package, Mr. Lueder said, charging up to $1 for this risk. Commercial companies, having faith in the postal service, take up the rest of the insurance at rates of about 2 cents a thousand dollars, he said.

The robbery victims were men of good records and good reputation, their superiors said. Fred Voelsch, the carrier, is 43 years old, has been a postal employé 16 years and lives with his wife and four daughters at 5131 Oakdale avenue. The guard is Frank Stastny, 42 years old, 1436 South Gunderson avenue, Berwyn, who entered the postal service in 1921 after seven years in the army, including service with Gen. Pershing in Mexico.

Leave Postoffice for Bank.

Voelsch and Stastny left the federal building by the Adams street door at their usual time in order to be at the First National Bank building, a block and a half from that exit, at 7 o'clock. They walked across Adams street to the north sidewalk, then a short half block west to Clark street, where they turned the corner to the north. Stastny walking slightly to the rear and at the left of the man he was guarding.

Voelsch was in the regular mail carrier's gray uniform. Stastny wore

Overpowered by Gunmen.

Suddenly, according to the stories told by both, Stastny was seized from behind, his arms pinioned, a man's forearm across his throat. Some one grabbed his pistol. In a moment he was helpless and disarmed; Voelsch was relieved of his mail bag. The sack was torn from his shoulder, over which it was slung by a leather strap.

A small automobile had pulled to the curb alongside them. Four of its occupants leaped out and attacked the two postal employes from behind. All wore handkerchiefs over the lower portions of their faces.

"This is a stickup," one of the robbers told Voelsch and Stastny as they felt pistols pressed against them. In a flash the four men were back in their car, which sped north in Clark street.

"Get the license number," Stastny yelled to Voelsch, who was close to the vanishing automobile.

"There isn't any," Voelsch replied.

Take Up Pursuit in Taxi.

A taxicab, facing south, was across the street. Stastny ran to it and told the driver to pursue the bandit car. The chauffeur swung around. The other automobile at that time was at Madison street, a block and a half away.

A red light blocked the taxicab at Madison street, but, according to Stastny, this made no difference, as the other car was nowhere to be seen by that time. A low hanging fog cut down the visibility in the street and other cars interfered with the view, so that the pursuers could not tell whether the mail robbers' car had turned east or west on Madison or Washington street, or had continued north.

After the stop at Madison street Voelsch ran to a telephone to notify the police and then report the robbery to the postoffice. One squad car was patrolling the loop, but by the time a radio message was flashed to it the robbers were far away.

Few Police in Street.

There was a concentration of police in the various stations at the time, but few on the street. Ordinarily there would have been twenty policemen stationed around the loop on regular night duty until 8 o'clock in the morning. But a demonstration by communists was in prospect and the night loop policemen were called off duty at 6 o'clock and told to get a few hours' sleep and be ready for reserve duty at 9:30 a. m. A crossing policeman usually arrives at Clark and Adams streets at 8 o'clock.

K. P. Aldrich, chief postal inspector, was out of the city at the time. Inspectors Cecil R. Gant, Charles Burrows and J. J. McCarthy took up the investigation at once.

Trip a Routine Task.

Nothing of an unusual nature was found to have taken place at the postoffice. Every act of the two employés was of a routine nature. Voelsch has made the same trip every morning at the same time. The banks are accustomed to getting their registered mail at 7 o'clock. Ordinarily Voelsch would have returned to the registry division of the postal department and filled another sack with registered mail for other banks or bond houses. His regular job is the delivery of registered mail to loop financial institutions. Stastny usually accompanies him.

"If there were any currency shipments for the banks an armed guard would have come from the various banks to get it," Postmaster Lueder explained. "What was there, however, was insured."

The canvas mail bag stolen by the gang contained 163 pieces of registered mail, 143 for the First National bank, and 20 pieces for the First Union Trust and Savings bank, an affiliate of the First National.

"Loot Not Over $500,000."

Edward Eagle Brown, executive vice president of the First National bank, said a complete investigation of the contents of the mail had been made and that the face value of the loot was between $400,000 and $500,000. It would not exceed a half million, he said. The negotiable paper included in the mail taken was between $150,000 and $200,000. There was less than $200,000 in bonds and coupons.

Some of the bonds and coupons might be negotiated, Mr. Brown said, but it would be extremely difficult. There were some government bonds in the mail, but they were mostly in $10,000 denominations, the banker stated, which would be difficult to transfer. There was between $200,000 and $300,000 in checks and notes, and it was said there might be a slight chance of these being negotiated. Some corporation notes were included, and these could not be cashed, the banker believed.

Lightest Day of Week.

Postal authorities explained that Tuesday morning's registered mail is the lightest of the week. There is no receipt of registered mail anywhere in the country on Sunday. Consequently, whatever was in the stolen sack was mailed on Monday, and from the time of its arrival here could not have come from the big cities of the eastern seaboard.

MYSTERY MAN KILLS CAPTAIN OF UNIQUE CRAFT

British Noble, Cultured Women in "Crew."

know, except there was a shot a little later and the captain was dead and the electrical man gone."

The body of Wanderwell was slumped across a divan in his cabin. One of his hands grasped a bunch of keys. The other was thrown across his face, as if he had tried at the last to ward off the fatal bullet.

Besides those named above the "crew" consisted of Jack M. Craig of Oregon, James Farris of Kentucky, Forrest Plummer of Washington (state), Eric W. Owen of Finland, Edward Zeranski of Delaware, Florence Weigel of Maryland, a secretary; Marian Smith of Georgia, student; Mary Parks of Boston, secretary, and Aline Allen of Utah, waitress. On board also were Valerie and Nile Wanderwell, small daughters of the slain man.

Craig and Farris were listed as seamen; Plummer and Owen as students, and Zeranski as a cameraman. All, for purposes of marine registry, including the women, were designated as members of the crew because the port authorities had refused to allow the unsteady Carma to proceed to sea as a passenger carrying vessel.

Under Watch by Police.

It was disclosed by the detectives that they had been for some time investigating the purpose of the long cruise to the islands. Wanderwell, it was said, gathered the women sailors through advertisements for stewardesses in newspapers.

Many persons boarded the craft in Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors. Those left at the end, the cynical detectives declared, were chosen for their pulchritude rather than for their ability as able seawomen. However, it was also reported, they all paid passage as well as signing to work.

The life of the slain Wanderwell, whose real name is Pleczynski, might furnish hundreds of opportunities for him to acquire enemies who would wish to see him dead. During the war he was interned as a German spy and spent some time as a prisoner in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

Ran Away from Convent.

After being released he conducted a round the world tour in automobiles, accompanied by his first wife, Nell, and later by Aloha, who had posed for a time as his sister. She said she met Wanderwell in France, while he was making lectures illustrated with movies. Soon afterward, she added, she ran away from the convent where she was a student and joined the lecture trip.

Wanderwell boasted that he had covered 150,000 miles on five continents in three years. Aloha said they were married when the first wife got a divorce and joined another lecture tour.

Wanderwell and his automobile staff were fined in Johannesburg, South Africa, in 1927 for being in possession of firearms without a permit. There are rumors that he was an adventurer in hearts as well as in travel. The police believe his career as a Romeo may have brought him to his end just as he was starting on the greatest love cruise of them all.

There is even a suspicion that he was shot by a Los Angeles husband, whose wife he had visited on Sunday.

One of the most interesting members of the crew of the Carma is Mary Parks, the 26 year old Boston girl. She is a graduate of Saugus High school and, according to her parents, had informed them of her projected trip to the islands. She was known as secretary-manager of the trip. Formerly she worked for a Boston lawyer, but gave that up as too tame and became secretary to Swami Yogananda, a Hindu philosopher, whom she once accompanied to India.

Boston Girl Seeks Adventure.

Lord Montagu is the husband of a Canadian girl, formerly Nora MacFarlane Potter, who lives now in Los Angeles. The mother of the British nobleman was Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati.

Mary L. and Marian Smith are sisters and formerly lived at Rockmart, Ga. They came to Hollywood about two years ago.

Tonight the police, satisfied that the oddly assorted crew had told all they knew of the killing, released them.

The Carma, which was seized some time ago by the United States coast guard, was sold at auction and was bid in by Wanderwell.

POSTAL WORKERS ARE KEPT UNDER CONSTANT WATCH BY INSPECTORS

Postal employés are under observation almost constantly by postoffice inspectors while they sort mail and handle stamps, money orders and cash. The inspectors keep the workers under scrutiny from a sort of runway, with shuttered windows, from which they watch the floors below.

These passageways, just large enough to permit a man to walk through, hang from the first and second floor ceilings, above the quarters of the postoffice force in the federal building. The shutters permit the inspectors to see directly under them as well as across the building.

Although inspectors are on this duty every day, certain sections of the postoffice department are watched carefully when complaints are received. If a man is under suspicion he is kept under surveillance until the suspicion is confirmed or allayed and in many cases previously unsuspected clerks are caught taking money from letters, according to inspectors. The espionage practice is followed in all postoffices.

IGGY TO PLEAD GUILTY TODAY TO HOLDUP MURDER

State Alienist Reports Youth Is Sane.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Quigley, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Robert Stanton, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Rudolph Desort.

James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 years old, confessed killer, rapist, and robber, will plead guilty today before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court to the murder of Frank F. Jordan, who was shot to death on Nov. 16 while resisting a robbery on the south side. Defense Attorney Joseph Nosek announced yesterday that Varecha would admit his guilt and seek any sentence less than death.

The attorney, it was said, will base his plea for leniency on the argument that the state is responsible for Varecha's crimes, in that the youth was not locked up at the time. Varecha had escaped from a state home for mental defectives in Dixon three months before the slaying of Jordan and the confessed rape of Miss Lillian Henry, which occurred later the same night.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler said he would demand the death penalty despite Attorney Nosek's intended plea.

Alienist Finds Killer Sane.

Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, completed his study of Varecha's mental condition yesterday and pronounced the youth legally sane. The same finding had been reported previously by Orlando Scott, alienist employed by the defense.

"In our opinion," the report of Dr. Hoffman said, "this patient has no psychosis [insanity]. The prognosis in this case is very poor. We do not believe this patient can be rehabilitated in the slightest extent."

The report pointed out that Varecha came of a foreign born and illiterate family, with a comparatively low standard of living. Seven social agencies have known the Varecha family, the report said, because of delinquency, mental deficiencies, unemployment, or illness of various members.

Discord Found in Home.

Dr. Hoffman said that he had found domestic discord rife in the Varecha home, and had learned that the youth's father had been a heavy drinker. Three other children besides Iggy have been wards of the Juvenile court. Of one of the children, Anna, the report said that in 1927 she was known as "Two Gun Anna" for robberies of cab drivers in which she participated with another girl. She shared with Iggy the ability to escape from the authorities. On July 25, 1928, she fled from the detention home.

SOON TO BE MOTHER; ORDERED TO ELECTRIC CHAIR IN THE SOUTH

York, S. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes, 29 year old prospective mother, was convicted today of the murder of Elliott Harris, York county rural policeman, and thereby became the first white woman in the history of South Carolina to face the electric chair.

Date for her execution, mandatory in this state under a murder verdict when mercy is not recommended, was not fixed pending a motion for a new trial which her attorneys said would probably be made before presiding Judge Thomas S. Sease Thursday or Friday.

Mrs. Snipes, seated beside her husband, Clyde Snipes, who is also involved in the case but on less serious charges, received the verdict with little show of emotion. The jury deliberated three hours and four minutes.

Harris was shot to death after he had stopped an automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Snipes were riding near Fort Mill. The officer searched their car for whisky, and finding none attempted to arrest Snipes for reckless driving and driving without a license.

Testimony of both state and defense witnesses was that Mrs. Snipes and Harris both had their hands on the officer's pistol when the first shot was fired. Harris was shot four times. Mrs. Snipes, who said Harris had struck her in the mouth and had his pistol leveled at her, said she fired at his body after the first shot had been fired because she was "nervous and excited."

ASKS CONGRESS TO SIFT DEATH OF NAVY NURSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Representative Samuel Dickstein [Dem., N. Y.] today called for an investigation of the sudden death of Esther Louise Klein, a navy nurse, whose body was found last August in "one of the most notorious resorts of ill repute near Manila."

The New York representative introduced a resolution urging a congressional investigation of the circumstances surrounding her death. He said friends of the nurse took the position that a thorough inquiry would establish that Miss Klein had not committed suicide, as officially reported, but had been murdered.

"There have been a number of rumors to the effect that assaults have been made one women who were on duty in the Philippine islands, many of which have not been adequately prosecuted," Mr. Dickstein said.

"It is hoped that after this investigation there will be no more cases like that of Miss Klein and that the record of this young woman will be cleared of the stigma of suicide."

16 DETECTIVES TO BE DEMOTED OVER GANG RAID

District Commander Also Faces Inquiry.

Sixteen detectives of the West North avenue station are to be assigned to uniform patrol work and then transferred to other districts within the next few days because of the existence of a hoodlum hangout at 2024 West Chicago avenue, in their territory. This hangout was raided by a special detail from Mayor Cermak's office Monday night.

Also an investigation is to be made to determine whether Capt. Frank Matchett, district commander, knew of the rendezvous. If he did he will be ordered before the police trial board, it was indicated. Capt. Matchett is now on sick leave and his place is being taken by Capt. Gregory Moran. Moran has been instructed to investigate the Matchett angle.

Effective This Week.

The punitive measure against the detectives was made known last night by Commissioner Allman. It will be in effect by the end of the week.

The raid on the Chicago avenue resort was made by a detail known as the "hoodlum squad," which was organized recently by Allman at Mayor Cermak's suggestion to drive gangsters and racketeers out of Chicago.

Eight men—one of them a visiting radio repair man—were seized and two got a way. These two, police learned later, were "Tough Tony" Capezio, a Capone henchman, who was questioned in the St. Valentine day massacre, and his bodyguard. They clambered through an open window as the detectives entered the place.

Seize Beer and Guns.

Booze, beer, guns, a slot machine and some equipment probably used in the manufacture of bombs were confiscated. The prisoners were John [Tony Bananas] Vinesi, J. Kolar, J. Perkins, Charles Bucketti, Irving Stern, John Fargo, John Keegan, and John Schmidt, the latter the innocent radio repairman. Keegan was wanted for questioning in the murder six months ago of Policeman Frank Cunningham, but was freed of suspicion in that crime last night. All but Schmidt filed habeas corpus proceedings yesterday, and police were instructed to book them by night.

When the facts of the raids were disclosed to Mayor Cermak, he declared he was convinced that the plainclothes men of the West North avenue station knew or should have known of the existence of the hangout. It was on his direction that the transfer and demotion order is to be issued.

COURTNEY GOES TO WORK WHILE MOB TALKS JOBS

Has Crowded First Day on Active Duty.

Through a sleeve pulling, lapel plucking, favor seeking crowd of ward committeemen, precinct captains, lawyers, job holders, job askers, and ordinary citizens, strode State's Attorney-new Thomas J. Courtney at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

He pushed his way down a long corridor on the second floor of the Criminal courts building and came to a door upon which in new gilt lettering was the legend:

THOMAS J. COURTNEY
STATE'S ATTORNEY

The new representative of the people of the county of Cook paused just a moment to gaze with some satisfaction upon the gold letters. Then he swung through a large waiting room, well filled, and opened a door labeled "Private."

New Secretary on Job.

In this room, behind a desk, sat Frank Ford, the new secretary to the state's attorney, a veteran of twenty years as a buffer between public officials and the insistent public. Mr. Ford, urbane, smiling, separates the big shots from the little shots, those with something to offer from those with something to beg. Every now and then, also, Mr. Ford is confronted with a person who comes pleading for justice.

On his first day of actual business, however, the job seekers are in the majority. They besiege the secretary with their petitions; they recite loudly the magnificent manner in which their precincts and their wards scored for Thomas J. Courtney; and they mention casually that they have in mind some very fine candidates for the lucrative positions which it is now in Mr. Courtney's power to dispense.

The prosecutor greeted his secretary and turned to the left. He opened a door, passed through a short corridor, opened a second door and entered a large and richly furnished room, some forty feet square, which occupies the northeast corner of the second floor of the Criminal courts building.

A big, flat desk occupies the center of this room. Comfortable lounge chairs with brown leather upholstery are scattered about. From this room, during the next four years, State's Attorney Courtney will direct the prosecuting activities of his office.

Faces Mass of Documents.

He sat down in the chair behind the desk and surveyed the mass of papers before him. There were notations of telephone calls from many persons. There were piles of legal documents: the files of cases pending and of cases under investigation. There were letters to be answered and letters to be sent.

The state's attorney looked at his secretary and the amiable Mr. Ford looked back at him.

"Come on," said Mr. Courtney. "We'll have a look at the new grand jury."

Again the march through the importunate crowd, with Secretary Ford doing his best to facilitate progress. Up to the fourth floor and the grand jury rooms, where twenty-three men had just been sworn in to consider the indictment during December of numerous of their neighbors.

To these men the prosecutor was brief and frank.

"My office is always at your command," he told the jurors. "You will be given full support in the investigation and punishment of crime from myself and every member of my staff. It is customary to send an assistant state's attorney to address you. I came myself because I wanted to assure you personally of my complete coöperation.

Greets Newspaper Reporters.

Back in his office, State's Attorney Courtney was informed that the press desired an audience. They poured into the room, these newspapermen, who have seen state's attorneys come and state's attorneys go.

He was asked what he was going to do about the situation concerning the purchase by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission of cheap coal at high rates. His reply was firm. There is no hesitancy in him.

"Now, judge—" begins a younger reporter, accustomed in the last few months to addressing State's Attorney Swanson by that title. For the first time the prosecutor exhibits irritation.

Keeps Plans to Himself.

He is asked if he has any big investigations in mind.

"If I have, there'll be no publicity given out about them until the case is entirely prepared," he announces bluntly.

The conference is over. Out in the big waiting room the crowd stirs expectantly. Secretary Ford permits one, then another, to enter the private office. Mr. Courtney's ear is constantly claimed by the solicitous politicians. There is much whispering and much gesticulating.

The magic word "JOBS" hangs in the air. Rumors fly up and down the corridors.

"And a lot of long ones," comments another. He refers to the employés of the Swanson administration, who have withheld their resignations, hoping against hope that through some miracle they may be retained under the new régime.

Lunches with Judges.

At noon, the state's attorney lunched in the judges' dining room in the county jail with Chief Justice John Prystalski, and Judges James F. Fardy and Harry Lewis. The chief justice read a report of what work was being done in the Criminal courts. He revealed that the Criminal court judges were catching up on the grand jury at the rate of about 80 cases per month.

Returning to his office, the prosecutor began a series of consultations with his assistant, Grover Niemeyer. He granted another audience to the press. He was interviewed by more politicians. He worked on a list of dismissals and appointments.

A cold rain beat upon the windows as darkness fell and he prepared to call it a day. There was a trace of weariness in his walk as he left the office without gazing at the gold lettering on the door. Four years of grueling labor stretch ahead of the new state's attorney of Cook county and the prospect did not lend jauntiness to his bearing.

Conductor Wins Praise of Patrons

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Conductor 6516 on the Lincoln-Wells street car line never went in for the diplomatic service—or Uncle Sam might not find the problem of international debts so hard to settle. When he's off duty, conductor 6516 is Samuel Rasmussen of 1926 Nelson street, whose smile is a tonic and whose specialty is winning a reluctant grin from the most irate fussbutton, itching for an argument, who ever set foot in his car.

It takes two to quarrel, which is why the back platform of the street car manned by 6516 remains so relatively serene. Criticism and even curses are like water on a duck's back to him, and the twinkle in his gray eyes never yet has vanished in a flash of anger at any of his temporary patrons. Thirty-five years he's been ringing up fares and singing out the names of streets on the Chicago surface lines, exchanging quips and greetings with the folk on his route, and they've yet to see him glower.

Official Commends Him.

"O, well now!" he chuckled yesterday when an official of the surface lines commended him for the excellent reports received. "People are all right; sure they are. They just get impatient when their car's a bit behind time, and they forget it isn't your fault. Or somebody's had a row with his wife and is just spoiling for a fight. Or the weather's bad, like today, and they get wet and mad.

"I remember one day last winter when a truck broke down in front of us. I spent nearly an hour down on my knees in the snow, trying to get chains under the wheels and help the driver get it started. One old fellow on my car gave me the worst tongue lashing I ever got—called me every name in the calendar—and all I said was 'Thank you, sir.'

"He raved because there wasn't a seat left, and I said, 'Is that all? Come on, you can have my seat,' and he stood a while and thought it over, and then came back and said, 'You're a wonder. If anybody else talked to me like that I'd have half killed him.'"

A Lost Transfer.

Another ticklish situation always arises when some one boards the car and asserts belligerently that the transfer is lost and he won't pay another fare. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred conductor and passenger go to it pronto, shouting insults at each other. Conductor 6516 "kids 'em out of it," he explains, until they dig down and produce the amount, admitting it's silly to get all wrought up over seven cents.

Rasmussen was born in Norway and was a salt water sailor for eight years, until he shipped on Lake Michigan in 1892. Five years later he donned his first conductor's uniform.

FARMER DRIVEN FROM HIS FORECLOSED HOME BY SHERIFF'S BULLETS

Elkhorn, Wis., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The house of Cichon fell today before the machine guns and rifles of the law, and Max Cichon, farmer who staked his life in a four year fight against a mortgage foreclosure, was lodged in the Walworth county jail.

Dawn saw the end of a four year siege. During the night Sheriff James Mason, with a force of twenty deputies, advanced upon the farm home. Inside were Cichon, his wife, and two children, Virginia, 10, and Max, 5.

The sheriff telephoned Cichon, informed him his home was surrounded and would he consider surrendering?

Cichon wouldn't.

Thereupon the firing began. The upper portion of the house was peppered with bullets.

The officers were careful to fire over the heads of their opponents, the sheriff said. Mrs. Cichon, former Chicago beauty parlor operator, turned amazon during the battle, officers said, several times firing ineffectual shots. She said she fired in the air.

Cichon is charged with counciling a felony in advising his wife to fire at the deputies. Mrs. Cichon, who also is in jail, is held for assault with intent to kill. She took her two children to jail with her.

COURTNEY FIRES PROSECUTORS IN BLUE SKY OFFICE

Assistant State's Attorneys L. P. Holt and Herman N. Weinberg, in charge of the blue sky securities division under State's Attorney Swans on, were notified yesterday that their names had been removed from the pay roll. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced that John E. Pederson, a tax assistant under the Swanson regime, had been made temporary head of the blue sky office. He will familiarize later appointees with the routine of the office, it was said.

A final report by Prosecutors Holt and Weinberg showed that $12,473,125 had been returned to investors by alleged violators of the state securities act after prosecution had been started during the last two years. The report said that $5,183,293 had been returned to swindled investors in cases in which liability was admitted, and $7,015,586 had been returned in cases where brokers made restitution but would not admit liability. A total of $274,245 was returned by approval of courts after prosecutions had reached the point of conviction, the report said.

160 Are Seized After Youth Is Killed in Dance Hall

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 6.—(AP)—More than 160 witnesses were arrested tonight after 19 year old Walter Bross had been slain in a dance hall in what police described as a brawl that followed a popularity contest.

SAILOR IS HERO; PLUGS UP 10 INCH LEAK IN BIG LINER

Hangs 70 Feet Over Side of Ship in Midocean.

S. S. CONTE DI SAVOIA AT SEA, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Praise for the captain and crew in meeting an emergency occasioned by an accident to the turbo-generator system of this new Italian liner today tempered passengers' regret that the gyroscopic stabilizers, a feature of the vessel, perhaps could not be used.

When the ship was about 900 miles off Ambrose light last evening, a valve casing cracked, perhaps because of a defect in its steel casting, and it became necessary for Capt. Lena to heave the ship to and send a man below the water line to mend the ten inch hole.

Seaman is Hero.

Five hundred passengers watched Gennaro Amatruda, able seaman, descend 70 feet over the boat's side while the ship tossed in the rough sea. He was frequently submerged for minutes at a time, and was often thrown against the hull during the hour he labored.

His deed—for which he volunteered when he thought Capt. Lena himself would do it—elecited high praise from the captain, who declared that in his 37 years at sea this was one of the bravest acts he had ever seen.

There were also many cheers from the passengers, who took up a purse of nearly $1,000 for him and others who risked their lives.

"If you've got any more holes to plug, I'll go down again," Amatruda told the captain when he returned to the deck.

Passengers Are Calm.

Most of the passengers showed no signs of fear when the vessel started to list, but there was some regret that the captain's dinner and dance had to be postponed because of a delay in repairing the electric system. Dinner was served by candle light.

The ship, after the repairs had been made, continued at a speed of 15 knots for a time. Later, however, speed was increased to almost normal and it was said the vessel would dock at New York late Wednesday.

Because of lack of spare power, it was considered doubtful whether the stabilizers, designed to check the roll, could be used.

FORFEITS GYPSY WOMAN'S BOND.

Judge Jay A. Schiller in the South State street court yesterday forfeited a $5,000 bond of Mrs. Anna Bimbo, daughter-in-law of Tene Bimbo, king of the gypsies. She is charged with swindling a Muskegan carpenter. In court yesterday her lawyer said that Mrs. Bimbo was in New York.

ASK METROPOLIS REORGANIZATION THAT MAY PASS

Massen, Hatton Heard by Schnackenberg Body.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Ald. John A. Massen and Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university advised the Schnackenberg legislative subcommittee on local government yesterday to concentrate upon key measures which have a chance to get through the legislature instead of embarking on a wholesale plan of consolidating governments which would require many changes in the constitution.

The committee held a hearing at Hotel La Salle, and the alderman and the professor were chief witnesses of the day. The Schnackenberg committee meets again Friday morning to receive the report of Griffenhagen & Associates on downstate government, supplementing its report on Chicago and Cook county.

Arguments were made by Ald. Massen in support of a bill presented in the special session of the legislature providing for the creation of "The Chicago Metropolitan Council." The measure was prepared by a council sub-committee of which Ald. Massen is chairman.

Metropolitan Area Defined.

Its purpose is to set up a governmental authority which would have territorial jurisdiction co-extensive with Cook county and covering, in addition, submerged lands in Lake Michigan and additional territory inside Illinois within 30 miles of Chicago which may be added by referendum vote of the inhabitants.

This metropolitan council would be empowered to deal with public health, police, drainage and sanitation; traffic, land, air and water; parks, lake reclamation and to conduct any governmental activity which any community by referendum vote might transfer to it.

Further powers would be granted clothing the metropolitan council with authority to assume the indebtedness of the local governmental agencies whose activities it takes over, to borrow money and issue bonds, to levy such taxes as necessary for its operation and to determine the terms and conditions under which the local governments operating in the area subject to its jurisdiction may issue bonds.

Board of Seven Members.

Government and control of the metropolitan council advocated by Ald. Massen would be vested in a commission composed of the mayor of Chicago, the president of the county board, and five other members elected for four terms. Three of these would be residents of Chicago and two residents of the area outside the city.

"This proposal," explained Ald. Massen, "will not accomplish that complete unification of local governmental agencies operating in Chicago and the metropolitan area which may be desirable. Creation of this local governmental authority, however, will do the following:

"Concentrate the more important of the metropolitan activities under a single authority with ample jurisdiction.

"Permit community planning on a metropolitan and regional basis and facilitate metropolitan and regional development under home rule.

"Provide a metropolitan governmental agency capable of expanding the number and scope of its activities within the limits of the Chicago metropolitan area as desirable.

Stress Importance of Start.

"Realization of these benefits will be progress. A start must first be made somewhere and somehow. The majority of the inhabitants of the territory adjacent to Chicago are definitely opposed to consolidation with it. This determination of the suburbs to maintain local autonomy creates a barrier which for the present at least is insurmountable.

"It would seem, therefore, that such simplification of the local governmental structure as may be opportune can best be accomplished if the process of simplification proceeds on a functional basis."

Favors County Board as Basis.

Prof. Hatton, who helped prepare the Massen report, told the committee he disagreed with it in one particular, namely, the setting up of a special government. He held with the Griffenhagen report, that any metropolitan council governmental scheme should have as its basis the county board, a constitutional agency, which as now constituted represents both the city and the country towns. "You won't get far," he remarked, "if you propose at Springfield anything like wholesale consolidation."

Dwelling on county government downstate, Prof. Hatton pointed to the movement in other states which has been gaining momentum for years for mergers of governmental activities and offices, even though the counties retained their present boundary lines. He suggested that even without further legislation smaller counties might find it possible to enter into joint agreements for performance of some of their governmental work, such as purchase of supplies and welfare, through which savings might be effectuated.

Summarizing a report of the committee on constructive economy of the National Municipal league, which he wrote, Prof. Hatton said:

"What are the elements in a program of constructive economy? This may be answered by examining certain governmental and political conditions in the United States which must in large measure be changed before any material reduction in the unnecessary cost of government can be secured. Some of these conditions are:

"Too many governments; overlapping governments; poorly organized governments; unsound tax systems; poor budgeting; inadequate accounting and purchasing procedure; lack of comparable standards of governmental efficiency; partisan interference in administration, particularly local administration."

Too Many Officials Elected.

Discussing some of these conditions, Prof. Hatton said: "If the men who spend our public money are to have the same ability and incentive as in private business it will be necessary for us to give up two timeworn traditions: 1. That those who are to administer public service must be elected, and, 2. That to be eligible for public service one must be a legal resident of the unit he is to serve.

"The practice of electing a horde of public officials from the unit to be served is one reason why capable young men and women shun public employment. Only those officials responsible for policies should be elected; all others should be selected."

Read Notification

Sanitary District Trustees Ross A. Woodhull, John J. Touhy, and J. L. Friedman, all of whom were reëlected last Nov. 8, were installed in office yesterday at ceremonies in the board rooms at 900 South Michigan avenue. Superior Judge William J. Lindsay administered the oaths of office after County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer read the notification of election. Former Chief Justice Floyd E. Thompson of the Supreme court and Thomas J. Bowler, president of the board, spoke briefly.

Mr. Bowler praised Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer, and William Rothmann, attorney for the board, for their work during the year. He recited the various economies adopted by the trustees. The only hope of resuming work on the district's sanitary plants, Mr. Bowler said, lies in getting a $36,450,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which was applied for several months ago.

ASK RECEIVER TO LEVY TAXES ON CHICAGOANS

Supreme Court Ponders Lake States' Plea.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The application of Wisconsin and three other lake states for the appointment of a federal receiver to levy taxes at Chicago and take over the construction of the sewage treatment works in that city was taken under advisement today by the Supreme court. Oral arguments in the matter were completed today.

In their application the four lake states—Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota, and Michigan—charged that the sanitary district of Chicago was wilfully refusing to carry out the terms of the Supreme court decree under which the water diversion was to be progressively reduced by 1938 to 1,500 cubic second feet.

Fear Construction Delay.

They asserted that unless the court acted to take over the sewage program the necessary construction would not be completed in time to make possible the reductions of water diversion according to schedule.

Gilbert Bettman, attorney general of the state of Ohio, and recently defeated Republican candidate for United States senator, climaxed the lake states' argument with an acrimonious attack on Illinois, Chicago, and the sanitary district.

Bettman told the court that the ship of government of the sanitary district was floundering hopelessly, and that only action of the court would make possible the carrying out of the decree. He said that the district had done virtually nothing to carry out the orders of the court.

In effect, the lake states urged the court to take over the sewage construction job itself. They urged appointment of a federal agent by the court. This agent was to displace the sanitary district, levy taxes at Chicago, collect them and with the money so obtained prosecute the sewage treatment program.

Hope for More Revenue.

Replying for the district, attorneys William Rothman and Special Assistant Attorney Joseph B. Fleming questioned the authority of the court to levy taxes and displace the sanitary district. They admitted the sanitary district was in financial difficulties which had temporarily held up the sewage program. At the same time both lawyers stated that with the breakup of the tax strike they believed money would be forthcoming for the carrying on of the sewage works. Both denied that Illinois, Chicago, or the district were refusing to comply with the decree.

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—A suit by Rita Flynn, stage and screen actress, against David Coplin, Los Angeles stock broker, for $250,000 damages for breach of promise, was disclosed in the Supreme court today. Miss Flynn applied for an order to compel Coplin to give particulars in his answer.

Her complaint alleges that after the broker had wooed her. He told her last summer that he would marry her in New York and induced her to come here from Hollywood to join him when he was on a business trip.

Miss Flynn asserts that when she got here the defendant told her he had no intention of marrying her, but wanted her with him in New York because he was "lonesome for her."

Coplin denies all the allegations except that he refused to marry Miss Flynn and asserted that his refusal was based on the attentions she had received from other men. She wants to know who the other men were.

SALES TAX LAW SIGNED; COOK CO. BOARD AGAINST IT

Gov. Emmerson yesterday signed the bill making the county optional sales tax a law in Illinois, but Cook county probably will not enact such a measure. President Emmett Wheelan of the county board said that he is opposed to such a tax in this county, and a majority of the board members who are empowered to vote it expressed similar opinions.

The tax may be placed on all sales save those of gasoline and farm products by a two-thirds vote of the county boards of Illinois counties. The tax is one of the three special measures designed to raise relief funds.

LITIGATION OVER SUBWAY FACES 3 MONTHS' DELAY

Property Owners Propose Several Changes.

Prosecution of special assessment cases in the State street subway project will be delayed at least three months for a discussion of engineering changes in the subway plan suggested by State street property owners, it was agreed yesterday at a conference at the Midday club. The delay is subject to the approval of Mayor Cermak, to whom the matter will be outlined Friday by a committee of those present at yesterday's conference.

While the engineering discussions are going on, expenditures out of the city traction fund for subway plans will be reduced to a minimum, it was agreed. the subway staff will be cut to two attorneys, Walter L. Fisher, special counsel for the city, and Irvin Rooks, for the board of local improvements; and three engineers, Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., Charles DeLeuw, and Ernst Lieberman.

9 Attend Conference.

Those present at the conference yesterday were Attorneys Fisher and Rooks, B. M. Winston and Attorney William B. Hale, representing the property holders; James Simpson, for the utility companies; Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, Corporation Counsel Sexton, B. F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements, and Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the council local transportation committee.

The first suggestion of the State street property owners was the elimination of the mezzanine level and other structural changes in the subway, to reduce its cost. Attorney Rooks said that this would save only about $1,000,000, and that the features named are worth far more than that.

It was also pointed out that elimination of the mezzanine level, which would provide direct entrance to State street buildings, might cause the courts to hold that the subway would contain no special benefits, and therefore could not be built by special assessments, but would have to be paid for out of the traction fund or through a city bond issue.

4 Tracks to 3 Tracks.

A second suggestion was that the subway be changed from a four track to a two track tube. In this connection it was pointed out that the subway ordinance provides for four tracks, and that the change would probably invalidate the whole subway ordinance.

The third suggestion of the property owners was that the tube be built on caissons instead of on the floating foundations now provided by the engineers' plans.

The subway special assessment cases will come up before Judge Walter T. Stanton next Tuesday in the Superior court, on the city's motion to set the cases for trial. If Mayor Cermak agrees, Attorney Rooks will withdraw the city's motion.

FARMERS' TAXES MUST BE CUT, SAYS HARRIMAN

Urges Reduction in Cost of Government.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The reduction of governmental expenditures and the restoration of agriculture to a self-respecting and profitable basis were declared essential to the return of prices and employment in the nation by Henry I. Harriman, Boston business man, who is president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, yesterday. He spoke at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation in Hotel Sherman. The convention will close tonight.

At the convention banquet last night an appeal was made to the farmers of the nation by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, chairman of the National Economy league, to "protect the lawmakers from organized minorities." He charged that these agencies, with their lobbies at every seat of government, were responsible for excessive taxes. Admiral Byrd, who left New York yesterday noon by plane, was forced down during the day at Cleveland, and his voice was brought to the banquet hall by telephone and broadcast by amplifiers.

Industry Interested in Farmer.

Organized business and industry are keenly interested in affording farmers the means of equalizing their economic status with that of industry, Harriman said. Of paramount importance, in his opinion, is calling a "halt upon the reckless expanding of plant capacity," which he said was equally important in industry and in agriculture.

Citing figures on the piling up of crop surpluses as the result of a national free land policy and the rapid strides in productivity of food and fiber, Harriman said that the government must now take steps to balance production with consumption. This he said could be done by making inducements for farmers to curtail acreage by the purchase of submarginal lands, by the domestic allotment plan of crop control, or "some other device."

Five essentials in all were listed by the head of the national chamber to the restoration of prices and employment. Available work must be "spread among workers of the land so that all may have at least partial employment." Business "must be unshackled by so modifying our restrictive laws that production of goods may be reasonably balanced with demand through contract or agreement."

Wants Stabilized Dollar.

"This modifying," Harriman pointed out, "is not abolition of the anti-trust acts, but a sane interpretation" of them. Likewise, he contended that we must have "a dollar whose purchasing power neither markedly increases or decreases through a reasonable period of years," along with "a banking and investment mechanism that balances credit."

The steady growth of governmental expenditures was traced by Mr. Harriman. He cited facts to show the inability of farmers to meet their taxes.

"Thousands of farmers on fertile farm lands are receiving an income insufficient to cover their taxes," he declared. "This, not to mention interest on mortgages or return on labor. The growth in taxes has been most serious to our farming population, and in one state 60 per cent of the farm land already has been forfeited."

Cites Tax Increases.

Harriman pointed to the fact that in 1914 the property taxes on the nation's farms was one-third of the value of the wheat crop of that year, while in 1931 the taxes were almost twice the value of the wheat crop. And he added that the condition would become constantly worse unless drastic yet logical steps were taken at once in reduced governmental costs and in bolstering commodity prices.

"We must view this farm situation from the standpoint of national economic betterment," he said. "I am satisfied that we can meet it just as we have other natural enemies, such as plague or disease.

"The government repeatedly, and I fear in many cases unwisely, has interfered with the operation of natural economic laws on the farm," averred Harriman.

For one thing, it has established land banks and credit banks. Even the veriest tyro in economics should have known that prices could not have been stabilized by government purchases, and I have no doubt but that for the stabilization activities of the farm board the prices of wheat and cotton would have been much higher for the last two years."

Prof. M. L. Wilson Speaks.

Without discussing the allotment plan of crop surplus control to which he referred, Harriman built the groundwork for a detailed consideration of it today by Prof. M. L. Wilson and other speakers in the final farm bureau sessions. Wilson, a Montana state college economist; Harriman, Henry A. Wallace of Des Moines, and several officers of the central west farm groups are leaving this week-end to start their drive in Washington early next week to secure farm relief legislation.

Wallace, who arrived yesterday from a conference with Washington congressmen and others working toward farm legislation, expressed the opinion in his convention address that both Republicans and Democrats were anxious to make agricultural tariffs more effective. Most of the present farm tariffs are "paper tariffs," he charged, and are "either immediately or in the long run worthless."

"In tariff matters agriculture has been playing Esau to the industrial Jacob," Wallace said. He warned that overproduction in beef and dairy products in the next four years might nullify the tariffs which have been "somewhat effective."

Urges Reciprocal Tariffs.

He advocated reciprocal tariffs where possible, lower industrial and higher farm tariffs and "some such machine as the voluntary domestic allotment" to make farm tariffs effective.

Today's sessions are expected to complete the formulating of the new policies of the three largest farm groups in the country. The Farmers' union in its recent annual meeting at Omaha declared itself in favor of any relief measure which "would insure the farmer his cost of production." The National Grange in its annual meeting at Winston-Salem, N. C., two weeks ago, expressed its support of a measure utilizing the debenture payment principle, or "some similar plan."

The Farm Bureau federation, whose annual statement shows it to have 250,000 paid up members in 43 states, is expected today to modify its former stand for the "equalization fee principle" so that it can support the Democratic party's present movement to adopt the allotment plan.

Trade Group Heads at Session.

Farm materials processors, such as millers, packers, and other groups which would be called upon to make the payments of a bonus to each farmer who voluntarily cut down his production, were reported yesterday to have agreed in some instances to support the allotment plan.

But a considerable delegation of officers of trade groups in these affected industries were in attendance at yesterday's farm bureau meeting, watching for indications of what the farm organization heads were planning to carry into congress next week.

NEW YORK LACKS CASH TO MEET 40 MILLION CALL

Bankers Demand Further Cuts in Budget.

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Facing an inescapable default on the city's obligations tomorrow the board of estimate voted unanimously today for a resolution declaring that city salaries should be cut $20,000,000 next year in all grades down to $2,000 a year, with full protection of the pension rights of civil servants.

Unless the city's bankers agree to advance funds, the city will be unable to meet the maturity of $40,000,000 of revenue bills drawn against the $151,000,000 revolving credit due tomorrow.

Week of Big Debts.

On Monday and today the city met maturities of $15,000,000 each, thereby cutting heavily into its $50,000,000 of available cash. Tomorrow's maturity will be beyond its means, in the opinion of the financiers, while without help, Thursday's maturity of $25,000,000 and Friday's maturity of $30,000,000 are hopelessly beyond the ability of the city to meet.

There was no formal meeting of the bankers today, but individually they watched the progress of the board of estimate meeting. It was the prevailing view among them that the resolution providing for salary reductions of $20,000,000 had fallen short of the economies needed to rehabilitate the city's credit. The bankers indicated that additional savings of about $25,000,000 through the elimination of unnecessary appropriations and useless city departments probably would restore the city's credit sufficiently to permit aid to be extended.

Bankers Await City Action.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank, kept in touch tonight with the situation by telephone. Members of the banking group, including Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank, and representatives of J. P. Morgan & Co., the Bankers Trust, the Bank of Manhattan company, the New York Trust and other leading institutions said no further conferences were necessary before action on a loan to the city could be taken. If the city took the required steps, Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Aldrich could approve a credit on behalf of the group, it was said.

Even with this critical situation confronting them, the board of estimate adopted the salary cut resolution only after a heated clash between Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee and Dennis J. Mahon, acting president of the board of aldermen. The city officials are ready to go to Albany on Friday to ask the legislature in special session to repeal mandatory salary laws which now control the salaries paid to teachers, firemen and policemen.

ROBBED OF CAR AND CLOTHES.

Jacob Drouse, 4620 South Richmond street, was robbed of an automobile, several dollars, and all his clothing except shoes and underwear early yesterday by two bandits who forced him to drive to 44th street and Sacramento avenue.

2D SUIT ASKS A RECEIVER FOR $2,000,000 TRUST

A second suit seeking the appointment of a receiver for the $2,000,000 reserve trust fund of the Chicago Title and Trust company was filed in the Superior court yesterday by the Globe corporation, a coal company. The bill asserted that the $2,000,000 fund was set aside by the title and trust company to repay any losses to investments purchased with trust funds deposited with the company. It charged that the trust company had failed to repay losses incurred by a $1,400,000 trust agreement set up by the Globe company. A similar suit was filed Monday by Dr. Ben G. Landau, 1311 East 53d street.

The Globe corporation suit stated that the losses to its trust agreement resulted from a breach of fiduciary duty on the part of the trust company amounting to fraud. It charged that the Globe corporation was unaware of promises made by the trust company to protect losses of trust beneficiaries.

The bill alleged that the trust company knowingly bought unsound securities and permitted, in many cases, property to remain unoccupied and unprotected. It also asserted that excessive charges were made for opinions for abstract of titles. The bill states that the company refused to terminate the $1,400,000 trust agreement on Oct. 20, when the beneficiary wished to do so.

The Globe corporation is headed by George F. Getz as chairman of the board.

H. D. Pettibone, president of the trust company, said his company wishes to have the courts settle the legal questions involved in distributing the reserve trust fund.

SCHOOL BOARD WILL MEET TOMORROW TO START BUDGET WORK

A special meeting of the board of education will be held tomorrow afternoon to start work on the 1933 budget. A tentative budget total of $80,674,877 has been set, exceeding the appropriations for 1932 by $5,494,613.

In issuing the call for Thursday's meeting Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, declared that the proposed expenditures must be trimmed to "an irreducible minimum."

Mr. Myers said he planned to have all trustees present at the sessions instead of having the work done by committees, as was the case in the preparation of the 1932 budget. Several trustees have said that in trimming the appropriations to a point within the expected revenue it may be necessary to reduce salaries and wages.

The tentative tax levies for school purposes in 1933 total $80,590,180, or 24 million dollars more than the citizens' committee on public expenditures recommended should be levied. The committee recommended a levy of 48 million dollars for the schools, exclusive of requirements for the payment of bond principal and interest. These requirements total approximately eight million dollars.

CLOSED BANKS TO MAKE $330,000 NEW PAYMENTS

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday signed orders for the payment of $330,000 to depositors of closed banks.

The Bank of Harvey will pay out $73,500, a first dividend of 10 per cent. The Roseland State Savings bank will make a 5 per cent payment of $79,000, increasing its total paid to 35 per cent of all deposits. The Forest Park Trust and Savings bank will disburse $73,000, its first 5 per cent.

Payments to depositors of the Congress Trust and Savings bank will total $100,000 and raise that bank to 25 per cent paid. The payment of the Morton Grove Trust and Savings bank was increased by $4,500, or from 5 to 7 per cent. The auditor said that these new orders meant that the total of pre-Christmas disbursements by thirty banks in Cook county would reach $2,000,000.

RAILWAY LABOR LEADERS MEET IN CITY TODAY

Leaders of 22 railway brotherhoods will meet at the Palmer House today preparatory to a joint conference on Monday with road owners and managers regarding the continuance of the one year 10 per cent wage reduction contract which expires on Jan. 31, 1933.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and one of the principal negotiators, will preside at today's meeting. He will also be the labor groups' chairman at the coming parley. It is expected that by tomorrow some 1,500 general chairmen of the railway labor group will be in Chicago.

So far as has been officially indicated, the only question to be discussed by the railroad managements and the brotherhoods will be that of prolonging the one year cut of 10 per cent. However, it was unofficially suggested that the managements might ask a larger cut in addition to an extension of time.

Mr. Whitney favors a six hour day and a five day week.

WORLD'S FAIR TICKET BOOKS READY TODAY

The exchange will be made at three loop stores or at the exposition's Administration building. The stores are Marshall Field's, The Fair, and the Davis company.

Hundreds of letters have been received by the exposition management, many of which have stated that the writer possesses souvenir tickets from the World's Columbian exposition of 1893 and asking if similar mementos of a Century of Progress will be available.

HITLERITES AVOID OPEN CONFLICT WITH SCHLEICHER

Delay Vote on Red Motion of Nonconfidence.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Adolf Hitler's National Socialists, who appeared in post-war Germany's seventh reichstag in full Hitlerite military regalia, avoided open conflict with Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher today and through their strong vote postponed a vote on a communist motion of nonconfidence against the general.

The Nazi action strengthens the hope in official quarters thatthe reichstag will tolerate Von Schleicher's regime for a few weeks at least and thus prevent immediate dissolution by the chancellor.

The real purpose of the Nazi tactics today was to gain time to pass a new bill they have presented. It provides for a temporary successor to the presidency. Fearing President Paul von Hindenburg's health might compel him to resign, the Nazis are seeking to make it impossible for the chancellor to take his office and possibly appoint a regent to prepare for a monarchy.

Will Return to Fray.

Hitler's followers are asking the reichstag to agree to alter the constitution so that the president of the Supreme court will be the legal successor to the president in case of his temporary withdrawal or death. The Hitlerites are confident the measure will pass, after which they will return to the political fray. The reichstag struggle will reach a climax on Friday when the communists will reintroduce their motion of nonconfidence.

After attending Protestant church services in the presence of Von Hindenburg in former Kaiser Wilhelm's cathedral and Catholic services in St. Hedwig's cathedral, reichstag members assembled to indulge in a lusty battle of inevtives and verbal attacks on the government. The storm broke as Gen. Karl Litzmann, 82 year old Hitlerite, appeared on the rostrum as temporary speaker—a post that was his because he is the oldest member.

At the opening of the last reichstag, Clara Zetkin, 75 year old communist, acted as presiding officer to whom even the Hitlerites listened quietly out of respect to her age. This time Gen. Litzmann was given no quarter and was heckled by the communists.

Calls Hitler Germany's Savior.

When he spoke of the misery of the country and the suicide of 189 persons in Berlin in October, the Reds shouted: "No generals drawing fat pensions were among them."

"General of a lost war," was their favorite catcall to which the old soldier turned a deaf ear. In his speech Gen. Litzmann eugolized Hitler as the "savior of Germany" and attacked Von Hindenburg for failing to appoint the Nazi leader as chancellor.

"Von Hindenburg became the savior of Germany in November, 1914, with the assistance of Litzmann's brigade of infantry at Lodz," he shouted. "That battle brought him a field marshal's baton. Today something more important than a baton is at stake.

"For Hindenburg it is a question of escaping the curse which history may lay upon him for having driven the German people into despair and delivered the country to bolshevism."

Elect Hitler Aid Speaker.

Following the roll call, Herman Wilhelm Goering, one of Hitler's chief lieutenants, was elected speaker. Thomas Esser, Catholic Centrist; Hans Rauch, Bavarian Populist, and M. R. Loebe, Socialist, were elected first, second and third vice presidents.

The Nazis' refusal to accept a Socialist motion ordering Von Schleicher to present his program tomorrow was interpreted by political leaders as the possible beginning of an alliance between Von Schleicher and Hitler.

Communists tried to stage demonstrations at the hour of the opening of the reichstag, but were dispersed by police, who fired warning shots in the "barricade district." Ooder was quickly reëstablished.

POLICE LAY TRAP FOR BLACKMAIL PLOTTER IN VAIN

The trap laid at midnight last night by Evanston police for a wary extortionist failed. Several days ago the blackmailer wrote a letter demanding $1,000 to J. H. Ipjian, president of the Perfecto Cleaners and Dyers, 821 Emerson street, Evanston. He directed that the money be placed alongside the Skokie line tracks one mile north of Dempster street, Evanston, at midnight of Tuesday.

An hour beforehand, police laid their trap and also a decoy package. They waited until 1 o'clock this morning, but no taker appeared. Apparently the extortionist noticed the trap. There were sixteen police hiding in the vicinity.

Wife Is Granted Divorce from French Vice Consul

Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday granted Mrs. Harriet Prentiss Bougearel, 2928 Broadway, a divorce from Henri Bougearel, French vice consul in Chicago. Mr. Bougearel, who lives at 54 Cedar street, told Judge Sabath that he has been transferred to the French consulate in Montreal and will take up his new duties in two weeks. Mrs. Bougearel testified to two instances of cruelty. She was granted $100 a month for the support of herself and her son, John, 2 years old.

BURGLARS TAKE 55 PENNIES.

Charles W. Ward, secretary of the Alumni association of Northwestern university, reported yesterday that 55 pennies intended for charity had been stolen from his home at 2319 Hartrey avenue, Evanston, by burglars.

MR. M'GUIRE IS SORRY HE WAS GLAD TO OBLIGE

R. E. McGuire, 204 Wenburg street, Joliet, played the part of the obliging motorist yesterday. Driving toward Aurora on the Lincoln highway he came upon two men pushing an apparently stalled automobile. Halting, Mr. McGuire asked what he could do to help. One of the toiling strangers presented a pistol and told him he could hold up his hands. When he complied the robbers—for such they were—took $63. Then one of them drove McGuire into Aurora, where he was forced out, while the other followed in the car that was being pushed for a decoy. The McGuire car was later found abandoned.

FRANCE, BRITAIN MEET IN PRIVATE PARLEY ON DEBTS

May Insist Berlin Resume Reparations Payments.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 6.—The stage is being set in Paris for some rapid fire war debt drama between now and Dec. 15, the date on which the French and British installments to America fall due.

Speeding back from Geneva with Prime Minister MacDonald, Premier Herriot will arrive in Paris tomorrow morning and will hold a long conference with the British premier. They will be joined by Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, who has been summoned to the French capital by his chief. This meeting is expected to be a decisive one in the course of the debt negotiations.

May Upset Lausanne Pact.

Just what course the MacDonald-Herriot conference will follow is not yet clear. One report said that in view of America's insistence on collecting the war debts the premiers would consider the possibility of throwing overboard the Lausanne reparations pact and demanding that Germany resume payments. The Lausanne pact was adopted provisionally with a "gentlemen's agreement" that it would not be ratified unless the United States scaled down the war debts.

Another report here is that the premiers will discuss the possibility of France helping Britain to meet its Dec. 15 payment of $95,550,000 by placing at Britain's disposal French credits in New York. Such action would help sustain the pound sterling.

Showdown in Chamber Friday.

Meantime a showdown in debts will take place in the chamber on Friday. It is considered certain to result in an overwhelming vote against payment. This will involve the overthrow of Premier Herriot's government.

Francois Albert, most important Radical Socialist leader next to Herriot, is organizing the debt offensive. He said tonight that approval of the payment to America has not a chance. He declared Herriot is determined to make it a question of confidence and go out of office—coming right back, of course, with his duty as head of the state of upholding France's signature done.

A debate Friday was assured tonight when Herriot agreed to appear before the chamber's finance and foreign affairs committees Thursday to reveal his debt stand.

Hoover Disappoints England.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Disappointment at the brevity of President Hoover's reference to the war debt question in his message to congress featured the reaction in London. Newspapers stress the omission of any reference to the second British note appealing for postponement of the Dec. 15 debt payment.

The Daily Telegraph said it would have been helpful if Hoover had taken the opportunity to "remove the widespread delusion in the United States that the making of a request for suspension was the outcome of a concerted arrangement among the debtor governments." The paper says Great Britain attaches importance to it being understood that England has a special case which stands on its own ground.

GERMANY OBJECTS TO U. S. DELEGATE'S SCHEME TO DISARM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 6.—The latest American plan for disarmament, which has been peddled recently to European capitals by Norman H. Davis, chief American disarmament delegate, struck a snag today. German delegates to a five-power parley here at which the plan was discussed objected to certain terms which will make its revision necessary if an agreement is to be reached.

The "Davis plan," as it is known, calls for limited disarmament now with the appointment of a permanent commission which would be charged with working out equality in armaments for Germany and security for France over an interval of several years.

Those two nations, however, were unable to agree today on details regarding these bones of contention. Further conversation will take place tomorrow.

Germans Call Plan a Plot.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—"Germany can never accept," was the unanimous reply of the Berlin press to the disarmament plan of Norman H. Davis of the United States submitted at a five power conference at Geneva today.

Political leaders protest that "the plan is a plot against effective disarmament and merely postpones any decision for three years without any guarantee that a solution of the problem can then be found."

Failure of the disarmament conference now is believed to be inevitable here. It is charged that today's developments were aimed to place the blame for the collapse upon Germany.

BRITAIN SPURNS INDIA'S DEMAND TO CONTROL ARMY

Refuses Pledge to Keep Troops Within Country.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Sir Samuel Hoare, British secretary for India, today bluntly told the Indian delegates to the round table conference on India that Britain could give no guarantee when the army of that country would be turned over completely to the Indians.

The Indian Liberals had pleaded that Indianization of the army should be placed at the top of an urgent list of subjects to be decided by the conference. They also demanded that no Indian troops be taken outside the country without the express permission of the federal legislature. Sir Samuel replied that all the government could promise was to create an all-Indian infantry division and cavalry brigade to see how that works.

Troops Might Go Anywhere.

As regards service outside of India, Sir Samuel's assertion contained important implications. In the first place the army is only meant for the defense of India, but an adequate defense might take the troops almost anywhere, he said. In further regard to army expenditures "for defense," Sir Samuel added that he hoped these could be reduced during calmer times. Then he mentioned the word "Asia." There the implication was allowed to rest.

Until transition to self government is completed, the British government holds very definite ideas that the minister of defense should be a matter for the unfettered choice of the governor general.

Separation Bill Up in Burma.

RANGOON, Dec. 6.—Burma's legislative council today received a motion recommending that Great Britain take steps to separate Burma and India and give Burma the constitution outlined by the British premier in January. The anti-separatists, who won the recent elections, contended that they had not received sufficient notice of this motion and requested adjournment to consider it. The council adjourned until Monday. Military police were kept in readiness near the council chamber during today's session, but the proceedings were orderly.

ABORT that Cold
(with lemon juice)

Sometimes you get colds that just hang on for days. That is because the remedy used does not drive the cold symptoms from the system. Try cold abortion and you'll find those stubborn colds broken up and gone within a few hours. To abort a cold, squeeze two full-sized lemons in a glass of very hot water, to be taken preferably at bedtime. Two hours before, start taking a tablet of Pape's cold compound each hour. After the third tablet take the lemon juice and hot water without sugar, and go to bed, well-covered. Sound sleep will follow, and the cold will be aborted by morning. The lemon juice treatment never fails, but you must have the cold compound to clear the head, dry the nasal passages, and allay any fever. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound; it is perfectly safe, and a tablet will check a cold at any time.

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

A lady from Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat, too."

To take off fat—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats and starches—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.

Assembly Warned Peace of World Is at Stake.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 6.—Warned from all sides that the league of nations' very existence, and perhaps world peace as well, depends upon the wisdom of its verdict, the special league assembly today again took up the case of Japan in Manchuria.

Outspoken in their warning were spokesmen of eight small powers, led by Joseph Connolly of the Irish Free State.

"Let there be no mistake," he said, "that if the moral force of the league is broken in this issue, then the league as at present constituted cannot survive. It will not deserve to survive."

Big Powers Hard to Convince.

The eight small nations may have a hard time convincing Great Britain and France that the league's existence is at stake. Germany and Italy are also on the doubtful list. The eight hold as their minimum program acceptance of the first eight chapters of the Lytton report condemning Japan and nonrecognition of Manchukuo.

The tone of today's proceedings was mild, nobody caring to hurt the Japanese feelings yet, unless it was Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate.

"Even today while we are comfortably discussing a peaceful settlement in this hall the Japanese are engaged in bombing women and children over in the three eastern provinces," said Dr. Yen.

Calls China Peril to World.

The Japanese representative, Yosuke Matsuoka, declared that it is communism that is "eating the very heart out of China." He said the Chinese boycott is a danger to the world. Presenting Japan in the light of an ardent supporter of the league, Matsuoka warned that the league must not bite off more than it can chew. He complimented the league on the slow working of its machinery, which he said had kept peace.

Dr. Yen called upon the assembly, first, to declare that the Japanese were guilty of violating the covenant, the Kellogg pact, and the nine power treaty; second, to ask Japan to withdraw her soldiers to the South Manchuria railway zone and, pending further withdrawal, to dissolve the Manchukuo government; third, to declare nonrecognition; fourth, to set the shortest possible time as a limit for final settlement. League firmness got the Japanese out of Shanghai, Yen recalled.

Japan Names "Peace Envoy."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 6.—Faced with what is generally considered the gravest diplomatic crisis in its history, Japan today decided to send Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, privy councilor and former ambassador to the United States and France, to Europe and the United States in January to counteract any possible ill effects following the meeting of the league of nations' special assembly on the Manchurian question.

Ishii will go to England, France, Germany, and Geneva before proceeding to the United States. He will discuss far eastern peace and Japan's stand with the various governments. His tentative sailing date from Yokohama is Jan. 7.

MAKING OF DIES FOR 1933 AUTOS INCREASES JOBS

Cleveland, O., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Making of tools and dies for 1933 auto models has sent a group of Cleveland plants into capacity and near capacity production, with institution of night shifts in several cases, an employment survey revealed today.

Tooling up for new Auburn, Packard, Willys-Overland and Cadillac models was reported by various companies as responsible for their activity.

The chamber of commerce employment index in 100 typical concerns showed an increase during November of 8 per cent, caused principally by the spurt in automotive work.

Employment in the tooling department at the Midland Steel Products company has jumped 40 per cent and brought about hiring of a night shift.

At the A. P. Schraner company it was revealed that 20 men were at work on a night shift tooling new Auburn and Packard doors, with prospects for additional orders.

The A. W. Hecker company is working on jigs and dies for Willys-Overland company, the J. C. Ulmer company is working on tools for Packard and Auburn, the Cleveland Planer company is hiring men for night work and the Hahn Manufacturing company, die makers, have had a night force working for a month.

GOLDBERG MUST STAND TRIAL, IS JUDGE'S RULING

Herman J. Goldberg, convicted tax fixer, must stand trial on a charge of perjury, Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court ruled yesterday. The chief justice refused to quash the perjury indictment on technical grounds advanced by Attorney Abraham Marovitz. The case was sent to Judge Philip L. Sullivan for trial.

Goldberg during the last political campaign made charges against Albert Swanson, brother of the former state's attorney, and Attorney James Clancy, former assistant prosecutor. The grand jury found that Goldberg had forged the names of Swanson and Clancy to checks which he claimed he had given to them, and indicted him for perjury. The case in the usual course should come to trial within the next two weeks.

BRITISH AFRICA JOINS FIGHT TO KILL U. S. TRADE

Seek to Drive American Tobacco from Market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DURBAN, South Africa, Dec. 6.—Acting under trade preferences won at the imperial conference at Ottawa last summer, many of Great Britain's African possessions are now organizing to drive American products from the British market.

Southern Rhodesia, Kenya, Tanganyika, and Uganda are leading the movement which, if it is as successful as its sponsors anticipate, will tend to cripple the American trade in tobacco in Britain and injure the sales of such goods as automobiles and radios.

This action is best illustrated by southern Rhodesia, which is launching a campaign to replace American tobacco in England with the Rhodesian product. The Rhodesian tobacco crop, consisting largely of so-called Virginia leaf, is used in cigaret and pipe smoking. It attained a value this year of about $50,000,000, and was artificially restricted because of marketing difficulties heretofore encountered.

How U. S. Trade Is Hit.

Since practically the entire crop is exported to Great Britain the significance of empire preference is readily seen. The American tobacco exports to Britain, amounting to $75,000,000 annually, are apparently doomed to decrease considerably with the influx of Rhodesian tobacco through the preferential hole in the tariff wall.

Premier H. U. Moffatt of southern Rhodesia demanded and obtained at Ottawa an imperial preference which ultimately reach as high as 20 per cent. Furthermore there is little difference in the quality of American and Rhodesian tobacco. Both are the same kind of leaf. The British point out that experience has taught Rhodesian farmers valuable secrets of curing and shipping and that labor costs are low. The climate and soil are favorable. The country lies mostly within the tropics but on a high plateau 4,000 feet above sea level.

Absence of competition within the empire is another favorable factor for Rhodesian tobacco growers. Several other colonies and dominions raise small crops for local consumption, but few have a surplus for export.

Only Nine Years Old.

Thus, the outlook is none too bright for American tobacco to be smoked to any great extent in English pipes and cigarets.

Southern Rhodesia can no longer be thought of as a jungleland monopolized by black men and wild animals. It is an agricultural community which is fast developing into a progressive state. Although it is politically the "baby of the British empire," having attained statehood only nine years ago, the colony now has the reputation of having one of the best governments in Africa.

It is self-governing, has a parliament and cabinet of its own, and is proud that it has kept distinct from the Union of South Africa, with which it refused political union by a plebiscite in 1923.

Named After Cecil Rhodes.

Southern Rhodesia also is not to be confused with the colony of Northern Rhodesia. Both, however, were named after Cecil John Rhodes, arch exponent of British imperialism in Africa. Both colonies are landlocked and are forced to seek an outlet to the sea through Portuguese colonial territory.

Simultaneously with the Rhodesian tobacco campaign, Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda are agitating for the right to impose tariff preferences which would hit the American trade in automobiles and radio.

ASKS $1,000,000 FROM HER FORMER MATE'S WIFE IN LOVE SUIT

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Gail Stevens Kinard, second wife of Dr. Kerwin Kinard, noted Kansas City, Mo., surgeon, was made defendant in a $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit filed here today.

The present Mrs. Kinard, heiress and horsewoman, is accused of having stolen the love of Dr. Kinard from his former wife, Mrs. Ada Lee Porter Kinard of Kansas City.

Dr. Kinard was divorced Nov. 11 by his former wife and his marriage to Mrs. Stevens followed a few days later. Papers were served on Mrs. Kinard in the Union station while she was awaiting the arrival of her husband.

The suit charged that Mrs. Stevens deliberately set out to win the surgeon's affections and insisted that he divorce his wife so he could marry her, and urged the doctor to go to Reno and establish a residence there.

The plaintiff charges her husband notified her that unless she brought suit for divorce he would leave her without means. She also charges she has been damaged and humiliated to the extent of $500,000 and is entitled to $500,000 additional as punitive damages as well.

Financial necessity, she declared, compelled her to make a property settlement at the time of her divorce.

DR. L. K. EASTMAN WINS ACQUITTAL IN $75,000 SUIT

Superior Judge John H. Prelhs yesterday found Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, head of the Keystone hospital, not guilty of defamation of character and false arrest as charged by Dr. Clifton K. Timmons, 5913 Winthrop avenue. Dr. Timmons asked damages of $75,000. The trial was concluded on Monday, but the judge's findings were not recorded until yesterday. Judge Prelhs heard the case without a jury.

Dr. Timmons charged that he had been held a prisoner in the Keystone hospital for seven hours on Sept. 30, 1931. Dr. Eastman, he had charged, had demanded $400 to pay for medical treatment of Viola Hegstrom, a patient in the hospital. Dr. Timmons charged that Dr. Eastman caused him to be arrested on a charge of performing an illegal operation on the young woman. The charges against Dr. Timmons were dismissed in the Felony court a month later.

In entering his verdict Judge Prelhs overruled a motion for a new trial. Attorneys for Dr. Timmons announced that they would appeal the case. Dr. Eastman recently was tried before the medical committee of the state board of education and registration on charges of mal practice. The board's findings have not yet been announced.

Secretary, Sued by Wife of Ex-Employer, Acquitted

Miss Frieda Kuellmer, 32 years old, 623 Briar place, was found not guilty yesterday of alienating the affections of John White, her former employer. She had been accused by White's wife, Mrs. Mary White, 415 Aldine street. Mrs. White, who has a divorce suit pending, asked $25,000 from Miss Kuellmer. The case was heard without a jury by Superior Judge A. G. Kennedy. Mrs. White charged that Miss Kuellmer had won her husband's affections while she was his secretary at the Clark Linen company.

FIRST CAVALRY IS MECHANIZED BY ARMY ORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Another experiment in mechanization was begun by the war department today with the issuance of orders calling for the reorganization of the First cavalry as a mechanized regiment. The unit was directed to divest itself of all horses, except officers' private mounts, and proceed at once to Fort Knox, Ky., where permanent headquarters are to be established. The new mechanized unit will be known as the First cavalry, mechanized.

With the departure of the cavalry regiment from its present station at Fort D. A. Russell, Tex., the latter military post will be abandoned and sold. Its passing will mark the disposal of the third of ten occupied posts which the army earmarked for closing about two years ago.

Abandoned Year Ago.

Fort Eustis, Va., the first military post closed, was abandoned a year ago and the men sent to Fort Knox to form the nucleus of the mechanized unit. Prior to that time, Fort Eustis was the home of the army's first mechanized force, now broken up.

On its arrival at Fort Knox the cavalry unit will take over such mechanized material as the army has available. The unit will be equipped with armored cars, experimental combat cars, automatic rifles, and specially equipped motor cars for rapid transportation. According to the war department, other cavalry units will be mechanized later if this experiment proves successful.

The new regiment will take over Troop A of the armored car squadron. Attached to it will be Company C of the 13th engineers, the 19th ordnance company, the 28th motor repair section, a signal corps detachment, and a quartermaster corps detachment.

Collins for Budget Slice.

Chairman Ross A. Collins [Dem., Miss.] of the house military affairs committee said today that he would attempt to cut at least ten million dollars off the war department supply bill now being studied by the appropriations committee. He will attempt to cut down the number of officers by 2,000. He also will urge further reductions of horses.

Apparently taking a leaf from the record of the California grape industry, the United States Wheel Track Layer corporation of Linden, N. J., has engaged Mrs. Walker Willebrandt as associate counsel in its fight with the war department over the new Christie machines contracts.

USE HOME BREW: GET CHOCK FULL OF VITAMIN B

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, British scientist, finds prohibition beneficial because of the consumption of home brew.

"One of the biological effects of prohibition on the American people," the Cambridge university biochemist said in a lecture at Yale university today, "is that they are probably healthier because of the liberal quantities of vitamin B in home brew which was forced on them by the 18th amendment."

PERSIA SPEAKS SHARPLY ON OIL ROW TO BRITAIN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The British foreign office today received a note from the Persian government which is "so offensive" to officials here that it is not to be published. In it Shah Riza Khan warns the British government that if a single soldier or marine is sent to guard the Anglo-Persian company's oil fields he will regard it as a direct provocation.

He reminds the British in effect that it needs only a couple of Persian shells or a single well aimed bomb dropped into the vast refinery at Abadanto to send millions of barrels of British oil up in smoke. Cancellation of the Anglo-Persian concession is "final," the Persian government declares, and it is up to the Anglo-Persian Oil company to request a new concession based on fairer terms to the Persian people.

The Persian note is a retort to recent communications from the British government which owns a large part of Anglo-Persian company, refusing to recognize annulment of the concession and threatening "all legitimate measures" if necessary to protect British interests.

MERCURY TO SINK TO 12° TONIGHT, FORECAST SAYS

Cold blasts, sweeping down from the northwestern plains, are scheduled to strike Chicago early today. Temperatures are expected by Forecaster J. R. Lloyd to drop near the 12 degree mark this evening. Snow flurries are forecast for this forenoon. Tomorrow will be somewhat colder.

Yesterday's highest temperature was 52 degrees, at 10 and 11 a. m. There was a slight decline during the afternoon, as the winds began to shift from southeast to the north and northwest. Rain fell intermittently through the day.

Embezzler Wolf Loses Fight to Win Freedom

Walter J. Wolf, who is serving 10 consecutive terms of 1 to 10 years each for embezzling approximately $3,500,000 from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, failed yesterday to win his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court decided that there was no legal weight to the technicality raised by Wolf's attorneys. His release was sought on the theory that the sentences are void because they do not specify a definite time to start and end.

PASS SALES TAX AND ECONOMIZE, HOOVER ADVISES

Message Outlines Plans to Balance Budget.

speech he pronounced the proposal to repeal laws granting nonservice connected benefits aggregating 450 million dollars to veterans as a "gross injustice" and that he signed at least one of these acts Mr. Hoover said he would recommend elimination of "certain payments in the veterans' services." The President's view is that allowances should be confined to veterans whose disability was incurred in service and to totally disabled and destitute veterans whose disabilities are nonservice connected.

The President's only mention of the question of war debt revision is to say that the debtors' pleas for suspension of the Dec. 15 payments have been rejected but that the executive will recommend to congress "methods to overcome temporary exchange difficulties" in connection with such payments.

At the White House it was revealed that the President is negotiating with the debtors an arrangement whereby payment may be made in their depreciated currencies at guaranteed values which he expects to be able to submit to congress in a special message with in a few days.

Finds Fault with Bank System.

The depression has furnished the severest indictment of our banking system, in the opinion of Mr. Hoover. Because of defects in the organization of the system said the message, "its very mechanism jeopardizes or paralizes the action of sound banks and its instability is responsible for periodic dangers to our whole economic system."

It failed to meet the emergency produced by the depression, augmented losses and distress, he said. The enormous number of bank failures was partly responsible, Mr. Hoover said, for the hoarding which at its peak amounted to 1 billion 600 millions.

That something is wrong with the system is demonstrated, in the President's opinion, by the fact that in Great Britain there have been no bank failures and in Canada hardly any.

Asserts Conditions Are Better.

Mr. Hoover prefaces his recommendations with a survey of the depression. He adduces statistics to show that the corner has been turned at last—in fact, was turned last August and that business has been improving ever since. This dawning of returning prosperity the President attributes to the "measures and policies" inaugurated under his administration, and these emergency agencies should be continued only until the depression is passed and then liquidated.

In one respect the depression has been a blessing, the President finds. We are all healthier. He quotes figures showing a falling death rate in 1930, 1931, and 1932, the decline in the infant mortality rate being particularly striking. All of which elicited a snort of disgust from Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Democratic senator from New York.

"Nothing is more deceptive," he said, "than attempts to estimate the human death rate. It is the testimony of all social workers and physicians generally that there has never been such a degree of undernourishment, particularly among children, as exists today. This is not reflected in the death rate now, but it lays the foundation for tuberculosis and other constitutional disorders. The President is mistaken. We are not getting along well."

4 BANDITS ROB WOMAN OF $600, BUT MISS $1,800

Four bandits stole $600, but missed $1,800 more last night when they held up Mrs. Paulina Zalazinski, a benefit association secretary, in front of her home at 1365 Erie street. Earlier Mrs. Zalazinski had attended a meeting of Pulaski council of the Security Benefit association of Topeka, Kas., in a hall at Ashland avenue and Blackhawk street. She started homeward with her son and daughter and a friend, carrying $2,400 in four bags. In front of her home the bandit car drew alongside. The men grabbed one of the money bags and fled.

Irving Fine, the clerk, was talking with Joe David and Harry Bernstein, residents, in the lobby of the Glengyle Shore apartment hotel at 925 Glengyle place last night when two robbers stepped up to them. Within sixty seconds the intruders were in possession of $524 belonging to the hotel, $85 owned by Bernstein, and $23 belonging to David. They bowed themselves out with thanks.

PARIS SAMPLES OF WINE SEIZED; PROTEST VAIN

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.] M. Pierre Larenaudie, French wine salesman, arrived today on the liner Paris and expected to walk off the pier with nine bottles of sample wine. Customs guards promptly seized the wine and started to break the bottles. The Frenchman protested volubly and finally the wine was put in bond for later determination as to whether it is legal for a man from France to bring his samples with him for display to prospective American customers.

The Frenchman explained that he had read of the American election, of the doom of prohibition, and he wanted to be first on the ground with his samples.

Text of President Hoover's Last Annual Message

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—The full text of President Hoover's annual message to congress follows:

"Our country is at peace. Our national defense has been maintained at a high state of effectiveness. All of the executive departments of the government have been conducted during the year with a high devotion to public interest. There has been a far larger degree of freedom from industrial conflict than hitherto known. Education and science have made further advances. The public health is today at its highest known level. While we have recently engaged in the aggressive contest of a national election, its very tranquillity and the acceptance of its results furnish abundant proof of the strength of our institutions.

Courage, Kindliness Shown.

"In the provision against distress during this winter the great private agencies of the country have been mobilized again; the generosity of our people has again come into evidence to a degree in which all America may take great pride. Likewise the local authorities and the states are engaged everywhere in supplemental measures of relief. The provisions made for loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to states that have exhausted their own resources guarantee that there should be no hunger or suffering from cold in the country. The large majority of states are showing a sturdy coöperation in the spirit of the federal aid.

"The surgeon general, in charge of the public health service, furnishes me with the following information upon the state of public health:

"Mortality rates per 1,000 of population on an annual basis from representative cities:

First 9 months of	General.	Infant.
1929	12.0	65.8
1930	11.4	62.0
1931	11.2	60.0
1932	10.6	55.0

"The sickness rates from data available show the same trends. These facts indicate the fine endeavor of the agencies which have been mobilized for care of those in distress.

ECONOMIC SITUATION

European Collapse Adds to Troubles of United States.

"The unparalleled world-wide economic depression has continued through the year. Due to the European collapse the situation developed during last fall and winter into a series of most acute crises. The unprecedented emergency measures enacted and policies adopted undoubtedly saved the country from economic disaster.

"After servir to defend the national security these measures began in July to show their weight and influence toward improvement of conditions in many parts of the country. The following tables of current business indicators show the general economic movement during the last 11 months.

[The figures appear in a two column table in adjoining columns.]

"The measures and policies which have procured this turn toward recovery should be continued until the depression is passed, and then the emergency agencies should be promptly liquidated. The expansion of credit facilities by the federal reserve system and the Reconstruction Finance corporation has been of incalculable value. The loans of the latter for reproductive works and to railways for the creation of employment; its support of the credit structure through loans to banks, insurance companies, railways, building and loan associations, and to agriculture has protected the savings and insurance policies of millions of our citizens and has relieved millions of borrowers from duress; they have enabled industry and business to function and expand.

Cites Help to People.

"The assistance given to farm loan banks, the establishment of the home loan banks and agricultural credit associations—all in their various ramifications have placed large sums of money at the disposal of the people in protection and aid. Beyond this the extensive organization of the country in voluntary action has produced profound results.

"The following table indicates direct expenditures of the federal government in aid to unemployment, agriculture, and financial relief over the last four years. The sums applied to financial relief multiply themselves many fold, being in considerable measure the initial capital supplied to the Reconstruction Finance corporation farm loan banks, etc., which will be recovered to the treasury:

FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30.

	*Public works.	Agricultural relief and financial loans.
1930	$ 410,420,000	$ 156,160,000
1931	574,870,000	193,700,000
1932	655,880,000	772,740,000
1933	717,360,000	52,000,000
Totals	$2,358,430,000	$1,177,500,000

*Public building, highways, rivers and harbors and their maintenance, naval and other vessels construction, hospitals, etc.

Recovery First Goal.

"Continued constructive policies promoting the economic recovery of the country must be the paramount duty of the government. The result of the agencies we have created and the policies we have pursued has been to buttress our whole domestic financial structure and greatly to restore credit facilities. But progress in recovery requires another element as well—that is, fully restored confidence in the future. Institutions and men may have resources and credit but unless they have confidence progress is halting and insecure.

"There are three definite directions in which action by the government at once can contribute to strengthen further the forces of recovery by strengthening of confidence.

"The first of these directions of action is the continuing reduction of all government expenditures, whether national, state, or local. The difficulties of the country demand undiminished efforts toward economy in government in every direction. Embraced in this problem is the unquestioned balancing of the federal budget.

Urges Reforms in Banking.

"The second direction for action is the complete reorganization at once of our banking system. The shocks to our economic life have undoubtedly been multiplied by the weakness of this system, and until they are remedied recovery will be greatly hampered.

"The third direction for immediate action is vigorous and wholesouled coöperation with other governments in the economic field. That our major difficulties find their origins in the economic weakness of foreign nations requires no demonstration. The first need today is strengthening of commodity prices. That cannot be permanently accomplished by artificialities. It must be accomplished by expansion in consumption of goods through the return of stability and confidence in the world at large and that in turn cannot be fully accomplished without coöperation with other nations.

SIGNS OF BUSINESS REVIVAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—The table cited by President Hoover in his message today as showing signs of better conditions follows:

BALANCING BUDGET

Would Cut $830,000,000 from Former Total.

"I shall in due course present the executive budget to the congress. It will show proposed reductions in appropriations below those enacted by the last session of the congress by over $830,000,000.

"In addition, I shall present the necessary executive orders under the recent act authorizing the reorganization of the federal government which, if permitted to go into force, will produce still further substantial economies. These sums in reduction of appropriations will, however, be partially offset by an increase of about $250,000,000 in uncontrollable items such as increased debt services, etc.

"In the budget there is included only the completion of the federal public works projects already undertaken or under contract. Speeding up of federal public works during the last four years as an aid to employment has advanced many years of such improvement to the point where further expansion cannot be justified in their usefulness to the government or the people.

"As an aid to unemployment we should beyond the normal constructive programs substitute reproductive or so-called self-liquidating works. Loans for such purposes have been provided through the Reconstruction Finance corporation. This change in character of projects directly relieves the taxpayer and is capable of expansion into a larger field than the direct federal works.

Includes Naval Building

"The federal construction program thus limited to commitments and work in progress under the proposed appropriations contemplate expenditures for the next fiscal year, including naval and other vessel construction, as well as other forms of public works and maintenance, of a total of $442,769,000, as compared with $717,262,000 for the present year.

"The expenditure on such items over the four years ending June 30 next will amount to $2,350,000,000, or an amount of construction work eight times as great as the cost of the Panama canal and, except for completion of certain long-view projects, places the nation in many directions well ahead of its requirements for some years to come.

"A normal program of about $200,000,000 per annum should hereafter provide for the country's necessities and will permit substantial future reduction in federal expenditures.

PROVIDING WORK

Virtual 5 Day Week Is Part of Project.

"I recommend that the furlough system installed last year be continued not only because of the economy produced but because, being tantamount to the '5 day week,' it sets an example which should be followed by the country and because it embraces within its workings the 'spread work' principle and thus serves to maintain a number of public servants who would otherwise be deprived of all income.

"I feel, however, in view of the present economic situation and the decrease in the cost of living by over 20 per cent, that some further sacrifice should be made by salaried officials of the government over and above 8 1-3 per cent reduction under the furlough system.

"I will recommend that after exempting the first $1,000 of salary there should be a temporary reduction for one year of 11 per cent of that part of all government salaries in the excess of the $1,000 exemption, the result of which, combined with the furlough system, will average about 14.8 per cent reduction in pay to those earning more than $1,000.

"I will recommend measures to eliminate certain payments in the veterans' services. I conceive these outlays were entirely beyond the original intentions of congress in building up veterans' allowances. Many abuses have grown up from ill considered legislation. They should be eliminated.

"The nation should not ask for a reduction in allowances to men and dependents whose disabilities rise out of war service nor to those veterans with substantial service who have become totally disabled from nonwar connected causes and who are at the same time without other support.

Other Economy Efforts.

"Many of the economies recommended in the budget were presented at the last session of the congress, but failed of adoption. If the economy and appropriations committees of the congress in canvassing these proposed expenditures shall find further reductions which can be made without impairing essential government services, it will be welcomed both by the country and by myself.

"Some of the older revenues and some of the revenues provided under the act passed during the last session of the congress, particularly those generally referred to as the nuisance taxes, have not been as prolific of income as had been hoped. Further revenue is necessary in addition to the amount of reductions in expenditures recommended.

"Many of the manufacturers' excise taxes upon selected industries not only failed to produce satisfactory revenue, but they are in many ways unjust and discriminatory. The time has come when, if the government is to have an adequate basis of revenue to assure a balanced budget, this system of special manufacturers' excise taxes should be extended to cover practically all manufactures at a uniform rate, except necessary food and possibly some grades of clothing.

To Reorganize Government.

"At the last session the congress responded to my request for authority to reorganize the government departments. The act provides for the grouping and consolidation of executive and administrative agencies according to major purposes and thereby reducing the number of overlap and duplication of effort. Executive orders issued for these purposes are required to be transmitted to the congress while in session and do not become effective until after the expiration of 60 calendar days after such transmission, unless the congress shall sooner approve.

"I shall issue such executive orders within a few days grouping or consolidating over fifty executive and administrative agencies, including a large number of commissions and 'independent' agencies.

"The congress must be warned that a host of interested persons inside and outside the government whose vision is concentrated on some particular function will at once protest against these proposals. These same sorts of activities have prevented reorganization of the government for over a quarter of a century. They must be disregarded, if the task is to be accomplished.

BANKING SYSTEM

Speedy Changes Urged to Increase Strength.

"The basis of every other and every further effort toward recovery is to reorganize at once our banking system. The shocks to our economic system have undoubtedly multiplied by the weakness of our financial system. I first called attention of the congress in 1929 to this condition, and I have unceasingly recommended remedy since that time. The subject has been exhaustively investigated both by the committees of the congress and the officers of the federal reserve system.

"As a system our banking has failed to meet this great emergency. It can be said without question of doubt that our losses and distress have been greatly augumented by its wholly inadequate organization. Its inability as a system to respond to our needs is today a constant drain upon progress toward recovery. In this statement I am not referring to individual banks or bankers. Thousands of them have shown distinguished courage and ability.

Finds Organization Defective.

"On the contrary, I am referring to the system itself, which is so organized, or so lacking in organization, that in an emergency its very mechanism jeopardizes or paralyzes the action of sound banks and its instability is responsible for periodic dangers to our whole economic system.

"Bank failures rose in 1931 to 10½ per cent of all the banks as compared to 1½ per cent of the failures of all other types of enterprise. Since Jan. 1, 1930, we have had 4,665 banks suspend, with $3,300,000,000 in deposits. Partly from fears and drains from abroad, partly from these failures themselves [which indeed often caused closing of sound banks], we have witnessed hoarding of currency to an enormous sum, rising during the height of the crisis to over $1,600,000,000.

"The results from interreaction of cause and effect have expressed themselves in strangulation of credit which at times has almost stifled the nation's business and agriculture.

Losses Beyond Calculation.

"The losses, suffering, and tragedies of our people are incalculable. Not alone do they lie in the losses of savings to millions of homes, injury by deprival of working capital to thousands of small businesses, but also, in the frantic pressure to recall loans to meet pressures of hoarding and in liquidation of failed banks, millions of other people have suffered in the loss of their homes and farms, businesses have been ruined, unemployment increased, and farmers' prices diminished.

"That this failure to function is unnecessary and is the fault of our particular system is plainly indicated by the fact that in Great Britain, where the economic mechanism has suffered far greater shocks than our own, there has not been a single bank failure during the depression. Again in Canada, where the situation has been in large degree identical with our own, there have not been substantial bank failures.

R. F. C. Functions Limited.

"The creation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the amendments to the federal reserve act served to defend the nation in a great crisis. They are not remedies; they are relief. It is inconceivable that the reconstruction corporation, which has extended aid to nearly 6,000 institutions and is manifestly, but a temporary device, can go on indefinitely.

"It is today a matter of satisfaction that the rate of bank failures, of hoarding, and the demands upon the reconstruction corporation have greatly lessened. The acute phases of the crisis have obviously passed and the time has now come when this national danger and this failure to respond to national necessities must be ended and the measures to end them can be safely undertaken. Methods of reform have been exhaustively examined. There is no reason now why solution should not be found at the present session of the congress. Inflation of currency or governmental conduct of banking can have no part in these reforms. The government must abide within the field of constructive organization, regulation, and the enforcement of sale practices only.

Urges Farm Loan Changes.

"Parallel with reform in the banking laws must be changes in the federal farm loan banking system and in the join stock land banks. Some of these changes should be directed to permanent improvement and some to emergency aid to our people where they wish to fight to save their farms and homes.

"Our major difficulties during the past two years find their origins in the shocks from economic collapse abroad which in turn are the aftermath of the great war. If we are to secure rapid and assured recovery and protection for the future we must cooperate with foreign nations in many measures.

"We have actively engaged in a world disarmament conference where, with success, we should reduce our own tax burdens and the tax burdens of other major nations. We should increase political stability of the world. We should lessen the danger of war by increasing defensive powers and decreasing offensive powers of nations. We would thus open new vistas of economic expansion for the world.

"We are participating in the formulation of a world economic conference successful results from which would contribute much to advance in agricultural prices, employment, and business. Currency depreciation and correlated forces have contributed greatly to decrease in price levels. Moreover from these origins rise most of the destructive trade barriers now stifling the commerce of the world.

More Security; Larger Trade.

"We could by successful action increase security and expand trade through stability in international exchange and monetary values. By such action world confidence could be restored. It would bring courage and stability, which will reflect into every home in our land.

"The European governments, obligated to us in war debts, have requested that there should be suspension of payments due the United States on Dec. 15 next, to be accompanied by exchange of views upon this debt question. Our government has informed them that we do not approve of suspension of the Dec. 15 payments. I have stated that I would recommend to the congress methods to overcome temporary exchange difficulties in connection with this payment from nations where it may be necessary.

"In the meantime I wish to reiterate that here are three great fields of international action which must be considered not in part but as a whole. They are of most vital interest to our people. Within them there are not only grave dangers if we fail in right action, but there also lie immense opportunities for good if we shall succeed. Within success there lie major remedies for our economic distress and major progress in stability and security to every fireside in our country.

"The welfare of our people is dependent upon successful issue of the great causes of world peace, world disarmament, and organized world recovery. Nor is it too much to say that today as never before the welfare of mankind and the preservation of civilization depend upon our solution of these questions.

OTHER LEGISLATION

Cites Transit, Power Control Proposals.

"I have placed various legislative needs before the congress in previous messages, and these views require no amplification on this occasion. I have urged the need for reform in our transportation and power regulation, in the anti-trust laws as applied to our national resource industries, western range conservation, extension of federal aid to child-health services, membership in the world court, the ratification of the great lakes-St. Lawrence seaway treaty, revision of the bankruptcy acts, revision of federal court procedure, and many other pressing problems.

"These and other special subjects I shall where necessary deal with by special communications to the congress.

CONCLUSION

United States Founded on Rights of Human Spirit.

"It seems to me appropriate upon this occasion to make certain general observations upon the principles which must dominate the solution of problems now pressing upon the nation. Legislation in response to national needs will be effective only if every such act conforms to a complete philosophy of the people's purposes and destiny.

"Ours is a distinctive government with a unique history and background, consciously dedicated to specific ideals of liberty and to a faith in the inviolable sanctity of the individual human spirit. Furthermore, the continued existence and adequate functioning of our government in preservation of ordered liberty and stimulation of progress depends upon the maintenance of state, local, institutional and individual sense of responsibility.

"We have builded a system of individualism peculiarly our own which must not be forgotten in any governmental acts, for from it have grown greater accomplishments than those of any other nation.

"On the social and economic sides, the background of our American system and the motivation of progress is essentially that we should allow free play of social and economic forces as far as will not limit equality of opportunity and as will at the same time stimulate the initiative and enterprise of our people.

Keeping Balance of Power.

"In the maintenance of this balance the federal government can permit of no privilege to any person or group. It should act as a regulatory agent and not as a participant in economic and social life. The moment the government participates, it becomes a competitor with the people. As a competitor it becomes at once a tyranny in whatever direction it may touch.

"We have around us numerous such experiences, no one of which can be found to have justified itself except in cases where the people as a whole have met forces beyond their control, such as those of the great war and this great depression, where the full powers of the federal government must be exerted to protect the people. But even these must be limited to an emergency sense and must be promptly ended when these dangers are overcome.

"With the free development of science and the consequent multitude of inventions, some of which are absolutely revolutionary in our national life, the government must not only stimulate the social and economic responsibility of individuals and private institutions but it must also give leadership to coöperative action among the people which will soften the effect of these revolutions and thus secure social transformations in an orderly manner.

"The highest form of self-government is the voluntary coöperation within our people for such purposes."

New York Bound; Assembly Opens Friday.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

On Roosevelt Train, Cornelia, Ga., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Rested by two weeks in the sunshine of Warm Springs and invigorated by the swimming exercises he has enjoyed, Franklin D. Roosevelt left tonight for New York City.

The President elect will arrive in New York early tomorrow evening, to delve at once into the problems of a special session of the New York state legislature which is to open on Friday.

Suggestions to Leaders.

During his two weeks in this southern resort which the President elect founded as a convalescent refuge for the crippled victims of infantile paralysis, Mr. Roosevelt has accomplished much in getting his program of economic reconstruction for the country to an early start.

Democratic congressional leaders have visited the President elect here in his Little White House on Pine mountain, and have departed with the suggestions of their chief. While he made it plain to them and also to the newspaper correspondents, that he was in no way seeking to assert any authority over the congress, it was also plain to be seen that when congressmen left his cottage their sentiments followed directly the views of Mr. Roosevelt.

Before leaving today the governor was visited by a delegation of the Young Democrats of America, which is holding a convention this week in Atlanta. The first group of the delegation arrived just as the governor was having his last dip in the warm waters at the swimming pool.

Plan to Increase Democracy.

Crowding about his automobile as he left the pool, the younger members of the party told Mr. Roosevelt they planned to do all in their power to increase the strength of the national Democracy. The governor thanked them for the aid given him in his campaign, and said he hoped their movement would spread.

Among the young Democrats who greeted Mr. Roosevelt after his swim were a number from Chicago headed by Floyd M. Kenlay, attorney, and son-in-law of Mayor Cermak. The other Chicagoans in the delegation were the following: Mrs. Helena Kenlay, the Misses Irma Kadic, Virginia Porter, Marjory O'Brien and Assistant Corporation Counsel Ernest F. Feldon, Milton Cook, and Attorney Frank L. Petrer and Sam Lederer, come down.

The governor also received a delegation from Augusta, headed by Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, who invited him to attend the opening on Jan. 12 of the Augusta National golf course, which has been laid out by Bobby Jones.

DROPS DEAD IN STREET.

POLICE LOOK ON AS IDLE PARADE AT WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The army of 3,000 idle marchers who descended upon the capital three days ago to demand a federal dole for the idle, began their homeward trek tonight undecided as to whether they had succeeded or failed in their mission.

They claimed a victory, such as it was, in the matter of demonstrations, with a huge parade through the streets during the afternoon. They claimed another triumph when both Speaker John N. Garner and Vice President Charles Curtis received a delegation at the capitol and accepted petitions for relief.

Hoped for Turmoil Fails.

But they failed to provoke the clash with police which their leaders openly courted throughout the three day encampment. And they failed likewise to obtain assurances from Mr. Garner and Mr. Curtis that their demands would be met. Leaders who presented the petitions admitted their disappointment upon leaving the capitol, said they realized acceptance of the petition was nothing more than a gesture.

The parade was nearly obscured by the greatest show of police force ever seen in Washington. Nearly 2,000 bluecoated men flanked the ranks of the marchers on both sides, in front, and in the rear. Added to the regular force was a body of 300 firemen, called on for police duty during the radicals' stay in the capital.

The line of march prescribed by police brought the marchers to the verge of the capitol grounds, where they were halted by another strong police guard thrown across their path. Two delegations of ten "comrades" each were admitted to the capitol building.

Cut Short by Curtis.

On the senate side the delegates filed into the Vice President's office, just outside the senate chamber.

The spokesman of the group was William Reynolds, one of the communist leaders. He protested against the exclusion of the marchers' main body from the capitol grounds. Vice President Curtis broke in with a curt "You need not make any speeches."

Reynolds persisted with a second protest, saying that the Vice President had broken an agreement to allow a delegation of twenty-five to enter with the petition. Again Mr. Curtis cut him short.

Curtis' Anger Aroused.

"We represent the needs of the 15 million idle," said Reynolds, "and also of the farmers who are similarly facing ruin. We have no hope or confidence that you——"

Mr. Curtis jumped up angrily.

"Don't you make any reflection on me," he shouted, "or I'll put the lot of you out of that door in a minute."

"I mean the body you represent," said Reynolds. "If we don't get anything from them we propose to go bac kand organize the workers for more effective struggles."

"Present your petition and I will see that it's given proper consideration," said the Vice President, impatiently motioning the delegation to be shown out.

The house delegation, headed by Raymond Benjamin, the other communist organizer of the march, presented a similar petition to Speaker Garner.

Garner Promises Consideration.

The speaker listened patiently while Benjamin described the marchers' demands.

"All I can say," said Mr. Garner, "is that I will take your petition and that we will consider your case. What we shall try earnestly to do is to see every man who wants it shall have work. Anything more definite than that I cannot say."

Benjamin said he wanted some definite promise to take back to the 3,000 marchers under his "control."

Speaker Garner grinned good naturedly.

"If you can controll 3,000 persons that's more than I can do." He nodded in the direction of the house chamber. "I can't even control 435."

The marchers were heckled by spectators frequently during their march through the streets. The most frequent shout hurled at them was "America for Americans."

Visibly tired after their six mile hike the "nuisance marchers" returned to their camp late in the afternoon and rested while Benjamin and Reynolds made plans for departure.

Representative F. H. LaGuardia, leading radical in the house of representatives, visited the encampment late in the afternoon with Representative Paul Kvale, Minnesota's farmer-labor congressman. Following a conference with Benjamin, LaGuardia said he was considering reading the communists' petition on the floor of the house tomrrow "after he had checked up on several things."

Woman Congress Winner Here

Would Aid Farmers

Miss Kathryn O'Loughlin, elected to the national house of representatives in November, was the guest of honor yesterday of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois at a luncheon at the Chicago Bar association clubrooms. Miss O'Loughlin, who is from Kansas, stopped over in Chicago on her way to Washington, where she intends to observe the operations of the "lame duck" session of congress. She hopes to obtain information which will help her as a member of the agricultural committee of the next congress, a post to which she is anxious to be chosen.

"Agriculture—that's my prime interest," she retorted promptly yesterday to a question as to what would interest her most when she took her seat next March. "We have had 2,800 Kansas farms sold for taxes during the last six years. The farmers have borrowed up to the limit of their credit. I want to try for a place on the agricultural committee to do what I can about it.

"To me it seems inflation is the only thing that can help the farmers the quickest way to get some money into their hands and let them get rid of some of their surplus stocks. My father is one of the largest taxpayers in Ellis county. I was raised on a farm, and I know at first hand how desperate the situation is out there.

Miss O'Loughlin, who is a graduate of the University of Chicago school of law, practiced law in six states including Illinois, and was a member of the 1931 Kansas legislature. She is a Democrat.

HUEY LONG ALSO HAS A MESSAGE FOR THE SENATE

Kingfish Explains How Important He Is.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Just about the time that Representative Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] was standing up in the house today urging his colleagues to get down to business and cut out all superfluous oratory, Senator Huey [Call Me Kingfish] Long [radical Dem., La.] was standing up in the senate indulging in a big piece of oratory.

Mr. Byrns pointed out that if the house members would get all their general speeches out of their system by Friday they could then debate specifically on the treasury and post-office appropriation bill, due to reach them that day, and get it passed speedily.

Tells of His Power.

Mr. Long pointed out that he was one of the radical bloc that "secured the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt" at Chicago, and that therefore the senate Democrats had better treat him nicely. He also pointed out that, since he had been of such value in Chicago to Mr. Roosevelt, the President elect had better treat him nicely in Washington.

"All I know about the so-called Dill-Wheeler-Long bloc," shouted Mr. Long, "is what I read in some of the Republican papers. There is no such bloc."

The Kingfish went on to say that the radical Democrats had won the Roosevelt nomination, and he warned that this same group, "attuned to the wishes of 120 million Americans," would continue its efforts for the decent realization of wealth.

Norris for Robinson's Place.

Recalling his old feud with Senator Robinson, Democratic minority leader from Arkansas, Senator Long said: "If the present Democratic leadership is in accord with the wishes of the American people, let's keep it; but if it ain't, then let's throw it out."

He smiled over the idea of tossing the present leadership aside. If no Democrat is readily available for the Robinson mantle, then Senator Norris, Nebraska radical who campaigned for Roosevelt, would be a leader very acceptable to Long, he stated.

Huey's Program.

Reverting to his "soak the rich" program of last session, Mr. Long advocated the following four senatorial enactments:

1. Scale up the income and inheritance taxes. As he put it, "Let's out-Couzens Couzens on the Couzens amendment."
2. Limit working day so production will not exceed consumption.
3. Put farm surplus under federal control.
4. Inflate the currency, or adopt bimetallism.

MAJ. DOOLITTLE FORCED DOWN IN LOUISIANA MARSH

New Orleans, La., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Maj. James H. Doolittle said here today that the forced landing of his plane in marsh country east of here would force temporary abandonment of his plans for a 10,000 mile flight to 25 key cities in the interest of the Chicago World Fair. The plane was mired in the marsh, he said.

With his passengers—Art Kassel, Chicago band leader, and A. B. Heilberg, advertising man—Doolittle plans to return to Chicago tomorrow via St. Louis in a regular passenger plane.

Leaving Chicago yesterday morning on the start of the flight Doolittle was forced down on the Houston-New Orleans lap when a propeller blade of his ship broke at an altitude of 2,500 feet. Doolittle said he had to choose between tall timber and the marsh and chose the latter, setting the ship down in a sticky ooze. The ship was not damaged by the landing, but the flyers said it would be impossible to take off from the marsh and it could probably only be removed by boat after being dismantled.

DEMOCRATS EYE FIVE SEATS ON SUPREME COURT

Propose Equalization of the Seven Districts.

With a view to adding to their November triumphs, the Democrats of Illinois have turned their eyes to the election of five justices of the state Supreme court next June. Three of the five members of the court whose terms expire are Republicans, and the Democrats are planning to put up battles in all of those districts.

They also are studying the question of changing the boundaries of those five districts, which can be done by the new general assembly which meets in January. If there is no action in 1933 this redistricting cannot be effected until a session immediately preceding the next election year for those districts. That would be the session of 1941.

Prepare for Inauguration Drive.

Up to this point these subjects have been no more than mentioned in conferences of the state leaders, but it is expected that the leaders will take them up about the time of the inauguration of Governor Elect Horner and, it is predicted, will advocate redistricting.

In the other two of the districts there is no election until 1936. Therefore, altering the lines of those districts—except as they are modified by changes in the other five—is not permitted by the constitution until the next general assembly meets in 1935.

The five districts that elect members of the court next June, the incumbents, and the population of those districts, are as follows:

1. Warren W. Duncan, Marion, Democrat; 655,734.
2. Norman L. Jones, Carrollton, Democrat; 569,742.
3. Frank K. Dunn, Charleston, Republican; 710,260.
6. Oscar E. Heard, Freeport, Republican; 514,254.
7. F. R. De Young, Chicago, Republican; 4,339,335.

One District Bigger than Six.

These figures indicate the inequalities of the present districts, particularly the comparative immensity of the Seventh district, which consists of Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page counties, includes more population than all the other six districts combined, and is ten times the size of either of the smallest districts, the Fourth and Fifth.

Advocates of redistricting point out that the constitution provides that boundary lines shall be based on "the rule of equality of population as nearly as county bounds will permit," and that, therefore, Cook county is entitled to a minimum of three districts. They have not tackled the problem of fitting this ratio into the redistricting of the five districts in which elections are to be held this year.

Confident of Victory Here.

Cook county Democrats are particularly confident they can elect a member of their party in the Seventh district. When Justice DeYoung was elected on June 2, 1924, he won by a plurality of only 6,862 over Angus Roy Shannon, the Democratic nominee, who did not have the wholehearted support of his organization.

Justice DeYoung carried Cook county that year by 1,122, but the Democrats say they can sweep this country alone by several times that margin next June.

STENOGRAPHER GETS YEAR FOR CLUB THEFTS

Miss Barbara Jordon Arlington, 24 years old, a New York stenographer, alleged to have looted the rooms of tenants in thirteen girls' clubs and boarding homes in Chicago, was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction and fined $100 yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Woman's court on a charge of larceny.

After listening to the complainants, some of whom were residents of the Eleanor clubs, Girls' Friendly society lodge, and the Baptist Girls' home, Miss Arlington, a smartly dressed young woman, admitted that she had taken a coat and a pair of gloves from the room of Miss Edna Boese at Fairfax hall, 215 East Erie street. She was seized on Saturday when she appeared to rent a room at 649 North Dearborn street.

Miss Arlington's method, according to testimony of the complainants, was to rent a room, give clubs of other cities as references, then telephone for her baggage. In some clubs, witnesses said, she posed as a government narcotic agent wishing a quiet place to stay. In most cases, it was charged, money disappeared from the girls' rooms during mealtimes.

A federal agent, in court to serve a warrant charging Miss Arlington with impersonating an officer, decided to wait until she had served her sentence.

President of Colombia Denies Gunboat Was Sunk

D. J. Fallon, consul general in Chicago for Colombia, yesterday received a cablegram from President Enrique Olaya Herrera denying that the Colombian gunboat Cartagena had been sunk and the gunboat Santa Marta captured in a battle with Peruvians on the Putumayo river. Dispatchs from various sources have told of several severe clashes following the seizure by Peruvians of Leticia, a town awarded by treaty to Colombia several years ago.

"How Quiet It Is," Say Mrs. Gertsch's Neighbors

The radio music stopped suddenly yesterday morning in the first floor apartment of Mrs. Amy Gertsch, 58 West Superior street. She looked up to see the instrument disappear through an open window in the hands of two rough looking men. "Yes," said neighbors who had heard the radio, "the men may have been thieves."

SALVATION ARMY WORKER DIES.

Frederick Patche, 60 years old, a laborer at the Salvation Army social service center at 140 West 61st street, died yesterday of heart disease while at work in the center yard.

Has Own Herd

Mrs. James A. Patten of Evanston, widow of the "wheat king," was elected president of the American Milk Goat Record association at its annual convention yesterday at the Stevens hotel.

Russell P. Darst of Dayton, O., was elected vice president, the post held last year by Mrs. Patten, and Will L. Te Walt of Vincennes, Ind., was reelected secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Patten has a herd of 40 goats on her farm near Des Plaines. She sells their milk to the Evanston hospital and to a number of citizens of the suburb.

The first importation of milk goats to the United States took place 20 years ago, Mr. Te Walt said, when 25 does were brought here from Switzerland. Today, he said, there are 43,000 in the country. His association has 600 members.

Frank J. Helm of Grass Lake, Mich., owner of a herd of 105 milk goats, entertained the convention during the day with his description of their education in arithmetic. Each of the does has a number, and will respond when it is called at milking time, he asserted.

Escaped Asylum Inmate Is Held to Jury as Rapist

MARSEILLES, Dec. 6.—With the same extraordinary police precautions which recently were observed when he was en route to Denmark from Turkey, Leon Trotzky was hustled across France today.

Thirty miles outside this city tonight, the Paris-Marseilles express was stopped at a small station while the exiled Russian revolutionist was transferred to a police automobile. With his wife and three young friends who are accompanying him on this journey, Trotzky is lodged secretly at some hotel here tonight.

$2,000 JUDGMENT GRANTED AGAINST RALPH CAPONE

The Federal Electric company was granted a $2,000 default judgment yesterday against Ralph Capone, brother of the gang leader, who is serving a sentence for income tax fraud in the federal penitentiary at McNeil island, Wash. Representatives of the company told Judge Martin H. Finneran in the Circuit court that in October, 1924, Capone contracted with them for an electric sign at 2248 South Cicero avenue, Cicero, which he was to pay for at the rate of $25 a week for three years. He defaulted on the contract shortly afterward, they stated.

REYNOLDS KIN TO SHARE WITH LIBBY HOLMAN

Winston Salem, N. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Although a final settlement cannot be made until after February, by which time it is expected her baby will be born, negotiations looking toward an agreement between Libby Holman Reynolds, widow of Z. Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions, and the Reynolds family are under way, it was learned here today.

Alfred Holman, father of the stage singer who was released from charges of slaying her husband, was here last week and conferred with local counsel. Benet Polikoff admitted today. Mr. Polikoff also admitted that negotiations are under way. He said, however, that while a tentative agreement might be reached beforehand, no final settlement could be made until after February. Mary Reynolds Babcock, sister of Smith, is now in Europe.

Estate Worth 18 Millions.

As the matter now stands the potential worth of the estate to which Libby's baby will be a claimant is around eighteen million dollars, but nothing like that amount will be asked of the Reynolds family, it was learned today from an authentic source.

Manley, Hendrin & Womble of this city are representing the Reynolds family. This is the firm which recommended nol pros in the criminal actions against Libby and Ab Walker, Reynolds' secretary.

It was revealed here today that under the will of the late R. J. Reynolds, founder of the 150 million dollar corporation bearing his name, there was no mention of widows or widowers of his children. Therefore some say neither Ann Cannon, divorced first wife, nor Libby, widowed by a bullet through Smith Reynolds' brain, receive anything under the will of Smith's father.

Dower Rights in Question.

Under the will of Mrs. R. J. Reynolds Smith's part of her estate is said to be between 1½ and 2 million dollars. Smith's personal estate was valued at around $200,000.

The question of dower rights for Libby has raised a legal tangle, it is said. The estate for Smith was left in trust by his father for him until he became 28. "Does his death before 28 defeat his widow's claim to her one-third inheritance, commonly called dower?" is the question before the attorneys. In North Carolina personal property is not involved in dower.

He drove to the city's edge and attacked her, Miss Snook said.

Drive a Cold Out of the System Overnight by Quick and Proper Treatment

Don't temporize with a cold. A cold—or grippe—can quickly turn into something else. Be quick—be zealous—in your treatment of a cold. A cold can be expelled overnight if you act promptly enough and use the right thing.

First, take a COLD remedy for a cold. A cold is a specific condition calling for a specific treatment. A cure-all is not a dependable remedy. A preparation that is good for a dozen ills and ailments can't be equally effective for a cold. Many popular remedies make the relief of a cold more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

Second, take a cold remedy administered internally. A cold is an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Local, or outside, applications afford only temporary relief and do not reach the real seat of the trouble and do not prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

As Your Doctor Will Tell You—

Correct treatment for a cold is supplied in Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. As your doctor will tell you, no better prescription for a cold could be written. First of all, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, the first requisite in the treatment of a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Safe for Young and Old

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is safe for young and old to take. It contains no narcotics and does not produce any bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. In dainty tablet form, it is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. All over the world Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is regarded as the standard cold remedy. These famous tablets come in handy pocket-size boxes and are sold by every drug store in America.

Overnight!

Get a box of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine today and at the first sign of a cold, when the sneezing or headache begins, take a few of the tablets immediately. This is enough usually to stop the cold. Say "NO" to any dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.

"THIS X-RAY shows why you don't feel well!"

That "no good" feeling usually means intestines need attention

Here is the case of a young man who was so seriously run-down from this trouble that in the words of Dr. André Cain, the noted French medical authority, "he was absolutely unfit for work."

As Dr. Cain explains:—

"The patient came to me for examination. His condition was made worse by persistent skin eruptions—boils.

"I went over him carefully—had radiographs [X-rays] made. They revealed intestinal fatigue—weakened bowel action.

"I prescribed yeast. It completely corrected the constipation, and in three weeks not a single skin blemish remained."

The reason doctors so strongly recommend fresh yeast for constipation is that it is not a drug but a food. Yet it has a greater effect than any other food known.

It "tones." Stimulates. Actually strengthens the natural action of the body that helps you eliminate wastes. It also softens these wastes so they can be cleared away more easily.

Thus intestines are gently urged to help themselves. Purgatives are no longer necessary. And as your system starts to function normally, appetite increases, strength picks up . . . harassing minor ailments—colds, headaches, etc.—less often occur.

Try Fleischmann's Yeast today!

Act now . . . to get rid of constipation . . . listlessness . . . bad skin . . . indigestion. It's so easy! Just eat 3 cakes of fresh yeast every day, regularly—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime.

You can get Fleischmann's Yeast at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains. Add it to your regular diet—starting today!

Eat Fleischmann's Yeast just plain, or dissolved in water (a third of a glass). It's very rich, you know, in vitamins B, G and D.

Fleischmann's fresh Yeast is a Remarkable Health Food thousands eat regularly—3 Cakes a Day!

ORDER PROBES INTO SALES OF CHARITY COAL

Courtney and Others to Sift Evidence.

The disclosure that a charity coal contractor was substituting a cheaper grade of fuel than his contract with the Illinois Emergency Relief commission specified was followed yesterday by swift action on the part of prosecuting, relief, legislative, and other officials.

State's Attorney Courtney called a conference in his office for 11 a. m. today to sift the evidence. He invited the four investigators who uncovered the evidence to attend along with officials of the relief commission. He promised a thorough investigation of the charges and rapid prosecution of the contractor if the evidence was substantiated.

Commission Orders Probe.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission voted unanimously that its officers should conduct a searching investigation of the quality of the fuel which the commission's seven coal contractors are delivering, and if it is found to be below contract specifications to bring suit to recover the difference between the price of the coal actually delivered and the coal that is specified in the contract.

Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, announced that he would request the seven coal contractors to furnish original waybills or certified duplicates for each carload of coal they deliver under their contracts. He will attend State's Attorney Courtney's conference today to aid in the coal substitution investigation.

State Representative Roland V. Libonati, from the 17th district, called a meeting of all local members of the legislature to investigate the coal substitution charges in view of the demands made upon the legislature to provide additional state funds for relief of the idle.

Find Evidence in Coal Yard.

The evidence of substitution of cheap coal was found in an investigation last Friday and Saturday at the yards of F. Bieschke & Sons, at 2640 Elston avenue. The Bieschke company has a contract to deliver Franklin or Williamson county, Ill., coal to the idle in the district bounded by the river, the lake, North avenue, and the city limits.

Four investigators saw coal taken from cars that were later traced over the Monon route to a Midland, Ind., mine delivered to six families on the relief rolls. The Indiana coal sells for about $3.30 on track anywhere in Chicago, while the Bieschke company is receiving $6.23 a ton to deliver Illinois coal.

Another coal company indicated that it would supply coal of the quality being delivered by the Bieschke company in the same territory for $5.44 a ton, a saving of 79 cents a ton on the present contract price. The relief commission is buying approximately 60,000 tons of coal a month, and a similar saving during the remaining terms of the seven contracts would aggregate more than $200,000.

Urged to Effect Saving.

The commission was urged to effect this saving at its meeting yesterday by Charles B. Goodspeed, assistant to the chairman of the commission. He remarked that the investigation of the Beischke company's delivery had shown that the Indiana coal was satisfactory to the families of the idle that had been receiving it. The commission reserved action pending its investigation.

The disclosure of the coal substitution by the Bieschke company was brought up at a joint meeting of the commission and the Cook county board of commissioners. The two groups met to attempt to iron out several disagreements between them on several relief contracts.

Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor and a member of the commission, warned that the entire method of awarding the relief contracts must be revised unless the two boards wish to face "serious legal entanglements."

Question Food Contract.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson and State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett, members of the commission, declared flatly that they would oppose payments under a $1,500,000 food contract that the commission planned to award to the National Tea company on the ground that the bidding had not been conducted properly. The National Tea company had been assured of the contract by E. L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the commission, Ryerson said.

The commission requested Ryerson to see what could be done to rescind the verbal contract. The commission further agreed to meet with the county board in an effort to sell the $17,000,000 county relief bond issues authorized by the recent legislature.

The commission awarded a $181,825 contract for 125,000 pairs of shoes to the Fair store with the agreement of the county board members. Action on contracts for coke aggregating $40,000 were deferred in order to develop a plan to allow small coal dealers to participate in the distribution of the coke.

Members of the county board said after the meeting that the charity coal disclosures had had the immediate benefit of producing more rigid scrutiny of the methods in use in the awarding of relief contracts.

"MY HAPPIEST CHRISTMAS," BY A GOOD FELLOW

Father Describes His Experience.

The following letter was written by a Good Fellow of 1931, telling of his happiness in delivering a basket to a destitute family on Christmas Eve last year. You, too, can experience this wholesome pleasure by mailing the accompanying coupon to the Good Fellows, Tribune, Chicago. By return mail, you will receive the name and a brief description of a family fully worthy of your basket.

BY A GOOD FELLOW.

I must thank the Good Fellows for first imbuing me with the true Christmas spirit. Last year I delivered my first basket under your auspices and shall do so again this year and on every year hereafter that I have any income.

I have a family of my own, a wife and three children. I know the joy of Christmas with my own children around my own Christmas tree. But being a Good Fellow is something different and something in addition to Christmas at home.

Mr. Average Citizen.

I'm not a philanthropist by a long shot, just a salaried, white collar worker, barely managing to meet a modest household budget. I suppose I'm as near being Mr. Average Citizen as any one, with no more vices and no more virtues than my neighbors. What I'm trying to say is that, without being a sentimentalist, I got a whale of a kick out of this Good Fellow job.

Last year my wife filled out the Good Fellow coupon published in THE TRIBUNE and then told me about it. It didn't appeal to me very much. I got all the happiness I needed out of buying presents for my own kids and to me then this Good Fellow business meant no more than the expenditure of three or four bucks that I couldn't very well afford. But I thought I'd humor my wife and I didn't complain.

We got the name of a family in our ward, an abandoned wife with a little boy and girl. My wife bought a few durable toys, some fruit and hard candy, and some stuff for a Christmas dinner. I went with my wife to deliver the basket.

A Basement Flat.

It was in the late afternoon, just after dark. The address was that of an old frame house that had been converted into small apartments. Our family was listed for a basement flat.

I would have stayed in the car while my wife made the delivery. Being a charity worker doesn't appeal to me and I was embarrassed. But I had to go along to carry the basket.

A young woman, neat and clean, in a gingham dress, answered our knock and let us into her one room flat, also neat and clean, but with bare furnishings of a gas plate, two kitchen chairs, a high chair, a table, and two beds, as I recall. The mother and her two kids were eating their dinner of mush.

I don't want to try to describe what happened in the minute we were there. I'm no sob sister and don't want you to suspect me of being one.

The boy, about 5 years old, jumped from his chair and looked into our basket, grinned, and turned to his mother. "I thought you said there wasn't going to be any Santa Claus this year?" he shouted. My wife and that mother exchanged knowing glances. The little girl cried until a doll was placed in her hands.

Christmas Seems Happier.

We excused ourselves and left. When we got in the car my wife cried, like women will, and held my right arm close to her side. I didn't say anything. Maybe I couldn't have talked very well just then.

Anyway, when we got home Christmas eve seemed a little happier than any of the other happy Christmases I've had with my family. I'm sold on this Good Fellow stuff and urge others to join.

DEDICATE OGDEN IMPROVEMENT PROJECT FRIDAY

Cermak and Lindheimer to Be Speakers.

The Ogden avenue improvement project, the connecting link between Lincoln park and the west side, will be dedicated on Friday by Mayor Cermak. The project, which connects two previously widened stretches of Ogden avenue, consists of two bridges, one across the north branch of the river and the other across the Ogden canal, and a viaduct across Goose island.

The entire structure stretches between Cornell and Rees streets, a distance of nearly one mile. It was built with funds from a bond issue approved in 1930.

Parade on Program.

Mayor Cermak and Benjamin F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements, will be the speakers at the celebration, which will open at noon with a luncheon at the Parkway hotel. After the luncheon a parade will form at 2 o'clock at Center and Clark streets and Ogden avenue. High school bands and American Legion drum corps will furnish the music for the march in Ogden avenue to the north approach of the viaduct and bridges.

Mayor Cermak will cut a ribbon at the north approach and lead the parade to the west end of the viaduct. There the mayor will cut another ribbon and declare the improvement officially open.

The parade will resume the march west to Union park to cover the entire length of the completed improvement.

Sponsors of Celebration.

The celebration is sponsored by the West Central association, West Side Commercial league, Center Street Business association, North Central association, North Avenue Business association, North Halsted Street Business association, West Division Business association, Lincoln Park Kiwanis, with other civic organizations and Olivet institute coöperating.

Among those who will aid in the celebration are State Senator Edward O'Grady, chairman of the parade committee; Ald. J. B. Waller [43d], chairman of the arrangements committee, and Ald. Dorsey Crowe [42d], Frank Konkowski [31st], George D. Kells [28th], and Jeremiah P. Leahy [27th].

The viaduct has a roadway of 78 feet with two 15 foot sidewalks. The bridges, each approximately 200 feet long, have roadways of 60 feet with two 15 foot sidewalks.

Union Official Wins Delay on Gun Toting Charge

Thomas Jakubowski, 4505 Nevada avenue, business agent of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' union, was granted a continuance until Dec. 16 when he was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The complaint was signed by his brother-in-law, Harold Gustafson, 2721 North Kilpatrick avenue, also an official of the union. Jakubowski is alleged to have tried to force his way into Gustafson's home. According to police, the trouble started over accusations of misappropriation of $100,000 of the union's funds.

WELFARE FUND REACHES TOTAL OF $3,209,546

The drive for $7,500,000 being conducted by the Emergency Welfare fund to maintain the established charities in welfare work other than relief to the idle totaled $3,209,546 last night. The total was announced after an audit had been completed following the announcement of additional contributions at a noon meeting of campaign workers in the Hotel La Salle.

Transportation companies, banks, packing concerns, and wholesale dry goods houses were the most liberal contributors to the fund in the reports made yesterday, Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign, said. The donations of banks and transportation companies, including the gifts of their employés, each totaled $27,000 since the last accounting on Friday. In the same period employés of packing concerns made additional gifts of $17,000.

The race between six sections of the trades and industries division was led by section B, of which Clarence B. Sills is chairman. The section includes insurance and real estate concerns, banks, and stock and grain houses. It has reported a total of $738,000 in donations, which is 56 per cent of its quota of $1,375,000.

THE VOTE ON PROHIBITION.

Mr. Garner was very brisk in his opening on Capitol hill Monday, but was six votes shy of getting anywhere with the repeal resolution. It must be kept in mind that the speaker proposed an extraordinary, abrupt disposal of a question which has vexed the nation for ten years. It was proposed to a house of representatives still composed of members who have been dominated by the Anti-Saloon league, although they have been chastened by a revolutionary election and many of them are sitting for the last time in Washington.

Only last March Representative Beck of Pennsylvania presented the Beck-Linthicum resolution for resubmission of the amendment to this same body of congressmen and was defeated by a vote of 187 for to 227 against. All spring and summer, before and after the national conventions, bills and resolutions affecting prohibition were submitted to both houses and without exception defeated by votes which left very little promise of any success in this congress. The dry autocracy was standing pat and it had the votes. Such a change has come over the retainers in the citadel of Bishop Cannon and Dr. Wilson that a downright and unqualified proposal for repeal of the amendment is defeated by only six votes of a two-thirds majority. No one can doubt that there is in this the end of an era.

Forty-four Democrats, of the party politically committed in honor and good faith to the repeal of the amendment, deserted their party. Some of them did so undoubtedly because their congressional districts were not with the party in its liquor position. Although the Democratic proposal for unqualified repeal was considered and rejected in the Republican convention, nevertheless 103 Republicans joined Mr. Garner's side of the Democratic house. He did not fail because of the Republicans but because of the Democrats. It is to be noted that eight Illinois Republicans voted against the repeal. Illinois has voted, in every fashion possible, consistently against both national and state prohibition. These eight Republicans, Adkins, Allen, Chiperfield, Hall, Holaday, Morton D. Hull, Frank R. Reid and Yates, either as pawns or for personal conviction, voted against the expressed will of the state. For them, as for all the negative Republican votes, it can be said that the resolution was not their party resolution. It was, however, an expression of the will of their state and they were in the position of putting themselves in the way of that sentiment and of not representing the will of Illinois.

It is further to be considered that the members of the house were not asked to repeal the 18th amendment nor could they do so. They were asked merely to submit to the states the question of repeal or retention of the amendment, knowing that three-fourths of the states must vote yes and that thirteen can prevent the repeal.

Objection can be made that Mr. Garner was quite inconsiderate of the differences of opinion which may still exist regarding the precise steps to be taken in changing the methods of regulating trade in intoxigating beverages. He did not give any chance for expression or reconciliation of ideas. It was a slap-bang performance and the members could take it or leave it. In justification of this performance it can be said that the air of the hall in which the vote was taken is still foggy with the controversy that has been going on there for years over this very question. Nothing new could be said, and if masterful proceeding could ever be defended it would be in this instance. The affair will go more leisurely and more deliberately in the senate. It is not impossible for the house members to have another shot at another proposal. The probability is thought to be against the acceptance of a modified repealer in the house this session. Nevertheless, a new record has been made. The majority has been switched and it is now within a few votes of representing two-thirds of the membership of the larger house. From consideration of the repealer the house proceeds to the more immediately disposable questions related to modification of prohibition statutes. Here only majorities will be required. It is a reasonable expectation that the sale of a malt beverage will be permitted and that the hysterical excesses of prohibition enforcement will be removed from such federal statutes as the Volstead act and the Jones 5 and 10 law.

Since spring the American people have used their political machinery to register one of their most striking changes of social thought and political desire. It has written the finish of a period of political control which for many, many years will remain astonishing.

DR. EINSTEIN'S VISA.

After a bit of a flurry Albert Einstein again has the permission of Uncle Sam to revisit the United States. There was a little excitement before the American consul in Berlin formally satisfied himself that no disqualifications were attached to the scientist, who took the affair in rather a temper. The genius of Dr. Einstein is more than conceded. It is a popular legend in which he appears as considerably more than human, but the doctor has human frailties for which probably the rest of mankind should be grateful. There should not be too great a gulf between the norm and the genius.

Einstein has political opinions. Some of them are naïve. In his own science he would not have such opinions because he would not find anything to base them upon. Like many other men of great particular achievement, when he walks out of his field he walks out of his character. In political opinion Einstein relies upon his own emotional responses. He hasn't taken the trouble to discover the elements with which his opinions are dealing.

The scrutiny which followed almost as a matter of course when a protest was made to the state department against his visit to the United States was within the accustomed procedure of nations. The protest may have been silly, but Dr. Einstein's naïveté had provoked it and he was not being subjected to a special indignity. He was merely discovering that it is a practice of nations to regard the admission of aliens as a privilege extended at pleasure by the host and that the guest may be required to answer for himself. If the great scientist had known how a state regards itself he would have found nothing unusual in the status of the visitor as it suddenly was disclosed to him.

DEFENSE OF THE DEBTS.

It seems to be assumed that the citizens who object to the methods used in approaching the questions of international debts do not know what they are talking about. They are assumed to be ignorant of the effect of the payments in international economy. They are supposed not to know the differences between an expense in the budgets of the debtor nations and a transfer in international exchange. It is thought that they do not understand the effects of such transfers and do not know what damage can be done the trade of the United States by an insistence upon the letter of the bond. It is apparently a widely held opinion that they do not know they are retarding recovery and that they are adding to the elements of world-wide misery.

It happens that these assumptions are false. The fact is appreciated that the amount of a payment may be small in a national budget and almost prohibitive in an international exchange. In a controversy in which the creditor has been so bombarded with sentimental absurdities, with reflections upon his moral character, upon his worth in a war in which he joined, and upon his mental sufficiency it is natural that the tone of persons defending the creditor's rights should be at times vibrant and indignant. Americans have every cause for being disgusted not only with the things done by persons speaking for the debtors abroad but by the contemptible behavior of American cancellationists who support the cause of the debtors, not as an economic issue but as a moral reproach to their own country.

It has come to pass that nearly all negotiations are for the expunging or at least the further reduction of the debt and are not to discover any way of satisfying these just claims. Because there are difficulties, or, as is generally contended by economists, impossibilities in the transfer problem, the conclusion seems to be that no payment at all can be made. Defenders of the debt refuse to be drawn into such a conclusion. They do not think that the position is a proper one for the debtor to take. They believe that the obligation rests upon the debtor to discover methods by which some satisfaction can be offered rather than a multitude of reasons why nothing at all can be done.

These debts will be in the American national budget. They will be added, if no payment is obtained from abroad, to the expenses of the American government. They must be retired out of the pocket of the American taxpayer. The American government is being pressed on every side to get its expenses within its income. It is increasing its treasury deficit every month and will have great difficulty in getting a political adjustment. If the debt payment is transferred to the American expenses it means that economy will strike at additional materials and services. It's frequently the case that a government forced to retrench cuts into essential rather than nonessential services.

The American people are justified in requiring that consideration of these international debts be first a consideration of payment and not of cancellation. If the debts are reconsidered it should be with a view to making it possible for a satisfaction of some kind to be obtained. This should be a point of honor with the debtors as well as a point of interest to the creditor. It is not impossible for the debtors to supply goods and services which they can keep within their own national budgets. A memorandum prepared in Washington, for instance, shows the nature and quantity of raw materials produced in the domain of the debtors and required in American industry. It shows the annual value of these to be nearly 90 million dollars. It is suggested that within these classifications there is a possibility of settlement by goods. The point which requires increasing emphasis is that no negotiation beginning with the acknowledged difficulties has ever consistently tried to find an economically sound form of payment. Until that has been done it will be impossible to concede either that the debtors are showing complete good faith or that the American cancellationists have any common sense.

Editorial of the Day

THE HUNTING SEASON.

[Indianapolis News.]

An annual controversy between certain rural and certain urban residents is on, hard words are being said and a little blood may be spilled. All this is because the general assembly authorized a period when game might be hunted and killed. Right now it is the rabbit that keeps moving lest a load of shot overtake him. Right now, as well, it is the city hunter who is provoking the farmer to wrath. The legislature provided that hunters should obtain permission to hunt from landholders. Failure even to seek such permission has caused farms to be posted with "no hunting" signs. In some counties groups of farmers have advertised in the county seat newspapers, warning hunters away from their farms. One of these advertisements says that the farmers wish to preserve wild life and protect their live stock. Many hunters seem to feel that everything outside of corporate limits is the public domain, free to anybody who cares to use it. They would object to a farmer walking across their lawns or firing a gun on their premises, but they trespass on the farmer's land without so much as asking if he objects. Gates are left open and live stock wanders away, hunting dogs chase chickens and eat the eggs in henhouses, cows and hogs are wounded and sometimes killed, fences are torn down and general havoc wrought by men who seem to have no regard for the property rights of others and no courtesy. If a hunter sees a place where he would like to hunt he should ask permission of the owner, and if that is refused should go on until he finds somebody who is willing to have his game killed.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

DID YOU READ what Mr. Hoover said in his message regarding prohibition, the burning question of the hour? That's funny, neither did we.

WE DID NOTICE, however, that he spoke in favor of a general sales tax. We stopped right there and skipped that whole paragraph. The general sales tax may be a perfectly fine idea, or it may not; we're not saying one way or the other, because when we came to the word tax we burst right out crying and just couldn't read another darn word.

AND, ANYHOW, the reports from Washington said that when the message was read the senators and representatives were listless and apathetic. Wonder if any of 'em snored?

MR. HOOVER asked for a regrouping and consolidating of more than fifty federal departments and agencies. Which is fine, but if those are the departments and agencies that tell us how to make a pair of pants for Junior, how to massage the dining room floor, and how to teach the hens to keep a record of the eggs they lay, and other things like that, then we like what Gen. Haig said best: "Sack the lot!"

BUT WE DO WISH Mr. Hoover had made a few well chosen remarks about beer by Christmas. Even if we can't get it we just love to hear about it.

WHEN REMEMBRANCE IS PAIN.

They say that old love dies as summer dies
And new love comes when springs renew,
But whether winter here or summer there
I stare past seasons and yet remember you.

You never seem to hear my constant call,
For all my searching we never seem to meet,
Though always at the dusk I shout for you

After weary winters and each fading fall,
I shall go searching past the outpost stars,
And space itself shall echo with my lonely call.

Tonight I stand alone where once we stood,
Atop the moon-drenched hill beyond the town,
But you refuse to leave the bed they made for you,
You seem to love the lace upon your burial gown.

Is it because the dead must soon forget
The living who somehow cannot forget,
Or is it for the best that dead eyes never see
That living eyes are always sorrow-filled and wet?

ABORIGINE.

PROF. EINSTEIN got mad as all git out at the routine questions fired at him when he applied for a passport visé before sailing hitherward. Oh, professor, you don't know nothing yet. Wait till you get over here and the income tax man asks you a few things about your pay and the motor cop wants to know when you speed down the road where the hell the fire is and when the bandit comes into your room and tells you to stick 'em up, he'll ask you how much coin you got and where it is.

AND EVEN IF Santa Claus had brought us legal beer for Christmas the darn stuff would probably have frozen solid and been a total loss, but, having expected it, we wouldn't have had any sort of beer with which to greet the Yuletide. But now that we know several weeks in advance there is plenty of time to go down cellar and make a mess of home brew for the Christmas tree or else call up the bootlegger. Oh, hello, Max, is this you? . . . Got any suds? . . . That's fine! . . . Oh, about a couple of cases.

THE INVENTORS haven't worked quite as fast as we thought they would when we bought a loaf of bread and found it was already sliced. That was several weeks ago and we were positive that by this time we would be able to buy bread not only sliced but buttered and with a gadget on the under side of the loaf that would reach out automatic arms and spread either jam, marmalade or crabapple jelly on the bread, whichever was desired. But that gadget will probably be on the market within a week or two. It's a wonderful age! What'll they do next?

THE HOSPITAL PAYS.

A young man riding a motorcycle was badly injured in an accident about a mile away. He was taken to the hospital, where X-ray pictures showed he had a broken leg and arm and a fractured skull. In his pocket was nearly $400. The hospital and the surgeon on its staff gave him all the service the case called for. The father was telegraphed for and came.

In a few days the boy died. The father called the undertaker and, after his services were rendered, the father carried the body into another state and burial was in the family cemetery.

The father tried to get away without paying the undertaker, but in this he failed. He refused to pay the hospital or the surgeons, though he admitted that he owned several thousand dollars' worth of real estate and other property and did not deny that his son was a minor. He swung on to the money found in the possession of his son, because, he said, the son had taken it without right, had gone to a city, bought a motorcycle with the misappropriated funds, and the amount he had was the unexpended balance.

Attorneys advised the hospital that they would not succeed if they tried to collect their bill by retaining the body.

This is not an isolated instance. All small town hospitals located within reach of well traveled highways are being called on to serve those injured in road accidents practically every day in the year. Thus we have another illustration of the burden put on the honest and thrifty by the dishonest and thriftless. The eventual result of the abuse will be a heartlessness and lack of Samaritanism from which the poor and unfortunate will be the sufferers.

The danger to the continued existence of hospitals, and particularly to small hospitals, is so great that the research council of the social sciences of Columbia university considered the subject worthy of investigation. They found that what happened in this story is a daily occurrence in hospitals, large and small, in all parts of the country.

In the group where liability insurance is carried the undertaker, the hospital, and the attending physician get paid nine times out of ten, though in one-seventh of the cases the pay is inadequate for the service rendered. Where there is no liability insurance only 23 per cent of the service rendered is paid for and in more than one-third of the cases the amount available for paying is inadequate.

The only remedy that can be seen is compulsory liability insurance. Unless some relief is found many small hospitals will be compelled to refuse to take people injured in road accidents or else they will have to close the institutions.

Hospitals have become essential to health. In this changing world, within ten years, the rural district and small city that does not have hospital service will be in straits. The rural districts have a disproportionate part of the road accidents. The burden that comes from caring for the reckless driver is falling largely on the farmer and the citizens of the towns and small cities.

LEAD POISONING.

Mrs. P. K. writes: What is lead poisoning? How does it act and how is it contracted? Could a person working in an atmosphere of lead pencil shavings get it? The cause of her ailment was not established until after her death and an autopsy was performed.

REPLY.

In lead poisoning lead is circulating in the blood and poisoning the tissues, principally the nerve cells and fibers. The tendency is for the lead to be stored in the bones. So long as it stays there in storage it does but little harm, but the danger is that at any time the stored article may be put in circulation.

Lead poisoning is apt to affect any one who works in contact with lead. It may enter the body through the digestive tract, the lungs, and, to a slight extent, through the skin. If I understand you correctly there would be no danger of lead poisoning in the case you ask about. A lead pencil is lead in name, but not in composition.

ALCOHOLIC BUTTERMILK.

J. J. H. writes: It was brought up during the recent campaign that buttermilk is in direct violation of the eighteenth amendment because of its alcoholic content of three-fourths of 1 per cent. Is this true?

REPLY:

Of course, when yeast microbes live on milk sugar, they make alcohol and gas. Therefore, buttermilk contains some alcohol and it is somewhat carbonated. The senator who holds his buttermilk until it becomes quite alcoholic and fizzes like charged water drinks a very sour and otherwise poor product. He must first tank up pretty well otherwise before he cares for this offensive product.

USE BORACIC ACID.

REPLY:

I had an article recently on this subject. The disease is a cousin to granular lids. It responds very well to treatment by eye washes that are composed of boracic acid in solution in water.

It is also treated by exposure to certain lamp therapy.

ATTACK ON WILL.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a brother and two sisters. All of us are married. My brother and sister live with my father. My father has a two-flat brick building and other property. People have told me that my father has made a will and has everything fixed so that my sister gets all. 1. Could he do this? His will is made out that while he lives my sister is just to clothe him and feed him and when he dies everything is to go to her. 2. Please tell me where I could find out how his will is really made and [3] what I should do about getting an equal division. G. D.

1. Yes, unless you could set the will aside on ground of undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.
2. We see no way to force the information unless he is willing to talk it over with you.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 7, 1916.

LONDON. — Britain's cabinet crisis has not been entirely weathered, but there are indications that the problem is nearing a solution. After a week of the wildest storm, the political atmosphere has cleared enough to reveal these facts: A. Bonar Law having refused to accept the responsibility, David Lloyd George has consented to undertake the formation of a new government. The new ministry will be formed from a coalition, Britain's chief statesmen having fought each other to such a standstill that compromise is the only solution. There will be radical changes in the government, but the general policy with regard to the war will undergo little transformation. Lloyd George will assume the premiership only with the understanding that if he fails to command a working majority he will dissolve the government immediately and call a general election.

LONDON. — Information received here indicates that the Russian and Rumanian forces, facing almost certain defeat, abandoned Bucharest to the invading Teutonic armies in order to keep their forces intact for a final stand on the Serteh line. The defenders who were before the Rumanian capital have fled to the east, probably along the line of the railroad to Cernavoda, the only route which now lies open to them. Behind them there were left without a struggle the dismantled remains of the fortifications which had made Bucharest, with its 350,000 inhabitants, what was once regarded as the strongest military camp in the world, with the exception of Paris. In a military sense, the capture of the city of Ploesci is perhaps more important than the fall of the capital itself. This city, with 60,000 inhabitants, is the junction of five railroad systems and the center of the great oil district of the Prahova valley. Unless the Rumanians have been able to destroy or disable the oil wells, machinery, and stores of oil, the Germans will get a much needed prize.

LONDON. — The French gunboat Surprise has been sunk by German submarines at Funchal, Madeira, the Portuguese minister of marine announced in a wireless dispatch received from Lisbon. Thirty-four of the crew of the gunboat perished.

EL PASO, Tex.—Chihuahua again is in the hands of Carranza troops after having been occupied by Villa bandits since Nov. 5, private telegrams received here say. Whether the town was evacuated by Villa or recaptured after a fight was not stated.

CHICAGO.—Two German prisoners of war in the military internment camp at Morrissey, British Columbia, "would be glad to correspond with ladies of good family with a view of marriage after the war," according to a letter received by THE TRIBUNE from the camp. The letter, which bears the signature of Erich von Buchholz, was received by the advertising department of THE TRIBUNE. It asks rates on an advertisement "to appear either three times or only once in your Sunday edition."

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The Rev. Frank Mason North of New York, corresponding secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, was elected president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, in session here. The Rev. Rivington D. Lord was reëlected recording secretary, and Alfred R. Kimball was reëlected treasurer.

ABOUT HOSPITAL BEDS.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—The attention directed to the plight of the Cook county hospital and to private hospitals of the city by the newspapers is highly appreciated by every reputable hospital.

The private hospitals have many beds available, but no funds with which to operate them, and the county hospital has tax funds, but no beds. The private hospitals, as representatives of the emergency relief commission have said, recognize the crisis and are offering to the commission a limited number of beds at rates below cost of operation in order to help meet the emergency. These beds are in addition to the number always available for worthy poor people at less-than-cost rates.

One thing the present situation, so effectively emphasized by the press, undoubtedly will do will be to make the public understand that most private hospitals have no resources other than payments from patients, and the few with endowment funds receive only a very small percentage of their total operating cost from such funds. One of the studies of the committee on the costs of medical care indicated that if all hospital endowment funds were spread equally among all private hospitals the average income from such sources would be about eight cents a day per bed.

The monthly chart of hospital performance published in Hospital Management which shows conditions in 35 states indicates that the occupancy of beds is slightly above 50 per cent and is dropping. No public charity hospitals are included in the chart, but the situation among these in other large cities is identical with the situation at Cook county—facilities are being taxed to capacity. In some of these cities an equitable ward rate is paid by the county or city to private hospitals which care for indigent patients whom the municipality or county cannot serve in a public charity hospital. MATTHEW O. FOLEY.

TAXES COME FIRST.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—I read in today's TRIBUNE that the Rapid Transit Lines receiver had paid taxes for 1930 on that property. I regret to say that I hold some first mortgage bonds of the C. R. T. which I purchased several years ago and that this company fell down on payment of semi-annual interest last July and shortly thereafter receivers were appointed. We who invested our money which made it possible for this company to remain in operation must now get along as best we can without the income from our investments, but the county and city must get their taxes in order to pay the "poor starving school teachers, policemen, firemen, et al."

I happen to hold a few bonds on a loop office building supposedly owned by some wealthy individuals, and have received no income from this source for over 18 months. No doubt the owners or receivers of this property are paying taxes also with my money.

I should like very much to be shown where there is any justice in this.

J. P. RYAN.

TO ASSURE PAYMENT.

Columbus, Wis., Nov. 28.—I would like to see a screaming headline in the W. G. N. advocating an embargo on all French goods if France refuses to pay the interest due Uncle Sam. If any nation in the world loves money above everything it is the French, and a threat to shut out their products will have more effect than all the diplomatic hooey. An appeal to all patriotic American tourists to leave out France in their 1933 itinerary would also be an effective weapon. JOHN C. NEWMAN.

THE HOUSEMAID'S LOT.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—If a maid would only put herself in the position of the wife, then only would she realize how much better off she is as the maid. There are but a handful of families who can really afford a maid today. A maid demands a private room, good food, time off, and what not; she costs her employer no less than $10 per week maintenance, besides her salary of $4.

Today, a college graduate stenographer is willing and anxious to work for $15 in an office; out of this she pays for room and board, carfare and lunch, and I doubt if she can save $3 per week; whereas the maid's $3 is as good as saved. She has no expenses. Since a dollar today has the purchasing power of two or three last year, she in reality is earning $26 per week.

Take my own case [and there are a million like it]: I am a doctor's wife, I can and have managed my home, cooked, baked, laundered and cared for my babies alone. I did not get a day off in five years; never received any praise for what I do, nor any thank you, nor even $1 pin money.

My maid receives $4 per week, gets off Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, returns at 8:30 a. m. Thursday, gets off every Sunday evening, stops her work after dinner dishes are done evenings, has every conceivable electric appliance, gets the same good food we eat and all she wants of it. She has her own bed. She does no cooking. Yet this maid is dissatisfied with her job; she doesn't get enough time off; and to keep after her to see that she does her work properly is enough to send me into hysterics. When evening comes she dolls up and plays the lady, whereas I entertain my husband and children, put them off to bed and do the countless duties a wife and mother performs that a servant does not see the importance of doing, besides being on duty all night!

When the maid gets married and undoubtedly will not afford a maid herself, and when she works all day and evening, and is on duty all night [to see that her children are tucked in bed and so on], when she gets absolutely no time off, and no pay, she will dream of the good old days and wish she were a maid once more. She will even learn to pity her former employer. MRS. B.

AMERICA AND THE DEBTS.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Please accept my congratulations on the editorial "America and the Debts," which appeared in today's TRIBUNE. I am sure it expresses the sentiments of all who hold the interest of the United States of America first and foremost. It should be the opinion of all who have any sense of national integrity.

REV. TIMOTHY ROWAN.

THE FORGOTTEN TAXPAYER.

Warrenville, Ill., Nov. 14.—Most of those who alate your editorial speak of "something else." Does "the right to alms" necessarily imply the right to cash? For hootch? For penny ante? Or perhaps some of the experts on social work [at a salary] can tell why the poor dears wanted cash? For I'm not an expert, salaried or otherwise; my function is paying taxes. E.

TOO MANY CHILDREN.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Most of the charity cases one knows of are where the people have so many children. The more children the more help, which, of course, is consistent; but why a baby every year in these times, when they cannot take care of the ones they have, unless charity is supposed to do that?

JUDGE REFUSES PLEA TO OUST NONUNION MAN

Removal of Janitor Asked by Receiver.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday denied the motion of a receiver to remove a nonunion janitor from an apartment building at 3604-10 Bosworth avenue. The judge was told that the janitor had been ordered out of the building by John Mattis, a business agent for the Janitors' union.

"I am not going to approve any such motion," Judge Wilkerson said. "If the receiver cannot protect the property in the court's custody, I will appoint a receiver who can protect it."

The hearing grew out of foreclosure proceedings against the 13 flat building by the Guardian Life Insurance company. Mills R. Smith, a real estate operator, is receiver and Malcolm McKerchar is attorney for the receiver.

Receiver Asks Ouster.

Since the receivership began, testimony showed, Mrs. Angelina Pintacura, owner of the building, has been living in a basement apartment with her son, Peter. The son has been acting as janitor in return for free rent and $10 a week.

Last Thursday Receiver Smith made his motion that the Pintacuras be removed from the building or forced to pay rent. At that time Judge Wilkerson was told that Mattis had appeared at the building on Dec. 1 and told Pintacura to get out.

"Get out of the flat and quit playing janitor," the business agent was quoted as telling Pintacura. "You're not a union man. We're going to send one around and if you're not out of here we'll picket the building."

Agent Fails to Appear.

Judge Wilkerson ordered his clerk to issue a court subpœna for Mattis. Yesterday, after denying the motion of Smith, Judge Wilkerson continued the hearing indefinitely to allow his clerk, Joe O'Sullivan, to learn why Mattis had not appeared in court in response to the subpœna.

Edward A. King, chief deputy marshal, said that because of an error in the office of Joseph Muir, chief clerk for the clerk of the United States District court, the subpœna had not been served.

MEASURE DRAFTED TO PERMIT SALE OF LIQUOR IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Anticipating federal modification of the Volstead act, State Representative John F. Ryan, Terre Haute, is preparing a bill to be presented to the next legislature convening in January which would provide for state regulation of liquor traffic in Indiana.

He would vest control of licenses to manufacturers and dispensers of beer and wine in a board composed of the governor, the secretary of state, the treasurer of state and the auditor of state. A tax of $250 would be imposed on manufacturers and $25 on retailers.

The preliminary draft of the measure would permit operation of dispensaries for the draft sale of beer and wine, while groceries, drug stores and other properly equipped places would be authorized to deal in bulk sales. In conjunction, Ryan would weave into the proposed bill part of the measure which he introduced in the special legislature session last summer providing for sale of medicinal whisky by druggists on proper prescriptions obtained from physicians.

Ryan also has drafted a bill repealing the state "bone dry" prohibition law.

RIDING MASTER DENIES MAKING LOVE TO GIRL

Carrots for Horse Only Gift to Her, He Says.

New City, L. I., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Not only did he never ask Charlotte Gibson, Rockland county debutante, to marry him, but he never even made love to her, Sidney Homewood, riding academy master told the jury which is trying him on the so-called "betrayal" charge today. Homewood denied virtually every accusation made against him by the girl who swears he is the father of her unborn child.

The only gift he ever made to her he said was "a bunch of carrots for her horse."

Tries to Discredit Cousin.

Homewood declared that he never had any intention of marrying the girl who is to become a mother this month. He sought to discredit the testimony of his cousin, Alexander Homewood, one of the chief witnesses for the state, by declaring that "my mother asked him to leave our home because he wouldn't leave one of my sisters alone."

Two sisters of the defendant, Annie and Ethel Homewood came to his defense earlier in the day by testifying that Miss Gibson had confided to them that she had had an affair "with another man" before meeting their brother.

Rough House Activities.

Miss Gibson denied from the stand many of the defense claims. She denied Homewood's claim that he had discovered her last January in a compromising position in a horse stall at the riding academy with his cousin, Alexander. She denied she had ever indulged in "rough house" activities at the academy.

She denied mailing letters at the academy to a West Point cadet.

Alec Homewood, testifying for the prosecution, said his cousin had offered him $200 to marry Miss Gibson, but that he had refused with the statement:

"I wouldn't marry her for $10,000."

PRESIDENT OF LAKE COUNTY BOARD IS ACCUSED IN REPORT

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Charges that Charles Baran, president of the board of commissioners of Lake county, has attempted to usurp the authority and duty of the trustee of North township and has issued many illegal orders pertaining to poor relief are contained in a special report of the examiners of the state board of accounts.

This examination, ordered by Gov. Harry G. Leslie as a preliminary to passing pleas of Lake county for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was directed toward activities of the county commissioners since the first of the year.

The report asserts that the commissioners, Baran, Richard G. Bielefelt and James Black, have bought $29,290.68 worth of road materials without notices or bids and that excessive prices have been paid for this material.

Letters from Baran to the trustee of North township ordering persons placed on the relief rolls and designating the amount of relief they were to receive were set out in the report as examples of the unauthorized exercise of authority.

The hiring of a physician for the poor by Mrs. Myrtle Meara, trustee of North township, at a contract price of $2,500 a month, was ordered by the board of commissioners with a threat to disallow all claims for medical relief until it was done, was also disclosed in the report.

STUDY IN CHINA REVEALS DIET TO PRESERVE TEETH

Hailed by Physician as Milestone in Progress.

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The first 100 per cent scientific proof of the specific diet which will preserve teeth, namely phosphorus and vitamin D, was credited today to two missionaries of China, Dr. and Mrs. R. Gordon Agner.

Their announcement of the final step in ten years' research, experiments on 350 children, was hailed by Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university, one of the world's foremost dieticians, as a "milestone in scientific progress."

Their work, he said, eliminates confusion about the diet needed for teeth. Vitamin D comes from sunshine and cod liver oil, or their substitutes. The phosphorus foods in order of their richness are egg yolk, milk, meats, leafy vegetables, and the seeds, grains, roots, and tubers.

The saliva, Dr. McCollum said, is probably the means of tooth protection through phosphorus it receives from the blood.

The diet announcements were made at a luncheon given by the board of governors of the West China university, to which the Agnews are returning.

Better Teeth than Americans.

Dr. Agnew said they found their clue in analysis of 3,000 diets of Chinese and Tibetans who have better teeth than Americans. They returned to the University of Toronto for scientific investigation and were able to cause 100 per cent decay in teeth of rats by diet alone.

Finally this year the feeding of children began. Decay was not only prevented among those with the rich phosphorus vitamin D balance, but decay already started was stopped.

"The significant fact," said Dr. McCollum, "is that the Agnews for the first time, consciously and under scientific control, have succeeded in producing and preventing dental caries [decay] practically at will, and to a degree approaching 100 per cent. Their work gives further strength to the conclusion that dental cares can be largely, perhaps wholly prevented by correct eating.

Disproves Old Ideas.

"The Agnew work enables us to dispose of certain misconceptions more or less widely held in the past. The popular belief that tooth decay is due to impaction and fermentation of food within fissures of the teeth is doubtless true in certain cases. We will probably never be able to do without the toothbrush.

"One of the oldest, most widely held, and most erroneous popular beliefs has been that tooth decay is largely due to eating too much sugar and other sweets. Although sugar itself does not decay teeth, sweet eating contributes indirectly because sugar satiates the appetite so quickly that a lack of the more essential food elements usually results. The Agnews appear to have conclusively demonstrated this truth in the experimental research they have just reported.

Suggests Specific Diet.

"Another theory that gained wide acceptance is that decay is caused by a deficiency of vitamin C. It has nothing to do with the primary cause of dental caries.

"The inference to be drawn from this research work is that if we eat an adequate supply of vitamin D, drink plenty of milk and eat plenty of vegetables and other foods rich in phosphorus, nearly all of us can avoid dental cares."

Asked after the luncheon to suggest a specific diet, Dr. McCollum specified a quart of milk daily, eggs several times a week, a leafy vegetable at least once a day, and a salad twice a day, and "after then anything you like."

MARY CLYBOURN PARKES, PIONEER CHICAGOAN, DEAD

Mrs. Mary Clybourn Parkes, 88 years old, daughter of Archibald Clybourn, pioneer Chicagoan for whom Clybourn avenue was named, died last night at her home, 4628 Kenmore avenue. Infirmities due to old age caused her death.

Mrs. Parkes was a pioneer in her own right, having been born in Chicago in 1844. Her father came here in 1828 as a trapper. As the town grew he developed his trapping business into a well sized meat business. He built the first brick house in Chicago in what was then Elston road. Mrs. Parkes used to entertain many of her friends with recollections of early Chicago. She was the widow of John C. Parkes, superintendent of the North Chicago Rolling mills at the time of his death thirty years ago.

Surviving Mrs. Parkes are four sons and four daughters. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Friday at the chapel at 5200 North Western avenue. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

EUGENE BRIEUX, FAMOUS FRENCH DRAMATIST, DIES

NICE, France, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Eugene Brieux, dramatist and member of the French academy, died today of pleurisy. He was 74.

His most widely known play probably was "Damaged Goods," which spread his fame around the world a few years ago. For twenty years he produced a play a year, and each was an event in the French theater. During the war he abandoned his career to care for the blind soldiers.

He had been ill for several weeks and growing weaker. This morning he asked that his wheel chair be placed on a balcony of his villa overlooking the Mediterranean. There he passed into a coma and died.

LOUIS TROTT DROWNS.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 88; recovered, 62; stripped, 11. [From police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Monday.]

Defendants held to grand jury for automobile larceny: George Kruk, Joseph Blackham, George Kussman, and Gilbert Miller. Defendant held for receiving a stolen automobile: Julius Warzeka. Defendants sentenced for theft of accessories: John Bobell, 60 days, and Henry Martin, 30 days, in the house of correction. All cases before Judges Harold P. O'Connell and John Gutknecht, sitting en banc.

Lieut. George Teeling of the police automobile detail said last night that the motto of his men is: "A thief put away today saves somebody's car tomorrow."

"Our men live that motto," said Lieut. Teeling. "We're not simply trying to recover stolen cars. Our aim is to catch the thieves. Until last August we didn't progress any too well in court, but since then we have had fine coöperation from Judge O'Connell and Judge Brooks.

"Our automobile cases are now concentrated in one court, at present in conjunction with the Boys' court. Previously the cases were scattered in the District courts. There were technical errors in handling some cases and the defendants were freed. Those errors no longer occur."

In a few days, the lieutenant said, a new Auto court will be established which will specialize in cases having to do with stolen cars and accessories.

UTILITY LAWYER DIES IN CRASH ON NAPERVILLE ROAD

Car Skids on Rainswept Pavement.

Winfield L. Houran, 37 years old, 187 Lombard avenue, Lombard, was killed yesterday when his automobile skidded on the rain-swept pavement of Naperville road and struck a tree on the outskirts of Wheaton. Mr. Houran, an attorney for the Public Service company of Illinois, was receiver for the Lombard State bank and a past commander of the Lombard post of the American Legion. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Sigmund Kropilowski, 14 years old, 5023 South Hermitage avenue, was killed yesterday when he fell from an automobile truck on which he had hitched a ride. The truck, driven by Kurt Bunge, 5221 South Sangamon street, skidded in front of 3655 South Halsted street and side swiped a parked automobile. The boy was thrown to the pavement. His death and two others brought the Cook county motor toll for 1932 to 1,042.

Army Home Inmate Killed.

Victor Olson, 55 years old, an inmate of the Salvation Army home at 623 West Madison street, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile in front of 4958 West Madison street late last night. He was picked up by Frank L. Winkler, 2127 South 10th avenue, Maywood, and taken to the Frances Willard hospital, but died on the way. Winkler told the police his car had not struck Olson.

Mrs. Dora H. Wall, 74 years old, of 424 York road, Elmhurst, widow of a Chicago fireman, died this morning in St. Anne's hospital from injuries received when she was struck last night by an automobile that did not stop. The accident occurred as she was crossing the street in front of 531 North Central Park avenue.

Miss Hilda Sous, 21 years old, 6235 Blackstone avenue, suffered a broken back last night when an automobile in which she was riding overturned after it ran off the outer drive at 46th street. Miss Helen Brown, also of 6235 Blackstone avenue, and Harold Anderson, 23 years old, 7015 Dorchester avenue, the driver, were only slightly injured.

Blame War Injuries.

Wounds suffered when his plane was shot down during the world war probably were responsible for the motorcycle crash which killed George Spangler, 40 years old, of Lombard, on Nov. 24, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Spangler's neck and shoulders were so injured in the plane crash that he was unable to turn his head to right or left, the jury was told by physicians. Consequently he had been unable to see the automobile which struck him at a street intersection in Maywood.

An automobile driven by Martha Lee, 18 year old daughter of T. G. Lee, president of Armour & Co., slightly injured a woman last night at Cambridge avenue and Oak street. With Miss Lee was P. S. Carr of the Drake hotel. Miss Lee lives at the Ambassador hotel, 1300 North State street.

The woman, Mrs. Micheala Sanfilippo, 53 years old, of 1220 Larrabee street, was taken by Miss Lee and Carr to the Henrotin Memorial hospital where several minor cuts on her head were dressed. They then took her home and notified police.

Expect Church Council Vote to Cut Debts

Also Urge U. S. Entry Into World Court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 6.—It is expected that tomorrow's session of the Federal council of churches of Christ in America will formally ask a downward revision of war debts owing to the United States as well as to other countries. A report to this effect was read tonight by the Rev. Walter W. Vankirk of New York, an official of the council.

The report, prepared by the council's commission of international justice and good will, also urged American membership in the world court and it offered strenuous objection to the manufacture of war munitions as a private enterprise. The debate in the council tomorrow probably will clear up doubt of many delegates as to what debts are the subject of the council commission's attack. This confusion, expressed tonight by many delegates, results from the commissioner's vagueness as to whether the debts to which the commission referred were those contracted by allies during the war or those debts contracted following the armistice.

The Rev. Albert W. Beaven, president of Rochester Colgate Theological seminary, is slated to be elected to succeed Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church of New York as president of the council for the next two year term if proposed changes in the constitution carry tomorrow. The Rev. Lewis S. Mudge of Philadelphia probably will be the vice president of the council to succeed the twenty-six former honorary vice presidents representing the twenty-six constituent denominations of the council.

The sixth quadrennial session of the council, which opened here today, struggled all afternoon at the latch of the door which thus far has been locked against Protestant church union. But Dr. Samuel M. Cavert, during the heat of debate on whether or not the council would undertake functions delegated to it by denominations, admitted the move would open that door "just a little crack."

Dr. Cavert, who is the general secretary of the council, was called to answer the charge that the sweeping changes proposed in the structure of the council really looked for the time when barriers to Protestant union would be pushed aside. He said the changes looked that way, particularly in the proposed constitutional provision which would permit the council to work in special ways for any of its 26 constituent denominations.

When this significance to the constitutional change was discovered the Rev. Peter K. Emmons, a Presbyterian pastor of Scranton, Pa., sought executive sessions of denominational delegations prior to the general discussion and vote of the council. But Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Washington, head of the Southern Methodist board of temperance, pleaded that general discussion precede denominational huddles. The southern dry leader's plea prevailed. It is expected that the vote will be taken tomorrow morning.

Lady Astor Hits Low Cut Gowns in Club Address

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—A woman, Lady Astor told a number of the gals tonight, is the highest creature in God's universe; but a "female is the lowest, the filthiest."

And the pity of it, lamented the Virginia born Nancy Langhorne, who was the first of her sex to walk into the British parliament, is that so many women dress like females.

"Why, just the other night," she burst out impetuously at a meeting of the National Women's Press club, "I saw the wife of a sena——" Quickly she caught back the telltale identification, substituted the more vague "wife of a man; mind you, such a sweet, dear, good soul she is, but all dressed up in the most frightfully revealing gown."

A sweep of her jewelless hands slashed away, scissoralike, at her own prim, trim blouse, until she had indicated the daring nudity of the picture in her memory.

"I remember," she continued, "going once to a famous European dressmaker. He showed me a gown, heavenly in many respects, but O, so nasty in its cut. I looked him straight in the eye"—her blue eyes flashed fire—"and I said, 'How dare you insult me by thinking I'd wear a thing like this?'"

Turning to the crowd before her, she asked, "O, why will women dress like that?"

"To keep a husband," somebody volunteered.

"Thanks," retorted the wife of Lord Astor. "If that's the way to keep a husband, who wants to?"

It isn't only dress but makeup that distresses the British visitor. All America, she believes, is cosmetic-conscious.

Too much paint, like too little bodice, is a wrong expression of the new freedom, she maintained.

"Free morals," she said, "is not freedom. Women used to be virtuous. Men demanded it. But a man could do as he pleased. If a man wanted to marry your daughter and he had wealth and position you did not care if he had fifteen mistresses. O, I'm not blaming the man; it wasn't his fault.

"In those days the only control a decent woman had over a man was—shall we call it personal control? Now with emancipation and all that the private control is gone and we have in its place a sort of public control. And women should see that they do not sink to where men used to be."

BY JUDITH CASS.

If any one thinks the life of a young matron or maid in society (or an older one, either) is all "beer and skittles" he thinks wrong, for along with all the good times she has, some of which are chronicled in the society columns of the daily newspapers, she has many charitable obligations, too. And ever one worth her salt is working harder than ever these days helping those less fortunate than she.

Yesterday a group of young women whose families have been associated for years with the good work of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society met at the office of the society on North Wabash avenue at the invitation of Chauncey McCormick, president, and the Princess Clarissa Cantacuzene, a board member, and formed a new committee to help Judy school, where forty-three young girls, not delinquents but under privileged ones, are being taught regular school work and home economics.

This new committee, called the Judy school committee, not only will raise money for the school but will provide the little extras for the girls that will make their lives a bit more comparable to the lives of girls who are being brought up in homes with fathers and mothers.

Mrs. McLallen Is Chairman.

Mrs. Walter Field McLallen III. (Ghita Watson) was chosen chairman of the committee and also elected to the board of the society yesterday. She and Miss Carolyn Erminger, daughter of the junior Howell B. Ermingers, are going down to the school next Wednesday to visit it and to meet the girls so that they can bring back suggestions to their coworkers of how best to proceed with their new work.

The school is at Potomac, Ill., about 12 miles from Danville, and while Mrs. McLallen and Miss Erminger are there they will be the guests of Mrs. Julius Hegeler, who is on the board and is the fairy godmother of the school, so I'm told.

The school is named after a philanthropic nonagenarian, Ambrose B. Judy of Potomac, who gave the property and building to the society in 1908. On the Judy school committee are, in addition to Mrs. McLallen and Miss Erminger, Mrs. Gordon Kelley (Hortense Henry), Mrs. Robert S. Pirie (Betty Borden), Mrs. Herbert Stuart Stone (Mr. Stone is Mr. McCormick's nephew), Miss Geraldine Swift, daughter of the Gustavus F. Swifts, Mrs. Potter Palmer III. (Rose Movius of Boston), Mrs. Conway H. Olmsted (Mary Elizabeth Johnston), and Mrs. Edward French (Ruth Crosett).

Miss Suzanne Morris, who has assisted at a number of the debuts this season, is to make her formal bow to society—although she doesn't like to have it called a debut—at a luncheon on Dec. 23 at the Blackstone hotel. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Chester H. Morris of 38 East Elm street, and after attending Dana Hall she went to the University School for Girls here, graduating a year ago last June.

Debutantes of the season and a few of last year's buds and their escorts will dine and dance tonight at the "coming out" party of Miss Marion Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Malcolm Gordon of 1430 Lake Shore drive. The last year's girls who are invited are friends of Miss Isabel Gordon, who made her debut last season.

Mrs. Edward C. Crossett of 1200 Lake Shore drive will give a small

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now help us—and the other fellow, too.

Now that winter is here and we can't go out in the garden to tend our plants there are offered for our approval delightful miniature green houses. Made of durable wood and handsomely finished, they come in sizes as small as 17 inches by 24 inches by 18 inches. Resting in a pan of water which evaporates moisture through a metal bottom, the case is glass enclosed, sides and top. Effective, such a little greenhouse, placed in front of a window for sun. And the plants have moist, clean, "conditioned" air, warmed by an electric heating element which maintains by a thermostat any fixed temperature desired.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright 1932 By Ilion Syndicate, Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

A CLEVER CROOK.

"May I have a word with you, please?" inquired a tall well dressed young man of the manager of the Nestor hotel.

"Certainly, sir. What can I do for you," inquired shrewd, pleasant faced Sidney Mitchell.

"This will identify me," he replied handing over a card bearing the inscription WALTER STURGIS, SALES MANAGER, PRESS CORPORATION, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

"I've been staying here for the past week. This afternoon, I paid my bill of $62 in cash, intending to remain several more days. About an hour ago, however, I received a telegram which necessitates my immediate departure for Chicago by plane.

"The banks are closed, so I wonder if you'd be kind enough to cash my check for $125? Naturally I don't expect you to do so without references. Bob Martin, managing editor of the Morning Post, is an old friend of mine, and if you'll call him and describe me, I'm sure he'll tell you there's no risk. Here's his phone number."

After ascertaining Sturgis had paid his bill in cash, and calling Martin, he returned to the lobby.

"I've talked with Martin. Routine you know," he smiled apologetically. "He says you're absolutely O. K. so I've arranged with the cashier to take care of you. Delighted to oblige."

"And that," said Prof. Fordney to his dinner guests, illustrates how even the smart man occasionally gets caught off balance! You've guessed it; the check bounced . . . . Martin had never even heard of Sturgis."

HOW COULD THE MANAGER HAVE EASILY DETERMINED THAT STURGIS WAS A CROOK?

KIND: Crook melodrama.
QUALITY: Good.
ACTING: Excellent—by both principals and supporting players.
DIRECTION: Fat.
LINES: Peppery.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Satisfactory.
SUSPENSE: Plenty.
STORY: Interesting. A youth and a maid lay traps to catch the super bond thief who has murdered the father of one and the brother of the other. Though they don't know it, they are at all times assisted by an "under-cover man" from the police department. The picture shall reveal who is this person and more about him.

REMARKS: George Raft grows to look less and less like the late Valentino, but continues to be a quick-on-the-trigger actor. Smart fellow. The action moves zippingly along to the sort of finish the average movie fan craves.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Considerable.

Model School Room for Eyes to Be Arranged

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

An eye saving room, to be the only model study room of its kind in the city, will soon be established in a public school as a gift from the Chicago Woman's Aid. This will be given in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the aid, whose activities extend into the fields of education, social welfare, and civic interest.

The announcement of the $500 gift was made yesterday at the Aid's golden anniversary celebration in the Standard club. It was explained that the room will be specially lighted and decorated and that special typewriters, chalk and other equipment will be supplied. The children's eyes will be tested and fitted with glasses by Dr. E. V. L. Brown of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. The room will accommodate about forty children.

Following a breakfast attended by 800 members at which the past presidents were guests of honor, a revue of the club's activities was given in "Fifty Years Young," written and directed by Mrs. Perry Segal. Two officers of 50 years ago were present, Mrs. Henry M. Gerstley and Miss Dila Kohn.

In the revue a meeting of the Aid's past presidents revealed activity in war work, public school work, hospitals and settlements, unemployment relief, art and literature.

This was followed by a scene of the meeting of the Aid's founders as it might have been back in 1882. There was a revival of old melodies, the Aid's choral group singing "Three Blind Mice" and "Listen to the Mocking Bird."

Among the models who presented fashions of other days was Mrs. Morris Fishbein, who demonstrated what the bathing girl of 1882 wore. Mrs. Gerson B. Levi wore a bride's costume and Mrs. Samuel T. Lawson, an early automobiling costume.

Mrs. Emil Deutsch modeled the correct costume for the croquet ground and Mrs. Philip Rosenblum reminded the women of what the well dressed tennis girl wore a generation ago.

The Aid was formed in 1882 as the Young People's Aid society for the purpose of distributing flowers in the wards of Michael Reese hospital. It now has 1,100 members. Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz is president.

Good Taste Is Trade Mark of Lovely Women

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Scuttling around for the last word in makeup, cream, and lotion concoctions some women are apt to overlook a very good bet in creating an atmosphere of beauty, whether they have it or not. I refer to this thing known as "good taste."

The other day, for instance, three New York women were picked out by an internationally known figure in social circles as the three smartest women, the three most chic. One of the distinguished ones is quite frankly admitted not a beauty—by common interpretation, that is. But her good taste is known among her intimates as superlative. Her clothes, her home, her manner—everything bears the stamp of taste.

You could run over in your mind a group of your women acquaintances and check them off as having taste or not having it. But don't stop there! Apply that same form of taste analysis to yourself. Are your clothes, for one thing, in perfect taste? Do they suit the occasion? Do they suit you perfectly?

Your home—is it furnished in good taste, conducted with taste? This is not a matter of money, you understand. Just taste. Is your table set with taste? Do you observe the etiquette forms here and elsewhere? Maybe you think this is not important. But the truth is a woman can build up an enviable reputation for charm when this thing we call taste is practiced in every little home detail.

In conversation do you affront people with queries, let's say, that you have no business to make? Or do you keep your voice well modulated and aim to say agreeable things?

Taste covers a multitude of angles. Why, there's even taste in the way you apply makeup. Taste in every little accessory you wear. Taste in the way you wear your hair. Taste in the shoes, the stockings, the bag you choose.

Let's look into this subject from time to time. If it's one of the standards by which modern woman is to be judged, we'd better get promptly in line, don't you think?

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Henry White sails his four-master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecal, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, Roberta Millbank and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employé. Henry Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches, and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Four seafaring men Henry hired to load the cargo didn't appear to collect their wages before the boat sailed. They turn out to be bandits, who hide on the ship until it is well out to sea, then take charge. Roberta recognizes one of the men as a mail robber wanted by the U. S. government. The ship's radio brings them a warning of four bank robbers at large. The captain knows they are his captors and he feels they are doomed.

INSTALLMENT XV.

A DESPERATE MOVE.

The big Abigail roared on in this atmosphere of dread and despair. Its people moved about in silence, the captors catfooted and watchful and alert. The sinister conditions were developing a stealthy hatred that was the more ominous because there were no harsh physical manifestations. There were no blows nor even curses. There was something worse than violence in the malevolence of the vigil.

Just when the explosion might have happened it is impossible to say. The nerves of all were going from bad to worse as day followed day of roaring nor'easter.

It was now a two man job at the wheel. All work aboard the schooner but the mere steering was suspended. The quarter of the wind enabled her to hold her course. For such a big vessel she had always been quick in answering her helm, and light laden she was even quicker.

It was observation of this quality that suggested to Ladybird a desperate expedient. She did not think that it could succeed, but by this time she was sure that they were doomed.

They were running under headsails, foresail, and mizzen, the other sails dropped and secured.

"If she takes a jibe," Adam muttered. "God knows what will happen."

Ladybird leaned over so that her face was close to his ear.

"She's going to take a jibe, and God help us whatever happens."

The wheel guard, who was always Capt. Smith, was leaning against the rail near by. Adam said slowly so that she could barely hear above the shrieking of the wind and crashing of the water:

Ladybird thought quickly of what might be the disposition of the others. Capt. Hiram and Peter had been marched forward and were now locked up. Henery and Raoul would be somewhere on deck under guard. Benny in the galley would be also under guard. Where the fourth man might be she did not know, but thought it possible that he was in the cabin sleeping.

"No job for a Jane," he said, and pushed Ladybird aside. "You go inside."

The schooner was at this moment pivoting as much as a big, heavy vessel can on the crest of a tremendous sea. By now Ladybird had steered her enough to know that this was in a critical position. She could fairly feel the hoist of the big mizzensail drawing dangerously aback. Even if the belly of it also came aback the heavy boom tackle should keep the spar from jibing unless the helm was put hard up. In such a case the tremendous strain was she believed certain to tear away the boom tackle, and let the enormous spar come across with a rending crash that might perhaps tear out the mast. The same would be true of the foresail and the headsails.

The bandit leader was a strong, active man, but he was taken completely by surprise. Ladybird's first backward heave threw him off his balance. Her lithe, athletic arms hardened from days of wheel work were over his own like the coils of a boa, and the momentary madness that was on her made their clasp impossible to break. As they fell backward together Ladybird, who would have been beneath, gave the lithe twist of a trained wrestler so that in falling she came, if not uppermost, at least by his side.

The god of brave endeavor then favored her with the sling of the sea as Adam desperately, and with a like inhuman effort, ground over the wheel and jammed the helm upward. For as the man and woman fell they plunged at the same time headlong as if in a running dive. Smith's head struck the iron quarter bitts and he went limp. Ladybird's own head barely missed the base of the bitts, but struck the deck, and she rolled after him also unconscious.

The Abigail White was wearing slowly round. So big a vessel takes time to jibe even when hanging with the wind on the end of her booms. In that second Adam knew that Capt. Hiram would know from the very feel of the vessel that the Abigail was jibing and so would Henery and Benny. But Capt. Hiram was locked up and futile. Therefore it remained for the two resolute old sea dogs to realize what was going on with the crash and uproar immediately impending and to take their own desperate measures to profit by it.

Adam held the wheel hard up. The Abigail slid forward in a curious, breathless silence as if terrified to the depths of her ship's soul at what might prove catastrophic.

In the next few moments this business was going to be decided one way or the other. The crisis hung in the balance, just as did the Abigail with her heavy booms, fore and mizzen, straining against the boom tackles and the big sails coming more and more tremendously aback.

Adam marveled at the time it took her to swing. Then, in a stillness that was dreadful after the recent roaring noises when everything had been taut and drawing, a pistol shot rang out from forward somewhere and it was followed by a yell like that of a wolf that had stepped into a jaw trap. It was still ringing when the door of the cabin flew open in front of Adam who was behind the wheel. The glare of the standing lamp inside showed the figure of a man bracing himself on either side as he stared dazed into the swimming darkness.

In that instant Adam knew that the schooner had started to wear round and that nothing now could stop her. She was taking a fearful heel in a helpless, stricken way. She might be hove down. She might be dismasted fore and mizzen. Anything might happen, but in the meanwhile Adam meant to get his man.

He slipped from behind the wheel and took a running dive at the fellow whose broad, squat figure blocked the doorway. They crashed backward into the cabin and, though Adam's collarbone was broken where it struck the jamb, he got his other big fist up under the fellow's jaw.

He gripped his throat, hove both of them upward, then crashed the bandit's head down on the teak flooring. At the same moment there came rending crashes like the splintering of a planet. Down went the Abigail and down and down in a chaos of roarings.

Child's Views and Adult's Are Very Different

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The people who knew Ebenezer were worried about him on Thanksgiving day. Ebenezer was a farmer of sturdy stock who had been working for some friends in the city for a number of months to get hold of some ready cash. Necessarily his meals were all eaten at restaurants. He had a chance to go up country to his home on Thanksgiving eve, so when some acquaintances beheld him in town on the Thursday morning in question they were amazed.

"Why, Eben," they said, "didn't you get started last night? You'll never get home in time for dinner now."

Eben looked at them quizzically.

"I didn't figger on going," he said. "I've et Thanksgiving dinner in Medford Junction fer the past forty year. This year I'm going to eat it in Times Square."

All our pity wasted, we realized as we chuckled to ourselves.

But, there, I thought to myself growing serious, is the point of view. To us Thanksgiving dinner in the country on a real farm seemed quite the nicest thing in the world. And the fact that you'd done it forty times made it all the nicer. But—that was only one point of view. And stopping a minute, I jumped around to Eben's side of the fence and saw his.

It's something of this kind of imaginative acrobatics that we need to perform every once in a while, where the children are concerned. We need to be able to get their slant, to see things with their eyes. The child is not a miniature adult. He's a child—and that's a different matter. His play which is just "play" to you, is serious business to him. While what is "serious business" to you, such as his eating and "toileting" and dressing, are often to him only an interference with his important affairs.

There's such a difference in the point of view!

Look 10 Years Younger Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

BY MARY MEADE.

If you were one of THE TRIBUNE'S guests at the recent cooking school you may have been one of the several thousand Chicago women who handed in questions and requests for recipes. On one day weekly for several weeks to come I shall answer those questions and supply the requested recipes.

The first request is for an "angel and gold cake which may be made in the same pan." This is usually called a daffodil cake and may be made either by pouring the two batters into the pan in alternate layers, half the gold cake batter, all of the angel food batter, and then the other half of the yellow mixture or by putting them into the pan in alternate spoonfuls, giving a delightful marbled effect.

DAFFODIL CAKE

1 teaspoon cream of tarta.
1¼ cups sugar
⅝ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon orange extract
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 1-3 cup egg whites
4 egg yolks

Sift the flour, measure it, and sift again four times. Beat the whites slightly, add salt and cream of tartar, and beat till stiff. Fold in the sugar by tablespoonfuls, mixing gently after each addition. Remove one-half to another bowl and fold into it gently the orange extract, three-quarters cup of the sifted flour, and the egg yolks, which have been beaten very light. To the other half add the vanilla and remaining flour, folding in gently. The cake may be baked in one of two ways. Either divide the white mixture and place half in an ungreased tube pan. Then add the yellow portion and finally the remaining white. Or the mixtures may be spooned into the pan alternately, giving a cake with a delightful gold and white marbled appearance on cutting.

A recipe for a good rice pudding is the next request. Said the requester: "With mine the rice always goes to the bottom and I don't want to stir it when it is half cooked, for that breaks and stirs in the nice brown crust."

Below is a tasty rice pudding recipe. There are two ways to avoid the crust trouble. In the first place, bake your pudding in a slow oven (300 degrees F.), stirring occasionally during the first two hours, then increase the heat slightly (325 degrees F.) and bake one hour longer without stirring. Another method follows:

COCOANUT AND CHERRY RICE PUDDING.

1 quart milk, scalded
¾ cup rice
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon
¾ cup shredded cocoanut
1-3 cup chopped maraschino cherries (if desired)

Combine the first five ingredients in a double boiler and cook, stirring occasionally for an hour and a half. Add the cocoanut and cherries and turn into a buttered casserole and bake in a slow oven (315 degrees F.) for an additional two hours.

Next for a dish too few folk know about:

BEEF A LA MODE.

4 pounds round of beef
4 level teaspoons salt
2 2-3 cups water
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 small onion, minced
1-3 cup sliced carrot
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Make a marinade of the water, vinegar, seasonings, and lemon juice. Add the vegetables and boil three minutes. Pour over the beef round, cover, and let stand in a cool place for twenty-four hours. Drain the beef from the marinade, dredge with flour and brown in drippings. Now place the meat in a kettle with the marinade and vegetables and add water to half cover the round. Simmer over a low heat until tender — about three and one-half hours. Carrots, celery, parsley, and bayleaf may be added if desired.

Girl Threatens Divorce; Man Grows Callous

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Married only a few months—and her husband says he doesn't love her any more. Offers to let her go or stay as she pleases. But if she stays he's going to step out when and where he pleases.

"Oftentimes," the girl bride confides, "I have pretended I was going to leave him. He always tried to prevent me——"

Another case of "Wolf wolf," Harriet! The scare no longer works. But what bad tactics to employ! You repeat this threat of departing until the man wearies of hearing it; worse, until he begins to get used to the idea of getting along without you. Finally, until he begins to welcome the idea of having you out of his way.

"Going right back home to mother" used to occur commonly in the old days, either as threat or incident. Now it's "I'm going out to Reno," or to some nearer divorce center. You don't get your way, and so you're going to run right out on the scene.

Spoiled little ninnies, you! Cry baby stuff! The wonder is that you get any coaxing at all to stay around.

Now if there is one thing that a bride should take a solemn oath on if she wants her marriage to go through it is that she'll never even think of threatening to leave, much less voice it. Men aren't such subtle creatures as women. They take the word for its meaning. And when you offer the hurt to a man's pride that your ability to get along without him implies, you do something devastating to his love.

It's bad psychology any way you look at this divorce idea entertainment. It looks as if some of you young women start out your marriage with your minds made up to break away at the first little difference. You can be sure the difference will arise, if that's your frame of mind. If you keep that separation idea uppermost as the solution to whatever comes up in your marriage rest assured you'll have ample opportunity to use it.

BUT if you solemnly swear it out of your marriage program you'll get over every little disagreement in quick time and the big ones will be better warded off. So, Harriet, you'd better tell that boy husband of yours that never, never again will you mention leaving him—and then stick to your promise, girl!

THE STAGE

"The Cat and the Fiddle," an operetta with a year's run in New York on its record, will begin a limited engagement at the Apollo theater on Christmas day. This production was staged by Max Gordon, impresario of several recent song and dance hits. Its score is by Jerome Kern, composer of "Show Boat" and "Sweet Adeline," and its libretto comes from the pen of Otto Harbach, author of "Rose Marie" and "No, No, Nanette."

The principal players in this company are Bettina Hall, Odette Myrtil, Doris Carson, Catherine Field, Gladys Gillen, Karl Theman, Michael Bartlett, José Ruben, Bobby Jarvis, George Meader, Fred Walton, and Arthur Treacher.

A theatrical "road revival" program which may give employment to 2,000 idle musicians and stage mechanics and involve 3,000 actors and actresses was announced yesterday by Stage, Inc., according to Associated Press dispatches from New York. This company, organized by Harry Arthur, proposes to reopen 100 motion picture houses throughout the country and present traveling, popular priced legitimate stage attractions.

At least 20 of the theaters already have been selected. Chicago is among the cities in which the project will be tested.

The program hinges on the result of conferences now in progress between Paul Kilmor, president of the Actors' Equity association; William Elliott, president of the stage hands' union, and Joseph Weber of the American Federation of Musicians.

"Merry-Go-Round," the melodrama recently staged at the Adelphi theater by Charles Freeman, ended its run and its life last Saturday night. The management of the Adelphi is now considering a revival of "The Shanghai Gesture," with Florence Reed in her original rôle.

Katherine Cornell will bring her new play, "Lucrece" to its New York première on Tuesday night, Dec. 20. The production will supplant "Criminal at Large" at the Belasco theater. The latter piece, which is rated as a hit in New York, will either be moved to another Broadway theater or sent on tour.

"Biography," the latest work to be staged by the Theater Guild, is being acted in Pittsburgh this week under the auspices of the American Theater society. Ina Claire has the central rôle, and others in the cast are Earle Larimore, Arnold Korff, Jay Fassett, Charles Richman, Mary Arbenz, Alexander Clark, and Helen Salinger. The play is a comedy by S. N. Berhman, author of "The Second Man" and "Meteor."

Ibsen's drama, "The Pillars of Society," is being acted at the Goodman theater this week by the advanced students in the school of acting.

dinner party for Miss Jean Schweppe and Miss Mary Reed next Wednesday night, afterwards taking the party to see "Springtime for Henry" at the Blackstone theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Crossett are thinking of going to Paris to spend Christmas with their daughter, Betty, and her husband, John L. Mothershead Jr., but they haven't decided definitely yet.

Miss Carolyn Crossett will miss some of the subdebutante festivities during the holiday season, for she does not arrive from the Shipley school until the 23d, which is a bit later than most of the girls and boys from eastern schools reach home for their Christmas vacations. If her parents go abroad Miss Crossett will not accompany them, but will be here with her brother-in-law and sister, the Edward Frenches, during the holidays.

Articles made by the children at the Home for Convalescent Crippled Children at Pride's Crossing will be on sale today in a vacant store at 700 North Michigan avenue, with Mrs. William J. Chalmers and other members of the board as saleswomen.

Sale of Grant Hospital Auxiliary.

Every one coming out of the building at 60 Scott street yesterday was laden down with packages, for no one could resist the lovely things that were on sale at the bazaar held in Mrs. Frank S. Porter's apartment by the directors of the Woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital. All who came left with almost more than they could carry.

All sorts of fancy and utilitarian articles, toys, Christmas wrappings and the most delicious looking cookies, cakes and rolls were on sale. And downstairs in Miss Katharine Lefens', apartments [Mrs. Porter and Miss Lefens are sisters], a buffet luncheon was served that was so tempting that even the most conscientious dieter forgot to count her calories. It was impossible to distinguish the saleswomen from the purchasers for many of the women there were both.

Some of those who were lunching at the same time this reporter was were Mrs. Porter, Miss Lefens, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay and her daughter, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, who was in charge of the toys and wrappings; Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Sr. and Mrs. Madlener Jr., Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., and Mrs. Madlener's and Mrs. Drake's mother, Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, Mrs. Andrew Sherriff, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. William M. Spencer, Mrs. Philip T. Starck, Mrs. Hugo Simon, Mrs. De Forest Hulburd and her sister, Mrs. Taylor Strawn, and their mother, Mrs. Gustave Hessert, Mrs. Clarence T. Seipp, Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp, Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mrs. Paul Juergens, Mrs. Donald McMurray, and Mrs. John S. Coonley Jr.

Musical at Dawes Home.

In spite of the rainy weather about 200 women attended the musical and tea given yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Charles G. Dawes in Evanston for the members of the Winnetka, Evanston, and Chicago auxiliaries of the Cradle. The musical program, given by Bruno Steindel and Hilda Edwards, was given in the library, which is a large enough room so that it wasn't crowded even with so many women in it, after which tea was served in the dining room.

Yellow roses, society's favorite flower this winter, it would seem, decorated the table.

Of particular interest to those who noticed them were Gen. Dawes' bronze busts of the leading generals of the world war that are in the hall, each with the flag of his country hanging on the wall behind the busts, which are almost life size. Receiving with Mrs. Dawes was her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Ericson, and a few of those at the party were Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, Mrs. Stillson Hart, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. John Nash Ott, Mrs. James R. Offield, Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, Mrs. William H. Bush, Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong and Miss Jean Armstrong, and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton.

The John Irving Shaws are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter. The young lady arrived Monday morning, and the latest word from the Passavant hospital is that she hasn't quite decided what name she wants. Mrs. Shaw is the former Barbara King, daughter of the Charles G. Kings. She made her debut with Miss Laura Sprague in 1928, and her marriage to Mr. Shaw was an event of August, 1931.

Mr. Shaw is the son of the Arch Wilkinson Shaws. Mrs. King, the baby's maternal grandmother, has not yet been able to see her, as she is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Good Old Days at Concert.

It certainly will seem like "the good old days" down around the Congress hotel and the Auditorium theater next Wednesday night when the Bohemians give their concert for the benefit of their relief fund, for a number of the boxholders at the concert are planning to entertain at dinner first in the Urban room of the Congress, and afterwards they will walk through the tunnel under Congress street to the Auditorium hotel and then in to the theater, just as they used to do years ago when grand opera was sung in the old theater.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Charles N. Hamill, and Mrs. J. G. Chapline are some of those who will revive the old days by dining at the Congress before the concert. The Auditorium theater is almost sold out for the concert already, and the members of the committee in charge feel sure that it will be an outstanding affair of a season full of successful benefits.

Several of the debutantes of this and last season are to be cigaret girls for the "Shadows of Paris" ball which the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association will sponsor at the Stevens hotel Saturday evening. According to Miss Welthyan Harmon the list already includes the Misses Miriam Martin, Peggy Glidden, Grace Fitzmorris, Helen Marie Castle, Barbara Eldridge, Marion Gordon, Carol Bloomingston, Betty Whatley, Isabel Gordon, and Louise Ruffner.

Among those who have made reservations for supper tables at the ball are Mrs. Edgar Burch Jr., Mrs. Paul Schultze, Mrs. Herbert Nook, Mrs. Richard Gambrill, Miss Elizabeth Alger, Miss Peggy Glidden, Mrs. Lawrence Nelson Jr., Mrs. John McLean Jr., Miss Louise Ruffner, Mrs. C. D. Peacock, Miss Welthyan Harmon, Mrs. Florence Baackes, Mrs. Lloyd Partridge, and Mrs. Arthur Wirtz. Reservations are in charge of Miss Julianna Holmes.

The Christmas party of the Chicago alumnæ of Wellesley college will be held Saturday, Dec. 17, at 2:30 at 50 East Huron street.

Mrs. Frank Granger Logan will be hostess at tea this afternoon from 3 until 6 in the United Exhibitors' galleries at 9 West Washington street.

Mrs. Leon Allen of Kenilworth is opening her home this morning for a travel talk by Katherine Ferguson on "Continental Festivals." This lecture is the third of a series being sponsored by Mrs. Ralph Sevell Farwell of Winnetka.

Theodore R. Gerlach, president of the Advertising Specialties National association, and Mrs. Bernice Blackwood, 5329 Dorchester avenue, will be married this afternoon at the Drake hotel. The Rev. Walter Macpherson of the St. John's Universalist church of Joliet will officiate. Mr. Gerlach is president of the Gerlach-Barklow company of Joliet and Mrs. Blackwood is with the National Refrigerator Manufacturers' association. New Costume Jewelry Made of Rosewood

Little Brother of Slave Bracelet Arrives.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Costume jewelry continues to glitter, clank and jingle, but some new pieces are surprising the prowling shopper by just glittering. The new wooden things are especially different and far less noisy than anything to date.

Huge round blobs of wood form the newest thing in breast pins, and they are larger than any other chest decoration you have dreamed about. On top of the wooden foundation circle is a smooth glittering circle of chromium, and on this circle you place your monogram or first name or merely one initial.

You can buy circle clips, much smaller editions of the ambitious chest protectors, and have them lettered for personal identification. As an extra of no small importance you buy a chromium bracelet that consists of numerous chains attached to a large oblong chromium plate mounted on a larger oblong of rosewood, and this, too, is initialed.

Some tell-it-all gals gleefully have gone into this marking racket, with the monogram on the chest pin, the nickname on the clips and the telephone number engraved on the bracelet. Other equally interesting data might be used in other combinations.

Remember the old slave link bracelets that clanked around many a male or female wrist a few seasons ago? This year they use the same links and same style of links for brooches or chest pins. The new ones look exactly like seven or eight shining links cut away from one of the old time bracelets. You can select them in silver, copper, chromium and gold metal, and they are very new and extremely smart for all daytime and street clothes.

Other pins seem to be getting longer and wider . . . twisted effects double knots, and long smooth half inch wide pins ready for the engraver are some fascinating new arrivals.

There are some new necklaces made out of metal tipped cords, looking for all the world like a bunch of slender pencils that used to hang on all good old fashioned dance programs before the days of the swaggering sag lines. Black, red, brown, and green cords are contrasted with silver, gold and chromium with adjustable clasps that can slide up and down to control the neckline.

Some of the best looking and also the most inexpensive rhinestone jewelry that buying shoppers have ever discovered are now glittering in the best shops in town . . . you can find frosty, twinkling clips that will sparkle most becomingly against your velvet frocks . . . you will see interesting bracelets, earrings, and beautiful necklaces that are completely knockout, exquisitely fashioned things that have been copied from precious stone originals, . . . all with price tags that will make your head spin.

Funny Books Bring Laughs at Any Time

Caricature Experts Offer Pain in Side.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

FEELING funny? Then let the famous doctors of caricature prescribe for you and you'll feel funnier still. Well, you know what I mean. Funny.

Take a snifter of "The Fifth New Yorker Album" [Harpers] and while you'll not go into paroxysms of laughter over EVERY page you'll have a good case of pain in the side [well, you know what I mean, physical, not spiritual].

I should have started this piece with a story which was one of my father's favorite tales of the early days of Kansas. He used to tell it as an example of the triumph of fact over fiction and mind over matter. In the neighborhood in which he spent his early youth there was one doctor who was called upon for everything from childbirth to delirium tremens and for fifty miles around. He was sent for in frantic haste by the wife of a farmer who was in the most intense agony with what they described as a stomach ache.

When the doctor arrived and had asked all of the questions he could think of and poked and kneaded the place the patient said hurt, he shook his head in bafflement. "I don't just somehow seem to place the trouble," he said. "Now if I could only throw him into fits, I'd be all right, 'cause I'm hell on fits."

And that is just what the gentlemen of the pen and pencil are doing to us this year. They're throwing us into fits [of laughter] to cure the perfectly obvious but undiagnosable state we're all in.

Well, to get back to the "New Yorker Album." There you'll find all your favorite punning pens — Peter Arno's, Alan Dunn's, Frueh's, H. E. Hokinson's [the H. is for Helen], Soglow's, Steig's, who has a whole volume to himself in another funny-bone tickler, "Man About Town" [Long-Smith].

And there is "The Seal in the Bedroom," by James Thurber [Harpers], a picture book with an introduction by Dorothy Parker, who says, "Perhaps the one constructive thing to this year of hell is the publication of this volume." Miss Parker can be much funnier than she is in this introduction, but Mr. Thurber is his usual own sweetness and light self in the drawings, and the person who wrote the book jacket is the funniest of the three of them. I suspect he is Mr. Thurber disguised as a fountain pen. "The Seal in the Bedroom" is a trick book as well as a tricky one, because part way through there is a tissue paper seal on which is drawn a seal peeping through a keyhole. When broken the seal [t. p., not mammal] discloses a novel in pictures, a satire on the you know what.

Speaking of trick books, O. Soglow, whose "A Stag at Eve" was a horse-laugh to thousands, has done a book called "Everything's Rosy" [Farrer & Rinehart], which contains funny pictures—slightly naughty. Provided by thoughtful publishers are rosy filters through which the pictures become funnier—and naughtier.

And still speaking of trick books, there is a superb one called "Fun in Bed" [Simon & Schuster]. It is a playtime book of the adult convalescent. It is edited by Frank Scully and has a preface by Dr. Logan Clendenning, and it is the perfect prescription from both sets of doctors—medical and literary—for eighteen days in bed. It has, besides jokes and stories and poems and playlets, pictures, and crossword puzzles and anagrams, bridge problems and designs to shade with a pencil and games to be played on the back and a diary and a visitor's register, and such assorted living up to its title that this person is looking around for a good hospital in which eighteen days may be spent in order to get the full good out of the book.

Some of the jokes in the book are Scotch and under their influence it seems a shame, since "Fun in Bed" came to me free, not to get the good of it. But perhaps I can do what one of the characters in one of the stories did. "Advised by a psychiatrist to travel, MacIntosh decided to stay at home and let his mind wander." Aha, I said it first. Mine is already wandering. Well, then, as Mr. Pepys says, "so to bed."

Black Lace Frock from Chanel Shows How an Expert Drops Shoulder Yoke

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Women everywhere have seized the picturesque element in Paris fashions. Ladies wearing Manet bangs, extra size leg o' mutton sleeves, 1830 ermine toques, and tippets and muffs, and dresses with the dropped shoulder lines of the second empire abound wherever smart people are to be found around Paris this winter. Since the magnificent couturiers of France, like Vionnet and Chanel, took up the dropped shoulder line for daytime and evening it was sure to succeed right from the start. The common or garden variety of the dropped shoulder line with little sleeves attached is not so smart as the Chanel way of using only the dropped yoke and Vionnet's way of combining a drop shoulder fichu and long sleeves.

Chanel, in the evening frock shown today, demonstrates how modern a certain picture quality can become in expert hands. This dress, of fine black lace, has a dropped shoulder yoke of finely shirred black tulle that is distinctly reminiscent of the sixties.

Chanel cleverly suggests the shirred basque in the body of this frock, without in any way departing from her marvelous modernity of spirit. A shirred band of black tulle down the front narrows at the waistline, where it holds the shirring of the dress body and then widens and divides near the knees on the skirt.

Opera at an admission charge of 25, 50, and 75 cents is the prospect offered by the Chicago Opera and Concert company, whose officials disclosed some of their plans during a luncheon at the Auditorium hotel yesterday. "We will compete with the movie houses," said Norman Alexandroff, president of the company, adding that they had further intentions of giving children's performances at half these prices.

Since the income at such rates will not be sufficient to pay the running expenses of the company, there is the further plan to make up the deficit by the sale of radio sponsorships to national advertisers.

Negotiations for a theater and various artists are still pending. Consequently announcements of these matters will be made within a week or ten days. The orchestra has been assembled, the chorus organized, and several of the principals engaged, it was said.

Pitt Defeat Hurts Notre Dame.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—Analysis of the football situation between Notre Dame and Southern California who will meet Saturday in the Olympic stadium before the largest crowd of the season indicates that the physical edge may be with Notre Dame, but the psychological advantage is decisively in favor of Southern California.

The outstanding factor is this score: Pittsburgh, 12; Notre Dame, 0. It is an axiom of the gridiron that what has been done once can be done again. Pittsburgh demonstrated that the Notre Dame team of 1932 is not all conquering. This fact must be in the minds of all of the Notre Dame players, particularly in advance of a struggle with an undefeated opponent.

Southern California has just won its second straight Pacific coast championship. It has a record of 18 consecutive victories. It has tremendous winning psychology, which is an important factor in Howard Jones' scheme of coaching. When a California team goes along unbeaten it gets the idea it can't be beaten.

They Never Stop Trying.

Opponents may hold the Trojans in check for 50 to 60 mintes of play, but these Los Angeles boys never go into a panic. They keep cracking the tackles and riddling the air with supreme confidence in their ability to eventually get somebody loose. Their success is borne out by their season's record:

U. S. C., 35; Utah, 0.
U. S. C., 20; Washington State, 0.
U. S. C., 10; Oregon State, 0.
U. S. C., 6; Loyola, 0.
U. S. C., 13; Stanford, 0.
U. S. C., 27; California, 7.
U. S. C., 33; Oregon, 0.
U. S. C., 9; Washington, 6.

You will note that the two hardest games the Trojans have had were with Loyola and Washington. Both of these teams are coached by Notre Dame men who employ the Notre Dame style of play. Tom Lieb, who handled the undefeated 1929 Irish eleven during the illness of Knute Rockne, coaches the Loyola eleven and Jimmy Phelan is the Washington leader.

Trojans Take to Air.

Although Southern California last year defeated Notre Dame, 16 to 14, principally on forward passes, the team depended on a strong running attack in its conference competition. It had great runners and blockers—Pinckert, Baker, Musick, Mallory, Shaver, Mohler, Arbelbide, Williamson, and Hall—none of whom is available this season. This year the Trojans have won most of their games through the air.

Statistics on U. S. C. scoring reveal that the team has made 22 touchdowns and two field goals this season. Out of these 24 scores, forward passes figured prominently in twelve. Passes were directly reponsible for six touchdowns and six others came after passes had placed the ball in scoring position. The Trojans also scored twice on intercepted passes and started two touchdown drives after interceptions. Sixteen of the 24 scores, therefore, were due to passes thrown or intercepted.

If you like arithmetic you may be interested to know that Southern California made one touchdown on a blocked kick and scored two others on drives precipitated by blocked punts. Only five touchdowns were made on marches featuring running plays exclusively.

Spectators are barred from the Trojan workouts this week. This has given rise to the suspicion that Jones is working up new plays or new combinations of players to avenge the trick the late Knute Rockne pulled on him out here two years ago. That was the game in which Bucky O'Connor, previously unknown, was inserted in the lineup. His 80 yard run through the California team broke up the ball game.

Jones professes to be in a quandry over his starting back field. He says he probably will open with Griffith at quarter back, Clark at full back, and Bright and Erskine at half backs. Coast fans predict that victory will depend mainly on the work of Quarter Back Griffith. He is the running threat of the Trojan back field. If the team's passing attack is to work effectively it must have the constant threat of dangerous running plays.

There is some question, however, about Griffith's durability. Jones thinks it might be better to start Warburton, the sophomore quarter back who came to the fore after Mohler was lost through injury, and save Griffith for the second half.

There are still 15,000 unsold tickets, but business managers at the university predict a sellout. Enough seats already have been disposed of to break the season's record for attendance and receipts. Olympic stadium accommodates 105,000.

BRANCHEAU IS ILL

Tucumcari, N. Mex., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Ray Brancheau, regular right half back on the Notre Dame football squad, was stricken with an acute attack of influenza this morning aboard the Notre Dame special train en route

TROJANS MAY USE HIM TO SOFTEN UP NOTRE DAME

Irvine Warburton, sophomore quarter back at the University of Southern California, is being groomed by Coach Howard Jones to face the brunt of Notre Dame's power in the first half of Saturday's game at Los Angeles. After Warburton has "softened up" Notre Dame, Jones will send in Griffith, his main running threat, in the second half, under present plans.

Temple Is Building Fire Under Mortgage with Warner

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—The engagement of Pop Warner to coach the football team at Temple university, Philadelphia, is a happy sign that at least one school has refused to be intimidated by the recent reformation which has made for rather inferior football and a decline of that notoriety which is called football glory at other houses of learning.

Temple, having entered the football business late, is not yet ready to hit the sawdust trail, and it is to be hoped that the other pious brothers, who saw the light after many years of profitable sin and thrifty accumulation, will treat Temple with Christian patience until such time as the Stadium is paid for.

There is none so virtuous as the school which has established a permanent athletic fund, paid off the owings on the stadium, gym, fieldhouse, and swimming pool, and turned square. But the golden rule entitles Temple to the same chance and Temple did not enter the business until 1925. There are other institutions in the same predicament which may now be encouraged by the honest example of Temple university to postpone their conversion until they have got theirs, too.

Mr. Warner Is Honest.

In Mr. Warner Temple has hired a professional who frankly sells what he has to sell for the best price to be had in the market and never sets himself up as a molder of character or spiritual guide to the sensitive young men who come under his instruction. Willingly he yields these functions to their pastors and confines himself to his subject, which is football.

If their character is improved by association with Pop that is just so much velvet and there is no extra charge, but he has found many of his sensitive young charges to be pretty sophisticated and hard boiled, and nobody ever heard of his taking a saucer eyed full back on his lap and telling him what happens to a drunkard's liver. Similarly, Pop's bearing is such that of the thousands of innocents who have studied football lessons in his class few have ever felt that sympathy which emboldens little boys of 180 pounds and up, serving under other coaches, to pour their little hearts out in the study after hours.

He has troubles of his own, not a few of them arising from his excellence in his line, for he has taught football so well that old Warner boys have become dangerous competitors in his own overcrowded field of endeavor. Denials to the contrary notwithstanding, Ernie Nevers, who learned football from Pop at Stanford university, became a rival to Pop this year, if not by any conduct or policy of his own, then through the agitation of some of the alumni.

Pop Boosts Nevers.

Knowing from old experience how soon the pupil of today becomes tomorrow's menace to the livelihood of a head coach, Pop has been a conservative booster and Nevers, the one player for whom he really did let himself go, had Pop's own indorsement as the greatest player he ever coached for one of his credentials when the alumni sought to remove Pop and install him.

In assuming the sort of job that he goes to at Temple, Pop becomes a capper for the show. The name and reputation of Pop Warner have a ballyhoo value above and beyond the actual merit of his work and will draw money at the gate, if there is any left, in excess of the amount which a football team of the same rating could command. During the shakedown period of one or two seasons while the incumbent varsity men are playing out their string and the booking office is haggling for major league dates this value as an amusement will take care of the difference between the $5,000 salary of the departing head coach, Heinie Miller, and Pop's pay of $15,000.

Mr. Erny Is the Owl.

After that, with typical Warner teams going, Temple will move into the money, and the present stadium, with its capacity of 30,000 head, whose financing is a problem now, probably will be too small, necessitating trips to the Yankee stadium in New York.

The Temple stadium represents a blending of college pride and other emotions less lofty. It was built by a real estate promoter, Charlie Erny, a Temple alumnus, in a section of Philadelphia where he was conducting his operations during the boom. Mr. Erny gave a portion of the cost, which was something between $200,000 and $300,000, and took bonds for the rest, but Temple, being so new to football, could not compete with the University of Pennsylvania. Therefore some of the games early in the season were played on Friday evenings and Temple's team was called the Owls.

However, Penn has been deemphasizing football of late, having completed the stadium of Franklin field with its 80,000 seats and other substantial souvenirs of a pinkly scarlet past, so Temple now has a chance to win over the old Penn football trade

CUBS SHOP FOR LEFT HANDER AT MINORS' MEETING

Fonseca Stays

LOUIS J. COMISKEY, president of the White Sox, last night denied reports from the minor league meeting in Columbus that Jimmy Dykes, newly acquired third baseman, would replace Lew Fonseca as manager of the south side team next season.

"Fonseca is signed to manage the Sox and he will be manager next season," Comiskey said. "Any reports to the contrary are fabrications."

Comiskey and Joseph Barry, traveling secretary, left for Columbus last night to represent the White Sox at the minor league meeting. They will go to New York Sunday to attend the major league gathering.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Dec. 6.—The thirty-first annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, otherwise the minors, will have served a noble purpose here this week if it furnishes the setting for the Cubs' purchase of Edward Arthur Brandt, otherwise Dutch Brandt, able left handed pitcher of the Boston Braves.

Of course the minors have worries which they consider much more important than the National league champions' crying need for a left-handed pitcher of tested talent, and they aren't having their big confab here to help President William Veeck and Manager Charley Grimm close the deal for Brandt. But the fact is Mr. Veeck and Mr. Grimm are very much on the ground. They don't say they want Brandt any more than they want Larry French, Bill Hallahan, Carl Hubbell, or William Watson Clark.

Checkbook Open.

Both Cub officials admit, however, their big goal in life just now is a lefty of merit. Mr. Veeck has his checkbook with him and his fountain pen fairly is dripping with golden ink. At the same time President Emil Fuchs, holder of the deed to Brandt, for ten days has been giving interviews to the eastern press intimating there is some sort of depression abroad in the land and that same is being felt in places Judge Fuchs knows about.

Brandt, who has been with the Braves five seasons, was pretty much of a flop his first three seasons, but he found himself in 1931 and continued to be a great pitcher all last season. The speed with which he entered stardom, following an improvement in health, can be gained from the fact that in 1930 he appeared in 41 games, won four games and lost eleven, with an earned run average of 5.02. He came back in 1931 to pitch in eight fewer games, but to hang up a record of 18 wins and 11 losses for the splendid earned run average of 2.92 per nine innings, and with a second division club. Babe Didrikson Puts Blame on A. A. U. Head

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Foster Jacoby, Texas A. A. U. official, was blamed today by Mildred [Babe] Didrikson, star in the women's events of the Olympic games, for her disqualification as an amateur. Miss Didrikson was disbarred by the Amateur Athletic union yesterday because her name was used in an advertisement praising a commercial product.

"A few days ago, Foster Jacoby invited me to go with him to a local automobile dealer. I consented," Miss Didrikson said in a statement issued today. "Mr. Jacoby, Gordon Perry, owner of the automobile agency, and myself got in one of the new cars and drove around a bit. They both tried to get me to sign an endorsement of the car. I told Mr. Jacoby that it would impair my amateur standing. He didn't seem to think so, but I refused to sign.

Warns Against Promotion.

"I did have my picture taken with the car, but instructed them to not use it in any kind of promotion. The next thing I heard was that I had been suspended. If any one is to blame, it is the A. A. U. representative who has been trying to get me to turn professional since my victories in the Olympic games at Los Angeles."

Homer Mitchell, an insurance broker and employer of Miss Didrikson, today wired J. Lyman Bingham, assistant to President Avery Brundage of the A. A. U. at Chicago, inviting him to come to Dallas immediately and investigate the case. Mitchell said he will fight for Miss Didrikson's reinstatement through the courts if necessary.

"Because of the A. A. U. we have had to fight to retain Babe's amateur standing and it looks like we have just started to fight to keep the A. A. U. from making her turn professional so that a few of the A. A. U. officials can reap a harvest," Mitchell said.

BINGHAM NOT TO GO

J. Lyman Bingham, assistant to Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union, last night said he did not plan to go to Dallas, Tex., to investigate charges that cost Mildred Babe Didrikson her A. A. U. card.

Bingham said Miss Didrikson's disqualification was automatic under A. A. U. rules prohibiting endorsing commercial products. Miss Didrikson's picture was used in connection with an automobile advertisement.

"The case is up to the district committee," he said. "If any one wishes to carry it farther, it would have to be presented to the national committee of which Daniel J. Ferris of New York is chairman."

FERRIS GETS WIRE

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—A request to investigate her case was received today by Daniel Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., from Mildred Babe Didrikson, whom he suspended yesterday as an amateur. The Olympic star's message asked that she be given an opportunity to prove her contention that an automobile company did not have permission to use her name in an advertisement.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson today vetoed the Michel racing bill, which, on the pretense of giving $147,000 annually to the emergency relief fund, would have enabled the race tracks in the state to take an additional $1,000,000 out of their pari-mutuel gambling pools.

The bill, passed in the guise of a charity measure, would have increased the daily license fees of the tracks $1,000, but an amendment would have permitted the track operators to deduct 8½ per cent instead of 6½ per cent as their share of the money wagered.

The increased license fee was intended for the emergency relief fund. The extra 2 per cent take from the gambling pool was to go into the coffers of the race tracks.

Tracks Would Benefit.

When he vetoed the measure Gov. Emmerson cited figures, based on the wagering at tracks in the state in 1932, which showed that the increase of 2 per cent would permit the various jockey clubs to retain approximately $1,000,000 more of the money wagered while the increase in license fees would amount to only $147,000.

The governor also brought out the fact that inasmuch as there will be no racing in the state until next May 1 and the regular session of the recently elected assembly will convene before that time, enactment of the measure by the special session accomplished no immediate good.

"The relief fund," he said, "would receive less than $1 out of every $8 which the measure permitted the tracks to collect."

Measure to Be Dropped.

In compiling his figures Gov. Emmerson revealed that $47,475,933 was the total amount wagered on Illinois tracks during the season which closed on Oct. 31.

No attempt will be made to override the veto, Senator Victor P. Michel of Peoria, the author of the bill, announced tonight. "I have no further interest in the measure and do not plan to seek its passage over the governor's veto," he said.

The Michel bill was regarded for weeks as a "sleeper," a measure that was introduced for some unexplained reason, but with no expectation that it would be passed. Then suddenly—over night in fact—it came to life and was passed. Even the author, Senator Michel, who was defeated on Nov. 8, apparently had given up thought of enactment, for he was not even in Springfield when the final action was taken on Nov. 22.

History of Bill's Passage.

Michel introduced the bill in the upper house on Sept. 7 and it went to first reading without reference to a committee. This chamber, where "senatorial courtesy" prevails to the extent of pushing along any measure in which any member is particularly interested, passed the bill on Sept. 28.

It went over to the house of representatives and reached second reading on Oct. 4, but there the difficulty started. Twice it failed to receive the two-thirds vote required for passage. The first failure was on Oct. 5. The second was on Nov. 21. And then the lineup shifted and on Nov. 22 the bill was passed amid rumors of a "turkey dinner" given the night before and of rumors involving the figure "four," which was said to have had some connection with the shift.

RACEGOERS HAPPY

In Chicago last night after it became known that Gov. Emmerson had vetoed the Michel racing bill, there was jubilation among the racegoers.

"An 8½ per cent take out of the betting pools would break all of us before the season was half over," said one of the big plungers. "It would cause Illinois racing to lose thousands of customers instead of increasing the attendance and the popularity of the sport."

Another regular who said he wagered not less than $10 on every race run in Chicago for the last four seasons asked "If a state like Maryland can get along on a 5 per cent take and still offer prizes that attract the best horses in the country, why can't Illinois do just as well or a little better with a take of 6½ per cent?"

WARNER AT TEMPLE.

"POP" WARNER'S resignation as Stanford football coach is a surprise just at this time. It is a surprise because rumors to that effect have been denied so recently and so emphatically both by Warner and by Stanford.

That the veteran coach was likely to quit his coast position sooner or later has been an accepted probability for several years. Since he began coaching in 1895 Warner has held seven different positions, and now an eighth at Temple university in Philadelphia. His tenure at Stanford has been longer than any previously except at Pittsburgh immediately preceding.

When "Pop" was here at the Northwestern university coaching school a year ago last summer he discussed prospects at Stanford in an intimate group where it was reasonable to think he was not talking for publication. Mr. Warner professed to be dubious of material in years to come.

This fear was due to a much smaller undergraduate body compared with other members of the Pacific Coast conference against which Stanford competes on the gridiron, and to a reported intention to minimize the junior college and emphasize the senior college and graduate schools. In fact, there were reports Stanford might eliminate the first two years of its college course and admit only students of advanced standing. In addition, Stanford's scholastic requirements are high.

In short, the outlook at Stanford was for conditions which have prevailed at the University of Chicago so far as scholarship and attendance were concerned. Only recently has the Midway university come out with an avowed policy of maintaining a strong undergraduate department or showed more than apathetic interest in its athletic activities.

Whether this outlook influenced Mr. Warner in his change of base or whether he had been at Stanford as long as his roving disposition allowed, we do not know. Possibly vicarious criticism of Stanford's showing this fall was an influence.

Temple, to which the veteran becomes attached, was hardly known in the football field until the last couple of years. Those of us far removed from Philadelphia confess ignorance even now outside of football. There are some buildings as one drives out the Philadelphia boulevards on a sight seeing trip. They are not particularly pretentious nor do they suggest a large campus.

Yet Temple, we are informed, has over 12,000 students and over 500 instructors, and is a nonsectarian institution. How many of those 12,000 are extension students or how many in professional schools we do not know.

Perhaps Temple has discovered the value of football as a publicity medium and is willing to utilize it. Warner's prestige will make for a stronger schedule if that is wanted. Safe to say, we'll know more about Temple in the next few years.

Monologist.

Harve: It was about 1892 that Charley Case, famous monologist, came down from his home town of Lockport, N. Y., to play his first engagement in the Wonderland theater at Erie, Pa. It was in the nature of a tryout. Here he sang his "Papers of the Day" song for the first time, I happened to be the lone pianist there. Charley's stuff was so original and such a knockout that some of the old timers on the bill persuaded the management of Keith's theater at Philadelphia, via wire, to book him for the following week. From then on he went quickly to the top and remained a headliner until his death a few years ago. Ollie of Dowagiac.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Their struggle ended at the close of an overtime period in which the Hawks came from behind and tied the score with less than two minutes to play. The Hawks then rushed the puck into Ottawa's net a second time for what appeared to be a victory, but the disc arrived in the goal a fraction of a second after the siren had screamed out the end of the game.

During the regulation time the Hawks threatened to score many times, but no matter how skillfully they shot, Connell, the Senator's goalie, was ever on the vigil. They had outplayed the Senators in every period and had the 5,000 spectators expecting to see them break loose any instant. But the Hawks, as well as the Senators, couldn't register a point until the overtime period.

Hawks Are Short Handed.

It started with Bostrum and March of the Hawks in the penalty box with nearly two minutes to serve. The Senators ganged on Gardiner and Coonie Wieland got the score, with Hec Kilrea and Frank Finnigan being given assists.

With three minutes to play the Hawks sent in five forwards. These pressed hard and finally with one minute and 45 seconds to play Thompson passed from left ice to Couture in front of the cage. Lolo netted the pluck for the tying score.

The Hawks contined to press for the deciding goal. In a mad scramble before the Senator's net Thompson shot and Goalie Connell went to his knees to save, sustaining a severe cut on his right temple. He was prostrate on the ice when the whistle blew, just as Ripley lifted the puck over him. But the shot that would have won, came too late.

Hawks Are Anxious.

The game started slow with the Hawks a little too anxious, running into numerous offsides. Bostrum broke through and pulled Goalie Connell far out of his cage to stop a shot. Shields drew a penalty for tripping. Thompson broke through to follow his long shot, but Connell stopped the rebound.

Taffy Abel broke up a promising effort by Hec Kilrea and Coonie Wieland and a moment later Gardiner nearly missed a hard shot by Wally Kilrea. Touhy was penalized for checking Couture into the boards, but the Hawks were unable to score before he returned.

Finnigan of the Senators then woke up Gardiner with a shot from close in as the period ended without a score.

Play Speeds Up.

The second period produced more spirited play by both teams. Young Syd Howe made a brilliant effort that Gardiner flopped on the ice to save, but Bostrum was the real life saver when he stopped the follow-up shot while Chuck was six feet out in front of the net.

Bostrum shortly thereafter drew the first Hawk penalty, but the Senators were unable to produce during his absence. The Wieland-Finnigan-Heck Kilrea line made things interesting for Gardiner for several minutes and with Thompson, March, and Ripley on the ice at the same time things picked up considerably until Thompson was dumped hard at the blue line and had to retire to the dressing room with a badly cut leg.

No penalty resulted as the officials didn't seem to see the play. A few seconds later Holmes drew a penalty for tripping, but Ottawa failed to score before he returned. The Hawks

MALLARDS MAKE FINE NAVIGATORS FOR WILD GEESE

And Boost Many a Hunter's Temperature.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miller City, Ill., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The way the mallard ducks in this territory lead the wild Canadian geese around by their noses and take them on a trip through the air is nothing less than amazing to the goose hunter who is watching flying birds all day.

Standing in our blind in a wheatfield, we have seen flock after flock of honkers go by with one or more mallards acting as navigators. The fact that the ducks may pick up and lead away a few geese which show signs of working your decoys and the occasions when flocks of honkers come into the field, light, and stick around for an hour or two out of range are two entertaining factors of wild goose hunting which just about give the eager hunter heart failure.

Make Hunters Dance.

On three different occasions we have danced with excitement, fidgeted, and squirmed in our underground blind while flocks of birds have come in and enjoyed a delightful time in our field without paying any of us an intimate call. The other day twenty-one noisy honkers dropped into the cornfield on our right and stayed for nearly an hour. During that hour you could have seen a number of "peeping Toms" warily poking their heads out of the blinds and gazing long at the contented birds.

Later a flock of eighteen skidded into the wheatfield for an afternoon snack of green stuff. For more than an hour we spied on this big flock which never did give us a shot. And the plot thickened when a single dropped among the decoys and after a short stay departed in safety.

However, the mallard pilots finally gave us a break. Three honkers wanted to come into the field. At least it looked that way, but they were following five mallards apparently headed for the Mississippi river and the ducks threatened to take the bigger birds right along with them.

Three Geese Return.

But just about the time we thought that geese had no minds of their own the three left the parade and came back to us, their sonorous awnk-awnk-awnk sending our temperature up ten degrees. After a circle down the field they swung close. Our hunting partner signaled "Let's go" and the two of us popped out of the depths of the blind like jumping jacks out of a box. A few thrilling seconds of shooting and we had three honkers in the bag. They weighed 6½, 8¼, and 9 pounds.

This week the airplane entered the goose hunting picture down here because Dr. John Protius of Chicago and George Fisher of Lake Forest dropped out of the sky in their plane and landed within walking distance of a goose blind. Aviators should plan on arriving in the goose country between the morning and evening flights of wild geese and ducks. If they don't they might have trouble dodging the long, crowded line made up of thousands of waterfowl which stages a thrilling parade after sunrise and shortly before sundown every day.

KABAT WON'T GO TO COAST; STAYS ON TRACK TEAM

Greg Kabat's invitation to play on Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr's all star east team was withdrawn yesterday when it became known that Wisconsin authorities would rather have the star guard compete in track this year.

According to conference ruling participation in the charity battle disqualifies an athlete from further Big Ten competition.

Bob Gonya, Purple tackle, accepted an invitation to go yesterday. Thus the squad with the exception of a replacement at guard due to Kabat's dropping out, stands complete. Hanley's eleventh man will be chosen this week.

KERR COMPLETES TEAM.

Hamilton, N. Y., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Andy Kerr, Colgate university football coach, announced today that Bob Rowe, Colgate full back, and Frank Jabionsky, Penn guard, had accepted invitations to play on the East squad, which meets a West team in the annual football game at San Francisco for the Shriners' hospital fund.

The two players now complete the squad. Others who will play on the eastern team are Bob Smith and Joe Hill, Colgate guards; Bart Viviano and Jose Martinez-Zorilla, Cornell; John Wilbur and Joe Crowley, Yale; Tom Gilbane and Frank Meadows, Brown, and Joe Zapustas, Fordham.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Jockey Johnny Gilbert today went into the lead as the rider having the most winners to his credit this year by scoring a double at Jefferson Park, which broke the tie that had existed between him and Hank Mills. Interest in the riding duel was divided with that in the comeback attempt of John J. Counghlin's Roguish Eye, which had last raced in 1928 when he lost by a head in the Futurity of that year.

Roguish Eye, now six, and making his first appearance since his two year old year, won the featured Algiers purse by six lengths in a gallop. It was the easiest kind of a victory and was counted a smart accomplishment for Trainer R. E. Heffern, who sent the son of Flittergold and Sly Wink to the post.

Second to the wire was Protractor, erstwhile winner of the Paumonok handicap and counted one of the best sprinters in training. The favorite, ridden by Mills, could not hold the pace of the fleet Roguish Eye, which ran under 107 pounds. The route was 6 furlongs. Protractor's best distance, but he proved no match for the Coughlin racer. Quatre Bras II. finished a length behind Protractor.

The order of finish after that was Skirl, Grand Prince and Nyack. Roguish Eye finished the six furlongs in 1:12. He returned $7.20 for $2.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Dec. 6.—A new system of race track betting will be introduced at the Agua Caliente meeting which will start on Christmas day. Officials of the jockey club today announced that they will guarantee $5,000 to any person picking the winners of the seven races on the opening day. The price of this "seven straight" special ticket will be $2.

If no person "sweeps the card," officials explained, the money will go into a pool and will become the prize on the second day of the meet. The pool may amount to $20,000 or $30,000 if no one picks the winners in three or four days. There is no limit to the proportions of the pool.

Although officials are enthusiastic about the system, originated by Shaun Gilmartin, Agua Caliente mutuel expert, handicappers and regular bettors frown upon the idea. A noted expert, who has been engaged as a handicapper for 14 years, searched through his files and discovered he swept the card only five times in this period of time.

KRONE DISCOVERS SOMETHING NEW IN WRESTLING!

Promoter Doc Krone, who always is looking for something new, claims that the forthcoming wrestling match between Joe Savoldi and Jim Clinkstock at the Rainbo Fronton next Monday offers a novel situation, which is:

"Can a good little football player beat a good big football player?"

The good doctor hastens to explain that in the dim, dim past Jim played football at Haskell institute. Savoldi played some football at Notre Dame, he added.

Savoldi is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds; Clinkstock towers 6 feet 6 inches into the atmosphere and bulks 242 pounds.

Temple Sees Silver Lining with Warner

It was no more than right, of course, that so generous a donor as Mr. Erny, however mixed his motives may have been, should be honored with the post of chairman of the football committee, and his enterprise in hiring Pop Warner, with his proven boxoffice power, will command the respect of practical men.

Everything Will Be Fine.

And now if the captious will indulge in the sordid notion that the Temple football players henceforth will be asked to die for dear old Charlie Erny, the real estate exploiter, let it be remembered that Temple is one of the schools at which they did not die for nothing. Temple has scholarships for football players, and if it be objected that a mere scholarship is not enough pay, well then, says who? There is no football players' union, and under a system of individual bargaining they take what they can get.

One other objection occurs which doubtless will be waived when weighed against the great good which is promised by Pop Warner's coming to Temple. The school was founded in 1884 by the Rev. Russell H. Conwell, a clergyman who was famous in a small way for having delivered 10,000 times a sermon called "Acres of Diamonds." This was Dr. Conwell's way of expounding the idea that a rolling stone gathers no moss, and so much repetition might suggest that he favored the notion.

Mr. Warner has been rather bouncy, however, with a restless record of service at Carlisle, Georgia, Cornell, Carlisle again, Pitt, Stanford, and now, Temple. Mr. Warner has gathered him quite a mess of moss on his travels, but this is an urgent case and the founding father's favorite theme is not repudiated but only suspended for the period of the emergency.

BRUINS, 2; AMERICANS, 0

Boston, Mass., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins had a terrific struggle overcoming the New York Americans for an overtime 2 to 0 victory tonight at the Boston Garden.

The Americans played their usually sound defensive game and for 62 minutes the Bruins were held at bay. The first score came after two minutes of speedy play in the extra session and was provided by Nels Stewart, with the assistance of his wings, Marty Barry and Dit Clapper. The other Boston tally was somewhat of a gift for the Americans gambled with a five man attack to force over a tally and all of them were trapped in Boston ice when a loose puck was captured by Joe Lamb, who encountered no opposition during his successful solo rush. LEVINSKY AND CARNERA TO END TRAINING TODAY

Primo Plans Defensive Fight Against King.

Primo Carnera and King Levinsky will finish training today for their 10 round bout at the Chicago Stadium Friday night. Carnera expects to box eight rounds at the Arcade gymnasium and Levinsky may spar as many at George Trafton's place.

Carnera worked six rounds yesterday, two each with Harold Scarney, Lee Kennedy and Jack Robinson. He floored Robinson twice and knocked him into the ropes. Manny Seaman, former trainer of Benny Leonard, who is in the same capacity for Primo, instructed all three sparring partners to emulate the tactics of Levinsky and they unleashed wild swings to the huge fellow's head throughout the workout.

Carnera indicates that he will be on the defensive against Levinsky, stepping from King's swings or blocking the blows with his arms, then countering with inside punches to the head.

The King Drops Two Partners.

Levinsky sparred three rounds yesterday, one each with Tom Jones, Ed Wills and Jackie Williams. He dropped Jones and Williams and staggered Wills. Throughout his drills King has been concentrating on a two handed attack to the body and head of his spar mates. This method of fighting will give Levinsky an excellent chance to avenge the previous defeat by Carnera. The question asked by observers is: Can Levinsky continue this style of battling for 10 rounds against Carnera?

This second contest between Carnera and Levinsky is one of the most important heavyweight matches presented this year. It is a case of make or break for Levinsky, who has an opportunity to reëstablish himself. Carnera must win if he hopes to break into the heavyweight fight attractions being arranged for world's fair year in Chicago next summer.

Stuhley Meets Terry.

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., boxer, will receive a test in an eight round supporting match against Young Terry of Trenton, N. J. His manager, Eddie Stanton, believes Stubley is ready for middleweights of the first flight following 10 straight victories in Chicago. Stanton has offered to sign for six contests at the tadium if Stuhby wins from Terry, the final match to be for the title.

Some of the best army and navy boxers will participate in a show at Diversey armory, 1339 Diversey boulevard, tonight in honor of Judge R. J. Dunne, who is athletic head of the 33d division of the Illinois National Guard. Gen. Roy D. Keehn and his staff will attend. Maj. James U. Sammis and Lieut. Charles H. Weber are heads of the arrangements committee.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, the Rumson, N. J., rocker, knocked out the giant New York Italian, Arthur De Kuh, after a minute and 24 seconds of the first round of their scheduled ten round fight tonight to the boos of a crowd of 6,000. Walker spotted his opponent 48 pounds, weighing in at 175.

A solid right to De Kuh's face was the beginning of the end, but Walker knocked him down four times with as many right punches before the Italian stayed down.

The ponderous De Kuh lumbered out of his corner to slip a left hook over to Walker's head as the bout opened, and that was the only blow the New Yorker landed. De Kuh went down for a nine count twice and was up a third time, after seven seconds, only to have the former welter and middleweight champion of the world put him away for the night with a right uppercut.

Indiana Wins Opener from Wabash, 22-21

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Indiana university defeated Wabash college, 22 to 21, in the opening basketball game of the season for both teams tonight. Holding its one point lead from the half, Indiana checked a burst of speed unleashed by the Wabash sophomore quintet in the closing minutes and held possession of the ball as the game ended.

It was a rough, hard fought game all the way, with neither team leading by more than five points at any time. The final moments of the game witnessed a scoring duel between Glenden Hodson of Amo, Indiana forward, and Mason, Wabash guard. Hodson was high point scorer, with five goals and three free throws, while Mason led Wabash with two goals and four free throws.

With the score 22 to 19 against his team in the closing moments Mason sank two free throws in succession, making the count 22 to 21. Both teams scrambled for the ball as the gun sounded, with Indiana driving down the floor.

Hodson's goal under the net gave Indiana an 11 to 10 lead at the intermission after Wabash had led most of the way. Mason scored first on a free throw when the game was three minutes old and followed with a field goal shortly thereafter. A free throw by Hoffar and a goal by Heavenridge sent Indiana into a 3 to 3 tie. From then on the lead seesawed back and forth until the half ended. Thirty-five hundred fans saw the game.

Thompson returned to the ice in the third period which started with a hearty attack by Cook, Jenkins, and McFadyen. Cook had a wide open cage, but the puck was rolling and he couldn't flatten it in time to shoot. Holmes was close and Finnigan had to hold to save the goal, for which he drew a penalty.

Before he returned to the ice Hec Kilrea was penalized for shooting the puck into the crowd and the Hawks put in five forwards in an effort to score. This produced plenty of excitement but no score. A few seconds after the Senators returned to full strength Alec Smith drew a penalty and Goalie Connell never saw as many pucks in his life as he did within the next two minutes. He managed to stop them all, however.

With seconds of the regulation game to go, Bostrum, then March, drew penalties and were in the coop with two minute sto serve as the game went into overtime.

INFLUENZA KEEPS MAX CAREY FROM MINORS' MEETING

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Manager Max Carey of the Brooklyn National league baseball club was taken to St. Catherines hospital last night suffering from a severe attack of influenza. Physicians today said Carey had spent a comfortable night and is expected to be in good condition within a week.

Carey, who has been conferring with Dodger officials on plans for the 1933 season, planned to attend the annual minor league meeting at Columbus, O.

NAVY RETAINS RIP MILLER AND HIS ASSISTANTS

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The Naval academy today formally announced that Edgar E. (Rip) Miller had been reengaged as head football coach for next season and that he again will be assisted by Christy Flanagan as back field coach and Johnny O'Brien as line coach. All are former players at Notre Dame. It will be Miller's third season as head coach.

While the naval academy team has just finished a poor season, in which it won two games, tied one, and lost six, the feeling here is that Miller and his helpers did as well as could be expected with the limited and inexperienced material available. Better results are expected next season.

Lisle Junior College Five Meets Chicago Normal

COUNTED OUT

RAY EDDY.

Eddy, Purdue Basket Star, Lost to Team

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Purdue's hope of successfully defending its Big Ten basketball championship was handed a jolt this afternoon when Ray Eddy, veteran forward, slipped and fell while carrying out ashes at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house and severed all of the muscles and tendons in his right lower arm about four inches above the wrist.

Eddy was taken to a local hospital, where Dr. Gordon A. Thomas, team physician, succeeded in suturing all of the muscles and tendons after nearly two hours in the operating room. He expressed the hope that Eddy might be able to regain the use of his hand, but said it was doubtful whether he would ever be able to play basketball again.

A member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity, Eddy has been paying part of his expenses through school by taking care of the furnace in the fraternity house. After lunch this noon he cleaned out the incinerator, which contained broken crockery. While carrying the ashes out he slipped on the steps leading out of the basement and fell headlong on the débris, cutting his arm to the bone on the under side.

Eddy's loss is a severe blow to the Boilermakers. For the last two seasons he has been one of the most consistent scorers for Purdue. Last season he averaged nearly eight points during the conference season, scoring 94 points in 12 games.

Eddy comes from Columbus, Ind., where he was a high school basketball star.

CARAS UPSETS KELLY IN POCKET CUE TOURNAMENT

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Young Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., scored the first upset in the world's pocket billiard championship tournament tonight, defeating George Kelly of Philadelphia, runner up in 1931, 125 to 92, in 19 innings.

Caras' victory put him in a tie for the lead with Ralph Greenleaf of New York, defending champion; Bennie Allen of Kansas City, and Pasquale Natalle of Chicago, each with one victory and no defeats.

Greenleaf opened the tournament with a victory over James Mills of San Jose, Cal., last night, while Natalle defeated Frank Taberski of Schenectady, 125 to 65, and Allen conquered Walter Franklin of Kansas City, 125 to 74, in this afternoon's tests.

Erwin Rudolph of Chicago and Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia will make their first appearances in the current tournament in tomorrow afternoon's matches. Rudolph will play Mills, while Ponzi tackles Taberski. The night match will send Greenleaf against Franklin.

OPERATION ON GELBERT, CARDS' STAR, NOT NEEDED

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Physicians today announced that an operation on Charley Gelbert, St. Louis Cardinals shortstop, will not be performed. Gelbert, who accidentally shot himself in the leg while hunting, will be able to play again next spring, doctors said.

"My recovery will be slow because of the natural healing process," Gelbert said, "but they tell me that I really will get better, and that is the big thing." Gelbert will remain in the hospital over Christmas.

Coaches for Every Vacancy in Flood of Grid Rumors

One was that Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern was one of the candidates for the post left vacant by Glenn [Pop] Warner at Stanford. Although the report concerning Hanley was heard long before Warner announced his resignation, the Northwestern coach refused to discuss it beyond the point that he didn't know much about it. However, it was pointed out that Hanley, along with Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate would be in the Stanford vicinity Jan. 2 for the east-west charity football battle and would negotiate then, if at all, with Stanford.

Veenker, Page Mentioned.

Another report was that George Veenker, named to succeed Thomas Nelson Metcalfe, A. A. Stagg's successor at the University of Chicago, as athletic director at Iowa State would remain at Ames. Veenker had been mentioned as a leading candidate for the Chicago football job.

A third was that Pat Page would be Chicago's next head football coach. Page, one of Chicago's greatest football and baseball stars in his college days, was silent on the report, although he was considered the logical choice next to Veenker.

Still another report was that Jimmy Phelan, Washington coach, had applied for the Maroon position. Phelan coached Purdue to a Big Ten championship in 1929, leaving right after that season for Washington.

DENY FROSH UPRISING.

Palo Alto, Cal., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Denials of a reported exodus of Stanford freshmen football players flew thick and fast today, and out of the barrage of verbal and written statements came the first definite public recommendation of a successor to Coach Glenn S. Warner, who resigned yesterday.

Members of the first year team issued a statement, supposed to represent all players, denying any intention to transfer to Temple university, Philadelphia, where Warner is under contract. In the statement the freshmen players recommended the appointments of C. E. [Tiny] Thornhill and Ernie Nevers as co-coaches to succeed Warner.

Eleven Years at Stanford.

Thornhill has been assistant coach at Stanford for the last eleven years, preceding Warner by two years to lay the groundwork for his chief. Nevers, Stanford's All-American full back of 1925 and developed by Warner, became an assistant coach here last season after having coached and played with the Chicago Cardinals, professional team.

The board of athletic control will meet Thursday with selection of a successor to Warner as the chief order of business. Graduate Manager Alfred Masters said there were no actual applicants to his knowledge. Among the candidates mentioned through the press are Andy Kerr of Colgate, Jock Sutherland of Pittsburgh, Clipper Smith of Santa Clara, Dick Hanley of Northwestern, all in addition to the present assistant coaches, Thornhill and Nevers.

to Los Angeles, where Notre Dame plays Southern California on Saturday.

Brancheau, afraid that he would not be permitted to play Saturday, kept his illness a secret until a teammate discovered him in his berth too ill to get up. Coach Hunk Anderson had Brancheau moved to a drawing room.

Goes to Hospital.

An ambulance has been ordered by the team physician, Dr. Bernard Kamn, to meet the train upon its arrival in Tucson, Ariz., where the team will work out tomorrow and Thursday. Brancheau will be taken to a hospital at Tucson.

The other players—Devore, Kurth, Banas, Melinkovich, and Robinson, who have been on the sick list—have shown improvement. Melinkovich and Robinson may work out tomorrow, but the other three have been ordered to rest until Thursday, at which time Anderson will hold the first strenuous workout since the Army game.

The train was stopped at Bucklin, Kas., this morning, where mass was celebrated by the team chaplin. At each stop large crowds have greeted the squad. Shaune Rue, the Irish terrier mascot, has been the center of attention at these stops.

The squad arrives at Tucson tomorrow at 8:15 a. m. After mass and breakfast on the train, it will go directly to the practice field.

Three More Prep Fives Enter Stagg Tournament

Acceptances from three more high school basketball teams received by Nels Norgen, who is directing the University of Chicago's third annual Christmas week interscholastic, yesterday brought the entry to 31, leaving only one vacancy in the bracket of 32. The new entrants are Morgan Park, La Grange and York Community.

Suspend Steele for Sixty Days for Fouling Lewis

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The New York state athletic commission today suspended Ray Steele, who fouled Strangler Lewis in a wrestling match last night, for 60 days. Renato Gardini and John Ezko, also wrestlers, who leaped into the ring after the foul, were suspended indefinitely by the board.

Because he had no license of any kind to revoke, the board could not punish Tom Marvin, another wrestler, who connected with a hard right to Jack Curley's chin during the excitement in the ring. Curley, wrestling promoter, was knocked out by the blow.

Babe Ruth, the Hunter, Gets His Vitamins

New Bern, N. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, who packs a heavy wallop on the baseball diamond, has come to this section of North Carolina to hunt—packing a heavy appetite.

Ruth arrived at Camp Bryan near here Saturday and immediately started out, in company with several friends, in search of game. Up at 7 a. m., he went deer hunting, but that failed to produce results so he came back in several hours, changed from deer hunting clothes to bird hunting clothes and returned with a quota of doves and two turkeys.

Ruth Has "Biggest Appetite."

Davis says Ruth is always ready for a meal and has about "the biggest appetite" of any man he ever cooked for."

Take Sunday for instance, Davis said. The menu consisted of roast turkey—that Ruth had shot—roast ham, boiled ham, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, collards, cornbread, toast, coffee, cake, and pie.

"Mr. Ruth will be hungry for dinner," Davis said as he prepared the meal. "He didn't eat much breakfast—only two eggs when he usually eats five or six—and two or three links of sausage and I don't know how much bacon and about a loaf of bread made up into toast."

The Babe Is a Tree Climber.

Ruth, Davis said, is an inveterate tree climber—it's one of his favorite outdoor sports. Although the baseball player sits up until midnight joking and swapping yarns about the campfire, he's always up at 7 a. m. and ready for a hunt, the cook added.

Ruth now sleeps in a comfortable bed at the camp. He used to sleep in a wall bunk, but one night it crumpled under his weight. He tore it down and put a store bought bed in its place.

Cubs Shop for Left Hander at Minor Meeting will not be 23 years old until February.

Having heard of the Cubs' eagerness to acquire a lefty several nabobs from the high minors went into huddles with the Chicago officials but it is not believed the latter will go very far with such negotiations unless their plans to get Brandt or a star of equal brilliance collapse.

In discussing the right handed contingent of the Cubs' 1933 pitching staff on his arrival here today, Manager Grimm said that he contemplates no changes among the better known performers unless a very desirable trade positively requires relinquishment.

"Pat Malone is a fixture in my present plans and I am sure he will report in better condition than he has in recent years," said Grimm. "He is in Florida now working hard to keep down his weight, and I am counting on him for a big comeback."

Grimes Likely to Remain.

When asked about what disposal would be made of Burleigh Grimes, Grimm said he would be with the club unless some one named him in a deal. Grimes' health and temper are said to have improved greatly since an operation for appendicitis several weeks ago. The veteran sent word to the club that he expects to return in form after his mediocre work last season.

It has not been definitely decided that the Cubs will go along with one coach despite the release of Charley O'Leary. No announcement will be made, however, until the joint meeting of the majors decides whether coaches are to be incouded in the 23 player limit. It is possible Johnny Schulte, former Cub catcher, will go to the coast as a spring training coach.

On being informed that he was out of a job, O'Leary came here and started looking for a new connection. It is probable that he will catch on some place, but if he doesn't it will be the first season in the present century that he hasn't had a baseball job. His long career has included participation in ten world series.

Grimm Meets McCarthy.

Among the many popular major league figures here is Joe McCarthy, manager of the world champion Yankees. We happened to be with Manager Grimm when he encountered Joe for the first time since the world series. It was noted that nothing was said about the series. Joe inquired about his assistant, Jim Burke, a fellow townsman of Grimm's. Charley didn't ask about anybody, especially fellows named Ruth and Gehrig.

The White Sox haven't had a representative here so far. Johnny Butler thought he was a White Sock when he came here but since his arrival, he says, he has heard rumors he has been bounced. It is reported that Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Sox, will arrive tomorrow by airplane. It was said that Owner Lou Comiskey might attend, but that if he does he will come by train.

BEARS GO BACK TO WORK TODAY FOR PACKER GAME

The Chicago Bears, contenders for the National Professional Football league championship, will resume practice today for their game against the Green Bay Packers at Wrigley field on Sunday. The Bears rested Monday and yesterday, Coach Ralph Jones having ordered a respite in the intensive drill for the first time this season when he sensed a possibility of the squad going stale before Sunday's game.

The Green Bay game will determine the Bears' standing in the final standings. Victory will enable them to tie the Portsmouth Spartans for the championship. The importance of the game has resulted in a tenseness among the players that led to apprehension on the part of the club authorities. All players are in good condition and will enter the game free from injury for the first time in several weeks.

Plan New Attack.

Today's drill will be devoted to perfecting a new offensive, planned but withheld in the New York Giant game last Sunday. The new attack will be built around Bull Doehring, sand lot sensation from Milwaukee, whose 60 yard pass to Luke Johnsos enabled the Bears to tie Portsmouth, conqueror of Green Bay, two weeks ago.

Green Bay defeated the Cardinals in its last Chicago appearance by a series of simple but effectively executed and strategically played passes. This same offense worked to an advantage against eastern clubs prior to the Portsmouth game last Sunday and will be the Packers' chief weapon again on Sunday, in all probability. With Jones planning a counter aerial offensive, prospects are almost exclusively for an open game.

Advance Sale Big.

The importance of the game to both teams, plus the natural rivalry between Green Bay and every other team in the league, has heightened interest in football circles and Bear attachés yesterday reported the biggest advance sale since Red Grange's professional debut on Thanksgiving day of 1925.

It will be the 26th meeting between the two teams. The Packers, National league champions for three years running, have won 12 of the preceding 25 games and the Bears have been victorious nine times. Four games have resulted in ties. The Packers have scored 190 points to the Bears' 156 since the series started in 1921.

Since Jones took over the Bears in 1930 the teams have met eight times. The Packers have won five games, and one has been a tie.

Scores Are Small.

Scores between the two have been very close for the last two years, neither team having scored more than a touchdown and an extra point in any one game since 1930. The record follows:

1923—Bears, 3; Packers, 0.
1924—Packers, 5; Bears, 0. Bears, 3; Packers, 0.
1925—Packers, 14; Bears, 0. Bears, 21; Packers, 0.
1926—Bears, 8; Packers, 6. Bears, 19; Packers, 13. Bears, 3; Packers, 3.
1927—Bears, 7; Packers, 6. Bears, 14; Packers, 6.
1928—Bears, 12; Packers, 12. Packers, 16; Bears, 6. Packers, 6; Bears, 0.
1929—Packers, 23; Bears, 0. Packers, 14; Bears, 0. Packers, 25; Bears, 0.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 6.—Bond prices exhibited a general upward trend today in increased trading.

Reflecting anticipation of favorable terms on the new issue of treasury securities, announcement of which is expected overnight, United States government issues were firm after yesterday's weakness. Principle strength was in the note issues, due in four years, namely, the 4½ year 3s and the 5 year 3½s. Long term bonds also shared in the improvement.

Speculative Liens Up.

A tone of moderate improvement was evident elsewhere in the bond market. In speculative bonds this was largely sympathetic with a morning rally in the stock market. In high grade corporation issues, it marked a continuance of the uptrend which has been in progress for some weeks.

An exception to the improvement in speculative bonds was noted in issues of International Telephone, which dropped from 1 to 4 points on announcement that a move has been made to confiscate property of the company in Spain.

Foreign Issues Rise.

General improvement occurred in foreign bonds, including both speculative issues and high grades which sell largely on a money basis. Of the former class, Germans and Argentines recovered moderately. Among high grade foreign government loans to improve were issues of Belgium, France, and British 5½s.

Speculative rail bonds to rally included such issues as Baltimore and Ohio stamped 4½s, due 1933; bonds of the Canadian National railways, issues of Chicago and North Western, of Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Southern Railway, and others.

The better tone in best quality utility bonds included issues of Consolidated Gas of New York, Northern Ohio Traction and Light, Northern States Power, Union Electric Light and Power 5s, and others.

Sales for the six months to Sept. 30, 1932, were $10,937,000 and net loss was $1,302,000. For the corresponding 1931 period sales were $17,062,000 and net loss was $1,545,000. The improved ratio between sales and net results is indicative of the strides made by the company in reducing expenses.

Sales for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1932, were $32,247,000, against $47,399,000 for the preceding year and $64,181,000 for the March 31, 1930, year. Net loss for the latest fiscal year was $3,036,000, against net income of $1,411,000, or 11 cents per common share, for the March 31, 1931, year. Net income for the March 31, 1930, year was $6,041,000, against $2,928,000 for the preceding year.

On Sept. 30, 1932, current assets were $24,044,000 and current liabilities were $2,078,000. Working capital was $21,966,000, against $26,125,000 the year before and $31,588,000 on March 31, 1930. The decline is the result of operating losses and purchase of its own bonds.

There are $18,183,000 of bonds outstanding. There are also 156,951 shares of 7 per cent first preferred, 18,554 shares of 8 per cent second preferred, and 1,299,179 shares of no par common. Both classes of preferred (par $100) are cumulative. Dividends on preferred shares due Jan. 1, 1932, were omitted.

The company operates under rather heavy fixed charges in the maintenance of its sales force. It appears that any marked upturn in sales will have a await improvement in general conditions. The company is a leader in its line. It is in a good financial position. It has instituted economies which should enable it to earn a profit on a smaller volume than it has heretofore.

Associated Gas, Electric Omits Preferred Dividend

Associated Gas and Electric company, which earlier this year placed the $6 preferred stock on a semi-annual dividend basis, today announced the dividend due Dec. 1 was omitted.

Remington Rand, Inc.

Will you furnish me with information on Remington Rand?—Mrs. N. R.

Remington Rand, Inc., is one of the leading producers of office equipment. Typewriter (Remington) and filing equipment divisions normally contribute about 75 per cent of total sales. About one-third of sales is foreign. Foreign plants are in Canada, England, Germany, and France.

The greater part of sales is by the company's own salesmen. Although maintenance of a sales force to sell directly to the consumer is costly, it is claimed that the system is more effective than dealing through jobbers.

Sales for the six months to Sept. 30, 1932, were $10,937,000 and net loss was $1,302,000. For the corresponding 1931 period sales were $17,062,000 and net loss was $1,545,000. The improved ratio between sales and net results is indicative of the strides made by the company in reducing expenses.

LATEST MODEL OF FARM RELIEF IS EXPLAINED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—Some time this week, with the special blessing of President Elect Roosevelt, the Democrats in congress will start to the assistance of the American farmer with the latest model of "agricultural relief"—the domestic allotment plan.

M. L. Wilson of Montana, author of the plan; Henry A. Wallace, Des Moines, Ia., farm editor and possible choice for the next secretary of agriculture, and Prof. Raymond Moley, Gov. Roosevelt's economic adviser, have been conferring with Representative Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house agricultural committee, and other members of congress in a final effort to whip the bill into shape.

Problem of Collection.

The principal point at issue at the present time concerns just where and how the "tariff adjustment charge" called for in the Wilson plan shall be imposed. Under the original plan it would be collected from the manufacturer, processor, or distributor of the farm commodity concerned.

There has been some talk, however, as to broadening the base of collection and perhaps strengthening the power of assessment, in which case the various charges would become so many excise taxes on food products.

The Wilson plan is not wholly new to congress, since it was embodied in a bill introduced by Senator Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] just before the close of the last session. It is, in effect, an amendment to the farm marketing act, giving to the federal farm board, in addition to its stabilizing powers, the new power of the allotment.

Commodity Must Be Low.

In order to set the allotment plan in motion the board would first find that the price of a farm commodity was unduly low; it would then obtain in some fashion, not prescribed, the votes of 60 per cent of the producers of that commodity in favor of the plan. The next step would be for the board to fix a "tariff adjustment charge" sufficient—in the words of the bill—to make the average return to the producers on that part of such commodity domestically consumed, including tariff benefits, as nearly as possible equal to the pre-war purchasing power.

The charge, however, would not be greater than the tariff on the commodity in question or than five cents on cotton.

It is this charge which would be levied on that portion of the commodity processed or distributed domestically. On products exported the charge, if levied, would be refunded.

Contract with Producers.

The farm board would set up state, county, and local allotment committees, empowered to enter into a contract with producers in which the farmer, if he chooses, might promise to do one of three things according to the need of the situation: To promise not to increase his production above a 5 year average, to promise to cut his production not more than 10 per cent, to promise to put lands into other crops or allow them to lie fallow.

As contemplated under the plan, the farm board would determine what proportion of a certain crop was domestically required. On the basis of that estimate state estimates of the proportion domestically required and of the surplus would be figured, state allotments of the total crop being figured according to each state's share of the national production over a period of years. The same would be done for the county, and lastly for the individual farm.

As the final step would come the distribution of the money gathered in through the tariff adjustment charges. Each farmer who had entered into a contract and had kept it to the satisfaction of the allotment committee would receive a "tariff benefit" on each unit of his product falling within the proportion of his product required for domestic consumption.

Distribution of Fund.

The whole of the fund built up out of the adjustment charges would be thus distributed, less a small administrative deduction. In the case of wheat, hogs, and tobacco, the charge to the processors, it is expected, would amount to the tariff rates on these products—that is, 42 cents on wheat, 5 cents on hogs, and 5 cents on tobacco. Cotton would be levied on at the rate of 5 cents per pound.

With a majority in the house and many sympathizers on the Republican side of the aisle in both houses, the Democrats are not counting on trouble in getting their bill through congress.

They have already been promised by Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rad. Rep., N. Y.] the help of the house radical bloc. Despite the fact that the measure would raise prices on the very food products on which even the conservatives have refused to levy a sales tax, the La Guardia group has said it would go along, on the ground that the excise taxes would be returned to the grower.

Directors of the Utilities Power and Light corporation late yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the $7 preferred stock, payable Jan. 8 to holders of record Dec. 16.

U. S. to Issue 600 Millions Exempt Notes

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The treasury is to undertake at least $600,000,000 of new financing to meet December payments.

Secretary Mills announced tonight subscriptions would be taken for $350,000,000 or more in four year 2¾ per cent notes and $250,000,000 or more in one year certificates of indebtedness bearing ¾ per cent interest.

The rate of interest on the securities reflected the easy money rates now prevailing and was said by officials to be the lowest on that class of securities in recent years.

To Pay Maturing Notes.

The money derived from the sale will be used in paying $504,000,000 in 1 year 3¼ per cent notes which mature on Dec. 15, and $100,000,000 interest on the public debt due that day.

The treasury notes will be dated Dec. 15, and mature on Dec. 15, 1936, while the certificates will mature on Dec. 15, 1933. The notes and certificates will be exempt from all taxation both as to principal and interest, except estate and inheritance taxes.

Secretary Mills said that subscriptions for the notes for which the maturing notes are offered in payment would be given preferred allotment up to not less than $210,000,000 and for the certificates up to not less than $150,000,000.

Year's Total Three Billions.

The $600,000,000 issue will bring to $3,100,000,000 the amount of securities issued by the government in the present fiscal year starting last July 1. On Aug. 1 it sold two note issues totaling $710,000,000, while on Sept. 15 it floated certificates and note issues amounting to $1,285,000,000. On Oct. 15 it sold $508,000,000 worth of notes.

Although the December financing takes care of the government's immediate needs it faces the necessity of retiring $1,450,000,000 more of securities before the end of the fiscal year next June 30.

In February $144,000,000 of one year certificates come due, with $600,000,000 in the same sort of paper maturing on March 15. The same day the "baby" bonds bearing 2 per cent interest and issued for the committee directing President Hoover's anti-hoarding drive must be paid. Only $33,000,000 of the bonds were sold. In May $239,000,000 of certificates fall due, and on June 15 another batch of the same kind of securities amounting to $374,000,000 matures.

ENGLAND TO SHIP $17,500,000 MORE GOLD HERE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 6.—With the arrival here today of $5,940,000 gold from England, the first part of shipments aggregating about $15,000,000 that were dispatched last week, it was announced in London that additional shipments of £3,500,000 (about $17,500,000) were being sent tonight and tomorrow on the steamships Lafayette and Berengaria.

As in previous consignments, the latest ones are reported to be for the account of continental European central banks, representing transfers of gold previously earmarked at the Bank of England and sent here now to replenish the depleted dollar balances of these institutions.

In Wall street the explanation was accepted with a grain of salt. Although it was recognized that the weakness of Dutch, Swiss, and French exchanges in terms of the dollar warranted transfers to this market for support of these exchanges, the belief persisted in some quarters that at least part of the gold might be for the account of the Bank of England in preparation for the December war debts payment.

Charges Move to 'Muscle In' on Receiver

Charges that George Henry Payne, said to be a member of the New York tax commission, is attempting to "muscle into" the receivership proceedings of the $30,000,000 Trustees System Service corporation, were made before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson here yesterday.

The charges were contained in a motion by Attorney Robert N. Golding, representing Frank O. Birney, and Clyde L. Day, co-receivers, appointed by the court, who asked that the "Payne protective committee" be outlawed and declared inimical to the litigation here. Judge Wilkerson granted the motion after hearing the evidence.

Seeks to Be Receiver.

When the case was first placed in the hands of the receivers, Attorney William Kleinman of Chicago, appeared before Judge Wilkerson and showed a telegram from Attorney Gustavus Rogers, representing Payne, who asked to be made a part of the proceedings, claiming to represent creditors who had $10,000,000 due them.

At the time Judge Wilkerson granted the motion, which consisted in sending Payne a record of all proceedings here and making him part of the litigation here on the creditors' side. Attorney Kleinman in that action merely acted as a go-between and had nothing to do with Payne, it was pointed out yesterday.

Later, Attorney Golding informed Judge Wilkerson. Attorney Golding learned that Payne had had himself appointed as co-receiver to three subsidiaries in Pennsylvania, which were solvent and did not need to go into receivership, and had also attempted to have himself appointed to three other subsidiaries in New Jersey.

Charges a Racket.

"It's a racket," Golding asserted in denouncing the actions. "I was approached by Rogers who attempted to get me to allow Payne to become a co-receiver here.

"They are after the fees included in receivership proceedings, and Payne does not represent $10,000,000 in creditors, as he says, but possibly $25,000. Rogers even held out prospects to me that I might be hired in the Bethlehem Steel company litigation, if I got him 'in' here. I am going to seek his disbarrment in New York."

PLANE TO BE CHEAPEST MODE OF TRAVEL: CORD; HOYT SUPPLANTS COHU

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—E. L. Cord, automobile manufacturer who stirred the financial world with his battle for control of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware, tonight predicted that within the next few years air travel would be the cheapest form of transportation available—not barring the motor bus.

The only menace he sees to a "terrific development" of aviation, he said, is premature regulation by the interstate commerce commission.

"The art of flying," he said, "is too young to be tied down by regulation, as the railroads have been. That is the only thing I fear—that they will regulate us and tell us how much to charge. That will stifle competition and retard progress.

In declaring he was "certain" that air travel would be the cheapest form of transportation ever known, Cord said one of the reasons would be the low maintenance cost. He declared there were relatively few moving parts in an airplane, the only parts subject to wear being the aeilerons, the tail pieces, and the motor.

Cord declined to discuss his recent proxy battle with La Motte T. Cohu, who resigned today as president of Aviation corporation. He declined to say whether the reorganization of the board of directors or the replacement of Cohu by Richard F. Hoyt marked a business "victory" for him.

"Everything is very harmonious," he said. "There is no spirit of winning, no spirit of conflict."

An Important Supplement to the "WETSEL OUTLOOK" soon to be released

Changes in the law requiring action by investors and traders before December 31, 1932, will be clearly outlined and analyzed in a way that will enable you to save money.

The new 1932 Federal Income Tax Law contains radical changes, many of which affect investors and traders.

The new law strictly limits the amount and in some cases entirely prohibits the deduction of losses resulting from the sale of securities on Income Tax Returns for the year 1932. You must take whatever action it is possible to take before December 31, 1932, in order to minimize your taxes. Exactly WHAT action you can safely take is not known at this time, because no one can say with certainty just how the government will interpret the more intricate changes in the law. This will be known only when the official regulations are issued by the government.

You can be among the first to receive this information without any obligation on your part by listing your name with us.

We have commissioned Joseph J. Mitchell, C. P. In this bulletin there will be outlined all the important changes in the 1923 Federal Income Tax Law and how they affect the individual tax returns for 1932.

As we cannot tell at the moment just when the official regulations will be released, this supplement will be mailed out to our clients and those requesting the special number at the earliest opportunity. Only a sufficient number of copies of the tax bulletin will be printed to fill requests which are recorded in advance.

By filling in and mailing the coupon below, you will not only insure your receiving this vital information at the earliest possible moment, but you will also learn through the Wetself Outlook our latest views on the stock market and its action and obtain a practical demonstration of the kind of service which our clients know brings them advantages which they otherwise would not obtain.

STOCKS DRIVE UP ON STRENGTH OF GOOD NEWS

President's Message Helps Rally.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 6.—Speculative Wall street found President Hoover's message to congress "constructive" and signalized its appreciation by putting on a brisk stock market rally in the late afternoon dealings. Prices of some of the more important trading favorites were sent soaring as much as 4 and 5 points.

The range of activity continued narrow, however, about twenty issues accounting for nearly half the turnover.

In addition to the economy, sales tax and other recommendations of the President's message which the market community found "up its street," the bull element had the stimulating influence of news from abroad indicating that England may find means of meeting the December debt installment and at the same time prevent a further sharp break in sterling threatened by transfer of the huge funds involved.

Expect Better Rail Earnings.

A few bullish items also developed in the day's grist of trade news. One of these was estimates indicating that the November earnings figures of the railroads would show considerable improvement over the October figures in comparison with last year.

Moreover, traders evidently had come to the conclusion overnight that the prohibition outlook was not so hopeless as some pessimists had thought when news of the house's disappointing vote on the so-called Garner bill came over the wire yesterday. As one commentator expressed it today, the

Freight Cars for Molten Rosin or 109 Below Zero Described

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Strange new freight cars to carry molten rosin, to ship cold stuff 109 degrees below zero, and to put the food industry on wheels were described to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers today.

The "hot" cars are proposed, said R. C. Pierce of Chicago, to ship not only molten rosin but liquid asphalt without solidifying en route. There is no doubt, he added, that molten sulphur can be transported long distances, saving the labor of loading and unloading dry sulphur.

Factory on Wheels.

One car, the "newest thing in transportation," has been made to carry the 109 below zero stuff, solid carbon dioxide. It has a series of tank-like compartments, each with a foot of insulation.

Another new car is a "manufacturing plant on wheels for quick freezing" of perishable foods. It was described by L. K. Silcox of New York reporting on progress in railroad mechanical engineering. It is proposed, he said, to set such cars alongside packing plants, to load the freshly prepared perishables and let them solidify quickly in temperatures far below zero as the car races toward market.

Steel Developments Surprise.

Two "surprising" developments this year in the steel industry were reported by William A. Haven and William C. Buell Jr. of A. G. McKee & Co., Cleveland. Both have shown steel men how to cut costs and still make profits. One is intermittent operation of blast furnaces, often tried without success in prosperous times, now worked out successfully with "some surprising upsets in former accepted theories."

The other is "slow blowing" of furnaces, which means operating these enormously hot crucibles at less than their maximum capacity. At slowed down production the furnaces are not so efficient, but so many little savings in expense were discovered that the profits usually have outranked the losses.

Increase of steel profits by reducing costs were predicted as one of the roads out of the depression.

Use Heat for Cooking.

Using heat to cool homes in summer is so close to practical application about F. B. Broughton of the Gulf Refining company, Boston, described the process as the outlet which may "lift America's fuel industries out of the red."

Refrigeration is produced by a heat engine, in which the heat is transformed into the power that creates intense cold. Mr. Broughton said there are prospects that soon the same heating plant that keeps the home warm in winter can be used generally to cool it in summer. In office buildings, he added, one such plant is in successful operation in Los Angeles.

SANTA FE BOARD O.K.'S RAIL ORDER; VOTES DIVIDEND

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Santa Fe railroad directors have authorized the purchase of 26,434 tons of steel rails, President W. B. Storey announced today.

SPAIN'S REPLY IN PHONE FIGHT EXPECTED TODAY

MADRID, Dec. 6.—(AP)—It was generally expected in official quarters tonight that Spain would reply to the United States note on the telephone monopoly controversy tomorrow. In view of the firm stand taken by the United States that any revision of the contract should be agreeable to American interests involved, these quarters expected the note would be conciliatory.

CLOSED BANK'S BOARD FIGHTS $1,000,000 SUIT

Two Judges Among 15 Signing in Note.

Suit has been started in the Cook county Superior court by fifteen former directors of the defunct Home Bank and Trust company contesting the validity of a note for one million dollars which they signed in July, 1930, in favor of the National Bank of Republic, it was disclosed yesterday.

JUDGE E. K. JARECKI. [Moffett Photo.]

Included among the signers of the note are County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Circuit Court Judge Peter H. Schwabe, and W. A. Wieboldt, chairman of W. A. Wieboldt & Co., Chicago department store.

Deny Any Liability.

The defendants assert they signed the note at the request of George Woodruff, then chairman of the National Bank of Republic, with the assurance that they would assume no liability. The note was made as an outgrowth of the formation of the United American Trust and Savings bank in July, 1930, organized as successor bank to the Home Bank and Trust company.

The new bank was formed by Woodruff and a group of associates. It

WHEN THE FOREST MOVES TO TOWN

FROM THE FIRST blow of the ax, through the manufacture of lumber and on to the fashioning and distributing of countless wood products, credit helps all along the way.

From lumberman to sawyer, shipper, dealer and builder—to manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer—at each step, money is borrowed from banks and returned when the step is completed. Thus credit flows from bank to industry and back again, in an ever moving stream, as season follows season, as demand for credit diminishes here, increases there.

In every industry affecting the daily life of the nation, commercial banking plays an essential part. And the Continental Illinois National Bank, strategically located, is an important factor in mobilizing credit to serve American business.

WHEAT REACTS AFTER ADVANCE; CLOSE IS ¾C OFF

Corn Futures Drop to New Seasonal Lows.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The marked pessimistic feeling which has been so noticeable of late in grain circles was in the ascendancy yesterday, and bull news fell flat as a market influence. Wheat moved up ¾c early on the private crop estimates showing a decrease of around 4.5 per cent in the winter grain acreage as compared with last year, indicating a total of around 37,500,000 acres. The condition of 73.6 was the lowest on record, and caused considerable comment as it suggested a probable yield of around 436,000,000 bu, the smallest since 1925 and compared with 442,000,000 bu harvested this season, when it was far below normal.

Early strength in the stock market also had some effect, but as soon as the private crop reports were out of the way the market started downward, the break being accelerated by liquidation in corn. Prices dropped 1⅜c from the early high with May wheat touching 47⅜c on the break. The finish was about the bottom with net losses of ⅞@⅞c. December went to 3⅜c under May and closed at 43¾ @43⅞c, against 4c under on Monday while July was 47⅜@47⅝c.

Prohibition a Factor.

Defeat of the prohibition repeal bill in the house of representatives on Monday was given as one of the reasons for the selling movement in both the wheat and corn markets by traders, as rumors that it had passed had been a factor in causing a moderate upturn that day.

Taken as a whole the general run of the news was rather encouraging to traders who have been expressing bullish views, but the action of the wheat market during the day was greatly disappointing to them. The continued premium for American hard winter as compared with prices prevailing in other countries which prohibits any export business of consequence is regarded as one of the main factors in limiting upturns in the local market.

Supplies of imported wheat abroad are regarded as relatively light and foreigners continue to take Manitobas on a liberal scale. Export sales in all positions yesterday aggregated 750,000 to 1,000,000 bu, largely via Vancouver. Nothing was heard, however, regarding business in hard winters and even the Greek demand has been diverted to Canadian wheat, according to reports. Heretofore, Greece has been taking around 500,000 bu American wheat per month. Liverpool closed ¼ @⅝c per bu higher and Winnipeg was off ⅜@⅝c on a gold basis, while Buenos Aires declined ¼@⅝c for the day.

Liquidation in Corn.

Liquidation of a line of December corn through a commission house ran the market into stop loss orders and carried prices of 1@1½c from Monday's finish. May and July sold at a new low for the season. A good rally followed but the close was ⅝@¾c lower with December at 22⅜c; May, 27¼@27¼c, and July, 28⅜@28⅞c. Country offerings to arrive were the smallest in many weeks, while shipping sales aggregated 57,000 bu.

July oats sold at a new low for the season with corn, but trade was not large and a rally toward the last lifted the December ⅝c from the inside figure and made the close at the top at 24⅝c. The finish was ⅛c higher to ¾c lower, May being 17¼c and July, 17⅜@17½c. Rye was ⅝@1¼c lower with wheat. December finished at 28½c, and May at 32⅜c. Barley was more affected by the defeat of the prohibition repeal bill than other grains and closed 1⅞c lower with May at 32⅜c.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Coffee was firmer today on short covering from European and domestic trade sources, promoted by private advices that the Brazilian coffee council was opposed to a reduction in the export tax on coffee because loans from bankers have committed it to such a policy. No. 7 contracts opened 10 higher and closed 19 to 25 higher. Sales 1,000 bags. Santos opened 3 to 5 higher and closed 21 to 31 higher. Sales 28,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos, December, 9.50c; March, 8.51c; May, 8.22c; July, 8.06c; September, 7.89c. No. 7 prices follow:

PRICES OF HOGS DECLINE; CLOSE TO 54 YEAR LOWS

Supply Small; but Offers Exceed Demand.

The hog market had a serious sinking spell yesterday that threatened to carry the price level below the 54 year lows. Both the top and average prices at $3.35 and $3.20, respectively, were only 5c above the low point. Supplies were small for a December Tuesday, but the available offerings exceeded the demand enough to reverse the higher Monday trend. Prices slumped 10@20c, with light light and pigs off 25@35c in the absence of eastern demand.

Reports from the wholesale trade were not encouraging as far as prices were concerned, but supplies kept moving and there were fewer signs of the glut that overshadowed last week's trade. Price ranges were remarkably narrow again, two prices, $3.20 and $3.25, taking about 90 per cent of the receipts, with very few good grades below the inside figure. Combined receipts at the 11 markets yesterday at 84,000 compared with 99,000 a week ago, and with 122,000 a year ago. The two day total this week at 197,000 shows a decrease of 44,000 head compared with a week ago and is 116,000 smaller than a year ago.

New Lows in Cattle.

Pressure on cattle did not ease with the decrease in supplies yesterday. Further price depreciation brought a new array of lows. Weighty beeves suffered most on the break and were first to reach the new 21 year low level. Choice 1,152@1,170 lb long yearlings topped the market at $7.40, while 825@1,217 lb averages sold at $7.25. Only a very small portion of the supply was eligible to more than $6.75, with the bulk of sales at $4.75 @6.65.

Plain quality steers with fairly good flesh were obtained for local slaughter at $4.00@4.50, with inferior grades down to $2.50@3.00. In all cases yesterday yearlings fared best, and in some instances even showed a little activity. There was no dependable outlet for extremely heavy cattle lacking finish. Many of these were listed in the $5 column. Butcher stock continued draggy and weak. Country buyers have commenced marking time again, which has resulted in a "catch as catch can" trade for feeders.

Sheep Receipts Small.

Offerings in the sheep house yesterday were exceptionally small again, but with both cattle and hogs on the down grade the best salesmen could do was to hold lamb prices to a steady basis. The price level is 25@40c under the high point of last week. City butchers hand picked light and handy weight native lambs up to $6.25, the top price, while packers bought fed westerns at $6.10 and under. Several lots of extremely heavy lambs averaging 107@109 lbs were here yesterday and sold at $5.75. Aged ewes sold steady at $2.60 and yearlings were steady at $5.00. Country buyers showed some interest in feeding lambs around $5.25@5.35.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 10,464 cattle, 22,331 hogs, and 15,675 sheep the previous Wednesday, and 14,434 cattle, 32,503 hogs, and 30,441 sheep a year ago.
